THE DOWNHILL RUNNING POSITION

The Downhill running position pictured is an uncontrolled trip straight down the hill line. The lesson today illustrates the downhill running position. The skier should endeavor to learn the correct posture from the beginning and ski it well, as this basic position is carried forward into each subsequent lesson and is essential if one is to develop a technique.

In the development of this technique, greater emphasis has been placed on relaxing the body thus leaving most of the control of the turning to take place between the hips and skis. In addition, this new technique has, in fact, a reversing shoulder action which is subtle in appearance but dynamic in results. In the older techniques the arms and shoulders played an enormous part in the driving of the ski turns. However, the rotating of the arms and shoulders took too much time to get the necessary drive down to where the action takes place, particularly at the skis.

A weak race?

With the opening of the 1964 Winter Olympic Games in Innsbruck, Austria, much controversy has arisen concerning the statement that "Canada doesn't stand a chance to bring home a gold medal". Perhaps this statement reflects only the views of those people who consider Canada as having very little potential as far as Olympic Games material is concerned. They say Father Bauer's hockey team is too young and short of experience, but the team is out there trying. The idea that 'because the Canadian team may not win a gold medal in hockey only reflects the fact that Canada as a whole is worthless as far as hockey is concerned' is not the attitude that is going to build the initiative of these young players.

Although it is probably the most wonderful thing in the sports world to win a gold medal at the Olympics, the fact should also be recognized that all members of the Canadian team are of top calibre and this should make us proud. They are out trying to bring recognition to Canada, and each and everyone of them deserves well-earned praise.

I believe that our Olympic team, including figure skaters, skiers, sledders, as well as our hockey team, serves as a perfect example of a strong race of people. We cannot possibly believe that a nation who is able to sponsor a team of seventy athletes from all regions of Canada, bears its cheiens on a nation of weak people.

We cannot all be contenders for Olympic titles, but we can back, in full force, those who are and we can make them feel that we are proud of them, both winners and runners-up. We can give them cause to say "I'm from Canada, and I have a nation of people behind me," and they won't need to say "I'm sorry, Canada. I've let you down."

—LESLIE WILSON

Jolt to a friendship

After basking in the warm glow of an easy friendship with the United States in recent years, Canadians have been getting some rude jolts, as some of our government's policies have proved less than popular with our neighbor to the south.

One jolt came when the Canadian Wheat Board made its huge sale to Russia. This brought much concern. The U.S. outcry rang loud because Canadians were selling wheat to a Communist country at present market prices. Since Russia had suffered a crop failure, this would be a golden opportunity for the United States to sell her surplus wheat. The only drawback was that she was not willing to sell her wheat to Communist Russia for the present wheat prices. It would be of no use for the U.S. to raise her prices because she would have to compete with the low rain prices of the Canadians. This then created one of many unpopular relations between the two countries.

The situation with the S.I.U.—dictated to by American citizen Hal Banks—was just another raw spot in Canada-U.S. relations. An American had control of this Canadian trade union and this man directed a strike which cost the Canadians a great deal of trouble. This was another indication that the United States has been trying to get a firm hold on our international affairs. In what the Canadian government termed an "illegal strike" that temporarily prohibited the moving of large quantities of wheat to its destination, Canadians lost the confidence of the Russian people in trade dealings. An American had control of this Canadian trade union whose strike caused Canada a great deal of trouble and embarrassment.

The situation should be clear to Canadians by now. If this country wants Canada for the Canadians, we had better make some positive decisions. After nearly two decades, we have reached the point where our internal and international affairs are being challenged by the U.S.

In a recent article, it was reported that Canada would, in all likelihood, support the entrance of Communist China into the United Nations. Will this decision be swayed by American influence in Canada?

—SHARON NORDSTROM.

Taxation

Professor C. Northcote Parkinson, an eminent English economist, has created quite a furore with his pronouncements, known as Parkinson's Laws: the second of these axioms states that "Expenditure Rises to Meet Income". This law and its implication may have far-reaching consequences, both for individuals and for nations. With nations, the law applies primarily to the field of taxation, accounting for the spiralling effect of government spending.

High taxes exacted during wartime, and necessary to the defence of the nation, are invariably carried over into peace-time, and peace-time expenditures invariably rise to meet them. Examples of this are: the beginning of World War II found Britain paying taxes at the same rate as at the end of World War I; the U.S.A. spent approximately one billion dollars in 1914 and nearly four times that in 1924.

There are very real and definite dangers inherent in this practice. A nation with a low peace-time tax rate has tremendous latent strength: in time of war there is great potential income available, but if this income is already being consumed, the strength is absorbed. Parkinson has established a limit beyond which taxes must not be allowed to rise, beyond which they become lethal: 36% of the national income. Beyond this point taxes become a crushing burden, depriving the citizen of initiative and ambition, taking too great a share of the nation's talent and energy. In doing this, a country risks disaster by destroying its greatest natural resources, its people. Parkinson economists in England, France, the USA, New Zealand and Japan have already exceeded the bounds of safety and are well along the road to self-destruction. England took 40.1% of the national income in 1950. Harry S. Truman taxed the American people twelve billion dollars more than all previous Presidents combined.

However it is not too late to reverse direction. This can be accomplished by limiting government income and forcing government expenditure to keep pace. This means that the government would know its income and plan its expenses accordingly, instead of raising taxes to an ever higher level to keep pace with soaring expenses. Individuals have to practice this economy, why should government be permitted to take "the sky's the limit" approach? The government should limit itself to a certain percentage of the national income, say 20%, a figure low enough not to cause inflation and one which would allow for increases in times of emergency. Further savings could be effected by eliminating bureaucracy and waste in accordance with Parkinson's first and third laws. True, these are generalities, but if one is to avoid becoming lost in a complex maze of detail, he must work from the general to the specific.

Spiralling taxation represents a very real problem, one that will be resolved, for better or fore worse, during the course of the next few decades.

This outstanding warranty covers defects in parts or workmanship in the power-train—that's the engine and all internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, transmission, torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, differential, rear axle and rear wheel bearings. And it includes both parts and labour. It is honoured by every Chrysler Canada Ltd. dealer.

All you need to do is have the oil changed every three months or 4000 miles, the oil filter replaced every second oil change, and the carburetor air filter cleaned every six months and replaced every two years—and have these services validated semi-annually by your Chrysler Canada Ltd. dealer—in other words . . . just normal car care.

This exclusive warranty comes with every 1964 Plymouth, Dodge, Valiant, Chrysler and Imperial car, and Fargo and Dodge truck. A warranty tells you two things about a car and truck manufacturer: the confidence he has in the way his product is built; the concern he feels for those who buy his product. Only Chrysler Canada Ltd. dealers offer you this kind of confidence and protection. Don't settle for anything less!

TOMORROW HOLDS NO DOUBT FOR ME

I've shut the door on yesterday
Its sorrows and mistakes,
I've looked within its gloomy walls past failures and mistakes.
And now I've thrown the key
away to seek another room,
And furnish it with hope and smiles and every sunspoiler blown
No thought shall enter this abode that has a hint of pain,
And neither malice nor distrust
shall therein reign;
I've shut the door on yesterday
and thrown away the key Tomorrow holds no doubt for me, since I have found today.

FREEDOM OF WITCHES ASSURED IN ENGLAND

(The Sudbury Star)

There is good news for witches in Britain!

The Conservative government does not intend to do anything about the practice of witchcraft. It ceased to be a criminal offence in Britain in 1735.

The question was raised in the House of Commons by John Hareas, Conservative MP for Hartlepool. He drew attention to the many reports and newspaper articles on the practice of witchcraft in Britain, and asked if it was the intention of the government to introduce legislation to ban witchcraft and associated practices. The reply was in the negative.

A Hampshire woman openly admits to being a witch. However, her practice is in "white" witchcraft, the kind that brings about benevolent results. No government would want to ban that kind of witchcraft.

Good reason to do some brogging

Some wailing and bellyaching about Canadian affairs is well justified—and we are not sharers of it, says The Financial Post. But comparatively—and putting the Canadian picture in international focus — we Canadians do have very much to be thankful for and to be proud of, and most recent years have been a boon to business. There is abundant evidence in the news that Canadians in general are doing quite well as a nation. Canada's real output of goods and services per person is one of the highest in the world. Our international reputation is generally good. Our currency needs refurbishing, it is true, but the Canadian dollar is worth considerably more than it was a few years ago

This is a sample of the latest form in dancing the twist. No longer is it necessary for the boy to embrace the girl while dancing. Community League plans busy year in '64

With president John Beergen in the chair, the Tofield Community League held its February 4th meeting in the Community Centre. Meldrum reported for the coming year committee on the business of the league.

A hem league is to be formed in the Tofield Dominion Day events when plans were also begun for the contest the Curling Horse and Jumping Association with a view to securing their services on July 1, in Tofield.

Dr. Prochazka suggested that the League Executive secure information regarding the cost of constructing bleachers for the horse show section of the Tofield Exhibition Grounds.

The third year of the League's service in providing swimming lessons for the children of the community was discussed, and Hans Christensen and Bill Christensen were appointed as a committee to arrange for another season of swimming lessons.

The theatre committee elected for 1964 will consist of Jack White, Bill Christensen, Ralph Corrie, Hans Christensen, Geo. McFadreen and John Beergen.

A motion tabled until next meeting concerned the setting aside of a percentage of the proceeds from all profitable enterprises as a fund for the maintenance of the Centre.

The president reported that Gordon Thorsell had given him an invitation for a representative of the League to attend the banquet in honor of Mr. Ramsay Armitage, Education Minister, Harry Hays' talk in proclaiming March as "Halifax Good Seed Month."

The Minister noted that growers who purchase certified seed of recommended varieties are getting the best available seed that is pure as to variety, has a high level of germination and uniformity of results in the field and freedom from disease [illegible]

Although seed is the lowest factor in crop production every good seed — or proper variety — has been the instrument for record and possibilities of bumper returns.

"Only by using good seed of suitable varieties can a farmer produce most profitably." Mr. Hays said in commending "National Good Seed Month" as a means of spotlighting the importance of quality seed to Canadian agriculture.

All local rinks would be well advised to enter immediately to ensure that their entries can be accepted.

Following the Open, a father and son bonspiel will be held on February 15th and 28th. This spiel is open to all fathers with their sons and uncles. Entries for this event have already reached twenty rinks, and more are expected.

The first week of March has been declared Sadie Hawkins week when the men will be turned over to the ladies for curling and should draw entries and a bonspiel during the latter part of the week if sufficient entries are received.

Other events planned are a school spiels, organization spiels, local mixed and old timers—all of which are dependent on interest shown by the participants. Persons interested in curling in any of these spiels are asked to leave their name with the secretary or sign on the appropriate forms at the curling rink.

Farmers protest firing of county bus driver

The dismissal as of Dec. 31st, 1963, of Richard J. Ouland of Tofield as supervisor of buses and bus driver for the Tofield area, has brought a strong protest from some of the farmers in the Tofield area. The matter first came up following a Farmers' Union meeting last month, it was discussed further at a similar meeting held in the Legion Hall Tuesday night this week following the regular FUA meeting. It was the general feeling at the first meeting that Mr. Ouland had been dismissed without just cause.

LETTER WRITTEN

The secretary of the meeting was instructed to write a letter to the county council asking why Mr. Ouland had been dismissed. This letter and the reply were read at Tuesday night's meeting, the reply stating that the county school committee had felt that Mr. Ouland was not giving proper supervision of buses in that there seemed to be considerable mechanical trouble, and that Mr. Ouland had been clocked while driving in school buses between Tofield and Ryley, and it had been reported that he had been driving at an excessive rate of speed.

In reply, Mr. Ouland said that he did not believe he had driven over the speed limit, and that if he was clocked over the speed limit it could not have been by an RCMP, since he had never been given a ticket.

Councillor Chamberlain Herchell Westbrook, who was in attendance, was asked if he knew who had clocked Mr. Ouland, and if he cared to reveal the name. Mr. Westbrook replied that he knew who had clocked Mr. Ouland but declined to name the person.

COURT CASE PENDING

The meeting was told that a court case was pending over the firing of Mr. Ouland, but when questioned about it, Mr. Ouland said the case was not involved whether or not he was to receive damages, and that if so, what period of time it was to cover.

Earlier in the meeting there were erroneous indications that the court case was to involve the "padding" of school bus gasoline bills by a local garage. Mr. Westbrook said the matter of "padding" of bills

Ryley bonspiel begins Monday

The Ryley Curling Club is in the midst of its most active year with one of the most popular sport in the district. The construction of artificial ice and a mild winter has increased interest in the game to the point where the rink is in use every night of the week.

Highlight of the season will be the Open Spiel which begins Monday, Feb. 17th, and continues throughout the week. The Bonspiel committee has announced that there will be four in prizes offered in this spiel, and should draw entries from many points in the area. Entries have already been received from several distant points, which is an indication of the interest which is shown in the bonspiel.

Other events planned are school spiels, organization spiels, local mixed and old timers—all of which are dependent on interest shown by the participants. Persons interested in curling in any of these spiels are asked to leave their name with the secretary or sign on the appropriate forms at the curling rink.

Hays proclaims good seed month

The use of good seed is an important and basic step in producing crops that are high in quality and yield, Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said in proclaiming March as "National Good Seed Month."

The Minister noted that growers who purchase certified seed of recommended varieties are getting the best available seed that is pure as to variety, has a high level of germination and uniformity of results in the field and freedom from disease [illegible]

Although seed is the lowest factor in crop production every good seed — or proper variety — has been the instrument for record and possibilities of bumper returns.

"Only by using good seed of suitable varieties can a farmer produce most profitably." Mr. Hays said in commending "National Good Seed Month" as a means of spotlighting the importance of quality seed to Canadian agriculture.

'Bean Feed' for Cubs and Fathers

The Tofield Cub Pack celebrated at a Father and Son Bean Feed in the Legion Hall on Wednesday, Feb. 5th. It was gratifying to note that all Cubs were present, each with his father or guest.

Following the banquet, the group went to the Cub Hall, where games were played, singing, and demonstrated the Grand Howl, their esteemed games.

A scenic, with the fathers joining in, wound up the evening.

The fathers were much impressed with the leadership that is being given the boys.

High School curling news

Tofield High School is opposed by their second annual mixed bonspiel on March 7th. Competing for the Beautiful Kilkearn Trophy which was donated by W. G. Gallagher last year, will be 16 neighboring rinks. This trophy is competitive by winning rink to their respective school.

The County Bonspiel will be held in Tofield on February 29. With county teams participating. The two rinks from Tofield will be the boys' team, made up of Ted Whyte, Jack Nolan, Dwane Sears and Robert Wall; and the girls team, comprising Betsy-Ann Schultz, Patsy Sears, Joyce Lampiet and Lorraine Allan.

The High School afternoon curling has completed its first draw, with the Greg Whyte rink being undefeated; and have now commenced the third and last draw, which is being played for the school trophy.

Should voting age be lowered ?

(STAFF SURVEY)

Recently, the question of lowering the voting age to 18 for federal elections was raised in the House of Commons. A survey with regard to this was conducted among students of Camrose Composite High School, St. Patrick Separate School, the Lutheran College and Camrose citizens, picked at random.

The more common opinions in favor centered around the idea that if 18-year-old males were old enough to enlist and fight for their country, they should be entitled to vote. Those opposed felt teenagers had neither the interest nor mature attitude to be entrusted with such a responsibility as the franchise.

Additional arguments raised by teenagers were as follows:

—"teenagers are growing up and maturing at an earlier age and therefore can move readily accept this responsibility."

—"given the right to vote, teenagers would be more interested in politics and world affairs."

—at 18, most are out of high school and on the way to college. By this time they should have enough knowledge about government to vote."

Adults seemed to have parallel arguments, such as:

—"most teenagers at 18 hold down a job and have the same responsibilities placed on their shoulders as any 21-year-old They should therefore receive the vote."

—"yes, those interested will vote; others, like adults, won't"

—"at the present people get out and vote. It seems as if older people are shrugging off their duty as Canadian citizens, so let's see if the younger people can do better."

—"18-year-olds have an interest in life, they get out and work. For the most part they

No Tartary Buckwheat in County of Beaver

(By Rex Boyden)

Agriculture Service Board projects that are of interest at this time of year include: clean seed, pest control, tree planting, chemicals, spraying equipment and Brucellosis vaccination.

Regarding clean seed, it is encouraging to report the increased output of the County Cleaning Plant. Over 100,000 bushels have been cleaned, 35,000 bushels of this amount comprised flax. Most of the flax fungus and 2,000 bushels treated for wire-worms. The plant has just completed the second Tartary-Free Period; 25 farmers brought in grain during this period which is an increase of over 100%. It is hoped that Tartary-free bookings will justify another free period later in the season. Baffing equipment has been added to the Plant equipment to increase the efficiency of cleaning oats and barley. Bookings will be heavy until seeding time, and farmers are reminded to see or phone the manager (145 Holden) and reserve time to clean their seed. 17 samples of seed have been received from the County Plant to date—16 graded No. 1, one sample graded No. 2 to one wild oats in oats. No tartary buckwheat was found during the tartary-free periods.

PEST CONTROL

Interest in pest control seems to have swirched from coyotes to magpies during the past month. The three magpie traps have been going the rounds in the eastern parts of the district. Success with these traps depressed output of the County Cleaning Plant. Over 100,000 bushels have been cleaned, 35,000 bushels of this amount comprised flax. Most of the flax fungus and 2,000 bushels treated for wire-worms. The plant has just completed the second Tartary-Free Period; 25 farmers brought in grain during this period which is an increase of over 100%. Is there any rule?

We hardly have to tell anyone that Friday is Valentine's Day, and we probably don't have to remind many, at least on the distaff side, that this is also Leap Year. Is there any difference in the rules for Valentines in Leap Year, or is it just like Sadie Hawkins Day, which is the same every year?

The only thing we seem to remember is that to make it legal, the gals have to show just the merest wisp of a red petticoat. It's an old Scottish custom.

Opportunity for Canada

The sharp divergence between the Hon. John Diefenbaker and his one-time supporter Douglas Harkness is one which obviously cannot be cemented over, and lends just the shadow of a hope that the Canadian parliamentary institution may grow up and become more than the tight-rank marshalling of teams we have not seen for so many years. There is just the barest chance Harkness may be able to follow somewhat the example which is so familiar in the Mother of Parliaments, in England.

There, at the very feast of responsible government as we are supposed to know it, the odd member of any party occasionally speaks out with startling candor in opposition to the policies of his own party.

It's not frequent, of course, and it's not always appreciated. But we have always felt that this lack of utter and absolute bondage to the party line was one of the strengths of the British Parliament.

There is every likelihood that Harkness can sit in the Canadian Commons just as long as he wants to; his voters in Calgary North seem to appreciate his qualities somewhat more than the party chief does, and indicate they will keep returning him to Ottawa. If they do, and there isn't the remotest chance he will be anything but a Conservative, then there's a reasonable hope that we may sometime hear a Canadian member opposing the policies of his own party. If the practice ever develops, it would seem to require that intended legislation would have to pass tests considerably more rigid than has sometimes been the case in the past.

And this would be all to the good for Canada.

Wrong message

Our recent outbursts against the banning of an art exhibition in this province have sparked several letters from readers. Without fail, they support the laws banning liquor advertising (the law does not, in actual fact, ban it) and they laud Mr. Peter Elliot for his determined stand in the face of the liquor traffic.

While the letters challenge us, we're nonetheless delighted to receive them, and reprint them. Freedom of the press means something only when a paper's readers have access to the columns, also, to express their views. Any other condition means license, not freedom.

However, we're dismayed by the feeling our original complaint has been missed because of the penchant many people have for jumping at conclusions.

We weren't supporting the liquor interests when we objected to the banning of the exhibition. We'd have been just as incensed had it been a firm of auto makers, or bakers or welders. Our big beef was that one man, or one board, should be able to impose this kind of absolute ban. And that there can be no appeal through any process of law no matter how wrong or biased or iniquitous the ruling may be.

This is not justice or democracy as we know it. And we can under no circumstances blame any loss of democracy on the lunatic fringe in Quebec. We're seeing our precious freedom hacked down by people with names as British as the institutions they're attacking.

University costs up

Recent announcement of a boost in charges for living accommodations on the campus of the university have been received with varying degrees of enthusiasm across the province. Several of the students have held noisy demonstrations objecting to the increase, though only a few chose to argue on the actual economics of the issue. Those who did protest claimed they're being charged more than at other universities for inferior accommodation.

Otherwise many of the students seem to have abandoned the field of logic and choose rhetoric in their pleas that actual cost increases should not be passed on. Since the public purse is already bearing some three-quarters of the cost of university education, it can be argued that a slight increase in this percentage wouldn't hurt much, but it can also be argued the rate is already too high.

One thing, the increase would seem to lend strength to Calgary's demand for an equal but separate university in the south city. The largest part of the costs, for many parents, is that of the boarding fees for out-of-town residents. How effectively this can discriminate for Edmonton and against other areas was shown a couple of years ago by a local doctor who pointed out there were only two members of the graduating class in medicine who claimed Calgary as home, while fifty lived in Edmonton.

Another effect the rent boost may have is to increase somewhat the attendance at the junior college in Camrose. Already offering surprising opportunities to its pupils the college shows promise of branching out and flourishing more each year. As it becomes more expensive to live in Edmonton, the closer-to-home opportunity should appeal, more and more. And supporting the wisdom of the junior college course are the moves to be made by both Red Deer and Medicine Hat to join in the same program

Students handle successful blood clinic

A very successful blood donor clinic was held in Tofield on Wednesday. For his work 109 bottles of blood were received and four or five bottles of it had to be regretfully refused.

The Tofield High School students took had charge of the clinic and great credit is due them for the very efficient way in which the various duties were carried out. It is understood that this is the first time a high school in Alberta has been responsible for all aspects of a donor clinic. We can indeed be very proud of our Tofield young people.

The students would like to thank all who donated blood. The next clinic will be in August

Cause to pause . . .

By John Mohler

It is a true fable, also like one, about through many lips and ears handed.

Nothing breaks a politician's heart quicker than a promise to do something for you and never to live up to it.

A thoughtless parent is one who leaves the car key where little hands or children can spot them easily.

Editor, The Mercury
Dear Sir:

We, the members of the Tofield Gun Club would like you to appreciate your help in our campaign against the proposed amendments to the Criminal Code of Canada restricting the ownership of firearms.

We ask that you strongly advise readers informed as to the purpose of these amendments and to encourage them to help in the campaign to be put forward next Monday, when the Honorable Mr. Pickersgill will introduce the bill before the House of Commons.

We feel that the people should be informed by our Member of Parliament as to what his views are on the bill before they will make their decision to support or oppose it. Also, we feel that the people should be informed what the proposed amendments will involve, especially those that will affect those in possession of firearms.

We also feel that the people should be informed as to the possible consequences that will follow if the bill is passed

New weed chemical available in 1964

A herbicide which has been tested for several years under the name of Banvel D, and now called Trysmba, has proven highly effective in the control of many troublesome weeds which are resistant to 2, 4-D and MCPA. These include tartary and wild buckwheat, lady's thumb, green smartweed, cow cockle, and Canada thistle. Rates of 2 and 4 ounces per acre of Dicamba have given control of these weeds and germination tests show some of the seed to be killed, which are easy to control with 2, 4-D and MCPA are resistant to Dicamba. For controlling a mixed weed population, combinations of 2 4-D and Dicamba have proved effective.

It is expected that Dicamba will be licensed for sale in 1964. If it is approved we will have one more highly effective herbicide in our arsenal of weed-fighting chemicals.

County municipal operation has deficit; school shows a suplus

Annual ratepayers meet held Saturday at Ryley

The financial statement of the County of Beaver for 1963, presented at the annual meeting of ratepayers held Saturday in the Ryley School Auditorium, showed that the municipal committee section had operated at a deficit of $17,852.49, while the school committee section wound up with a $7,807.70 deficit, with expenditures including a $10,000 provision for a deficit from previous years Total expenditure by the municipal committee was $865,722.22, while the committee expenditure was $1,114,033.32.

LATE STARTING

The meeting was late getting under way due to lack of a chairman to start proceedings. C. J. Monsson called for nominations of a chairman from the floor after 1:30 o'clock but when no nominations were forthcoming, he called a hurried recess. At the end of this period C. Cyril Sears of Tofield agreed to chair the meeting and Mr. Monsson was named secretary. About 80 were in attendance.

The municipal committee report of an inspection made Nov. 28 1963, showed the county had operated at a deficit of $9,000 on 1962 and added that the cash position was declining. The report warned, however, that if the deficit financing continued the cash reserve would in time be depleted. One ratepayer said he did not recall a deficit of $9,000 in 1962 and

Mr. Monsson replied that the figure was approximate, and was in error. He had said about $70,000 he would have a surplus at the end of 1963.

Another man brought up the question of the cost to the county of the recent approval of a resolution that a recommendation be made to the government that the supply fund for the county be paid out for feeder

BRUSH CUTTING

The wisdom of the brush cutting project under the 3-year rotation program was questioned by one ratepayer said he felt it was a waste of money, even though 75 per cent of the cost is paid by the federal government. Later much time is wasted by the workmen, Councillors replied that the project brought about a difference and that everything was spent playing various games after which lunch was served. The ladies catering the party were Mrs. G. H. Taylor, Mrs. Bertha Sorensen and Mrs. Olga Bilyk. Mrs. Class Simonsma and Mrs. Earl Hardy possibility of reducing insurance charges, as had been done by the City of Camrose School District, by putting the insurance up for tender. Mr. Monsson replied that the insurance is presently under the Jubilee Insurance which is endorsed by all the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts. He also mentioned that the county when was re-leased to Jubilee, it be paid

In his report, School Superintendent H. A. Pike of Tofield noted that total enrolment in county schools as of Dec. 13th was 2 781, as compared to 2 311 the previous year. He said that teachers seemed to be readily available, and said this was probably due to the county's bursary policy for prospective teachers. There were 109 teachers in the county in 1963, as compared with 111 the year before.

Asked why there was no typing teacher for Tofield, Mr

HAVE YOU MET OOPIK? To thousands of Americans, Oopik is a new emblem of Canada. Oopik is an Arctic owl made by Eskimos out of seal fur. He first appeared representing Canada at a Philadelphia trade fair, and was such a big hit that thousands of Americans are now clamoring to buy an Oopik—TNS Photo

Jr. CGIT group and students adopt Korean

Tofield United Church Junior Canadian Girls in Training, Tofield, Alias, and Tofield High School Students' Union have formally adopted Duk Soon June a 15-year-old Korean girl through Foster Parents Plan, Montreal The Foster Parents Plan is designed to contribute $15 a month for the child's support for at least a year They have already received a picture of the new overseas relative. A complete case history of the child accompanied the photograph

With this article is a picture of Duk Soon, an orphaned girl of South Korea who when PFNN makes a special plea. Her father died when she was but an infant. Her mother was left alone to care for the baby and must without help. He she was a twin of Duk Soon's sister. Pok Soon was almost ten years old when her mother came home and with her tiny child in her arms to beg for food. She died beyond Pusan. Tragically as this story might be, Duk Soon was found alone by her mother and picked up by a UN Army unit, who cared for her for more than a year and a half given When at last they had to move on out of South Korea they took the child to an orphanage or tenderly bespeak that she be loved and cared for.

And now, of Duk Soon . . . during the years in the orphanage, she was praised for wit and intelligence, for what hearted enthusiasm in whatever her friends did, of sometimes being outstanding among them. It has been relayed to her she loved all sorts of Korean folk dances, the ultimate of the old classic dances, and the Yeh-ni. With or without the m-madrum ones, of how she loved to see the Korean native folk song . . . and that she was keenly gifted in Korean the "Gentle Call" because of her petite frame and her childlike voice. This was a great disappointment to her. She had a keen interest in many extra-curricular pursuits and could ably when necessary. She started on new schools, in the autumn of 1960 when she fell ill of rheumatism and then fell into rheumatic leukaemia — or deep sing sickness. She was hospitalized for about a month, and seemed to have a remission in the country. She has been sick for more than over her years in the home, according to her records, though she has a certain deficiency of physique. To day she is in hospital under the year of the Middle School with correspondence Junior High. She is expected to finish Senior High in March. Now she studies Korean Literature, Arithmetic, Korean science, Biology, geography, Japanese, Health home economics, Music and physical education.

She continues to be in the top half of her class in the vacation, she soon was coming for recreation and help up with homework. Her hobbies were she has two books of character, paintings and dress, good manners and a love of social skills. She loves to be invited to birthday parties, and it is felt that in spite of the loss of home and parents, the lovely Korean girl will be no easier to her own people, and a girl well worth having helped. In how much her own loving interest this plan to feed and to clothe means as much as the financial aid it brings to her and who she needs so greatly, especially for her education. You will surely be proud of your South Korean friend, Jung Duk Soon.

WINTRY SCENE With the snow flying and the ground covered with a thick layer of the "white stuff", the photographer felt this was a typical winter scene. The picture was taken near the Village of Ryley last Saturday. The snowfall, accompanied by a fairly strong wind, did not amount to much, although some drifting occurred. —Mercury Photo.

Those bad - mannered hunters

Remember the case of the broken glass in Canadian wheat shipped to Russia, and the indignation all Western felt over the report that it came from bottles tossed into the holds of ships by those dockworkers in Quebec who were on strike? Well, the finger of suspicion has now swung around to the West, and right at our own wheat fields.

Many of us know only too well that hunters and others often toss empty beer bottles into the fields. And some of today's combines, equipped with pick-ups to get the heads of grain that are lying down, often pick up bottles or parts of bottles. As it runs through, the glass is ground into fragmentsafely which mix with the grain, and cannot be shaken at the seed cleaning plants

The suggestion has come from the East that the solution is to substitute cans for bottles, because the machinee would reject tin cans.

It's too bad when the breweries were changing to the stubby size, as recently advertised, they didn't switch all the way, to a tin or plastic container. It seems also too bad that a change which couldn't be made for the safety of our children, to shield them from the savage cuts broken glass inflicts, may have to be made for the demands of trade with the Russians, who could n't care less about our children's

No time for politics

Strong charges are now being hurled at Ontario Premier Roberts that for partisan political advantage he is blocking Ottawa's attempt to bring in a national pension scheme, just as the curtain was brought down on the speech from the throne. The pension program, it will be remembered, has been pushed by the Hon. Judy LaMarsh, with several face - saving changes being worked in by Lester Pearson and other strategists of the party trying to save something from their almost certain defeat Miss LaMarsh seemed to be bringing down around their heads.

It's rather unfortunate the scheme could not have been left on the shelf for at least part of this session, and taken down only if it seemed an election could be staved off for some time.

No matter what political persuasion you may be, you cannot argue this is a matter for speedy action, which may be rash and ill-advised. It is far too important to be the subject of partisan advantage, it reaches far too deeply into the future wellbeing of actually millions of present-day Canadians.

Anyone who is presently, or ever expects to retire on a pension to which they have personally contributed over the years, will be vastly affected by the manner in which the Ottawa pension is set up, if it ever is. There is the greatest danger that existing pension plans, covering years of payments taking contributions by hundreds of thousands of workers, may be wiped out by time of dollar - per - dollar devaluation, and receive in return for the dollars they paid in, only fractions of these dollars, in terms of actual purchasing power.

There is the certainty, too, that under present suggestions, the younger people will pay in a great deal more than they'll ever collect, in order to make high returns quickly available to the older citizens of today.

And finally, there is the even worse knowledge that the plan, as it now stands, is not guaranteed safe from the short-sighted "improvements" of future designing politicians of the future, any more than the once sound and substantial Unemployment Insurance Fund was safe.

We've had the sixty days of decision

Now that they're behind us, let's switch around to a few days of discussion, discernment, deduction and deliberation.

Check Needed

Charging that the best interests of the public were not served when control of both production and also marketing of an essential commodity like motor oil lay in the hands of a small group of international giant companies, the retail automotive servicemen of Alberta recently requested a Royal Commission on the matter when they spent the morning in discussion with the provincial cabinet

Suggesting the sale of gasoline should be looked at as a public utility, the delegation claimed the oil companies have established rigid control over retail prices of brand-name gasolines, but follow a pattern of wholesale pricing which discriminates against stations carrying their own brand names.

Citing turnover rates of 33⅓ in Calgary and 28⅓ in Edmonton last year, the dealers claimed there is instability in the industry, and this would seem to be an understatement. The picture building up over recent years is certainly indicates the retail gasoline business isn't in the healthiest position, but whether government intervention to shore up dealers is warranted would require tremendous study The only least that should come from the inquiry is the assurance that the dice aren't loaded against the small retail operator And while these dealers are small by comparison with the huge Canadian oil developments, let's not lose sight of perspective We talked with one operator last year, probably not the largest, and by no means the smallest, whose payroll was in the $100,000 neighborhood.

For instance, immediately after the assassination some radio station happened to be in the right place at the right time with a news camera and the right to use the pictures as a series of "stills" to Lee Mas-

4 IN MEMORIAM

WESLAKE. In loving memory of my dear husband and our dear dad and grandpa, George Weslake, who passed away Feb. 20, 1961.

Memory band is reaching back
Three years ago today,
When one we loved so dearly
In a gently passed away;
It was hard to part,
But it was God's will,
To create the chair
That no one never fill.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Katie, and Family and Children.

Relativity counts, too

We're hearing a great deal in recent days about the high cost of education at the university, this being particularly heightened by the increases in cost of dormitory accommodation. If we were to believe some of the claims being made, education is in danger of being priced out of the market, at least on the basis of today's costs.

Now, dollars are a finite and absolute measure. A dollar is a dollar. And if today's college education costs more dollars than last year's, then it can obviously be said the cost is going up.

But dollars are tricky things, too, and some form of relativity is often very useful. Such as relating costs to other things which are fairly common and familiar. Suppose we relate the cost of today's varsity fees to the costs of yesterday's varsity fees in terms of pay scales and man hours. How many hours or weeks of Dad's time, or Junior's time! does it take to pay for a year at the University?

We don't know the answer precisely, but our bet is that in relative terms there has never been a bargain such as is offered today; that it takes less working days to pay for the costs of a college education than has ever been the case before.

And measured in terms of what it will produce for the graduate, there has probably never been a period when there was promise of more difference accruing to the successful degree holder.

No more Lankies

Announcement by the RCAF that the service of the Lancaster aircraft has been terminated will come as a surprise to many citizens. Some of them will not realize the plane is still in service, while others will wonder what could possibly produce such a decision.

Introduced into service operationally in the Second World War, this remarkable plane has survived nearly a quarter of a century in an aeronautical world which was changing with startling rapidity. It was used in so many roles, from that of bomber to hospital plane that it was automatic to say of the Lancaster first and some other plane only later. So many thousands of them were produced it is hard to imagine only three are still in service, now to be withdrawn.

During the war years the Lankie built up impressive records in every department, and was certainly the second during its own time with the men who flew them.

Good as far as it goes

New legislation from Ottawa increasing costs for Canadian advertisers using non-Canadian magazines to carry their message to readers in this country is good as far as it goes. Apparently the lobby from Time Magazine and Readers Digest was sufficiently strong to safeguard them, but we'll hope it is for the time being only.

Actually, they are among the most flagrant offenders referred to in the well known O'Leary report on publications, and it is beyond question that publication of a distinctive Canadian press has been seriously damaged by these two and by several others familiar on newsstands in the country.

We don't believe the government has gone far enough yet in implementing recommendations of the O'Leary report, but we'll give them much credit for the step taken. After all, it was a Liberal government that of St. Laurent which instituted the tax on advertising in foreign publications, while the Diefenbaker government removed it without substituting anything better.

There is some reason to believe the present division between English and French Canada might never have come about had Canadian periodicals been encouraged a generation or two ago. We would almost surely have developed our own strong, nationalist, fair, diversified magazines, magazines that were worth the time and money of readers, and yet magazines which built a Canadian nationality, had there been some protection for the national press, and some barrier against the avalanche of Indoctrination which we have actually encouraged to cross the border. The sad little tabloid distributed today as a bonus with some of the newspapers is a pitiful excuse for the Canadian Home and Garden which might have been, particularly in this day when gardens as well as homes account for hundreds of millions of dollars of our national economy. Who today remembers the old Canadian Home Journal, and the Delineator? Even Saturday Night, one of the few remaining periodicals, has suffered lingering and near paralytic sessions, and Maclean's Magazine is the only truly national periodical to emerge out of a hundred years or so of Canadian publications

Redway director of handicapped children's ass'n

George Redway of Camrose has been named a director of the Association for Rehabilitation of Handicapped Children following a meeting of association members in Edmonton on February 18th.

Mr. Redway returned recently from a trip to Edmonton where he visited a school for the deaf, and was impressed by no oral method only. No sign language is used. He has commissioned for 40 children, and this school has a registration of 371, including youngsters from all over the western United States, B.C. and Alberta.

"I feel there is a need for such a school in Camrose," said Mr. Redway this morning. "Our association pays for the teaching deaf children who are between school age. It is Provincial policy that the government assumes no responsibility for teaching children under six years."

Mr. Redway is interested in knowing how many people in this area are interested in a school for the deaf. He has in his possession a CBC-produced tape which explains the oral method of teaching the deaf, and in the near future will have a film illustrating teaching methods in the Clark School for the Deaf. "We would be pleased to make these available to any interested group," said Mr. Redway.

As was the case last year, some excellent scholarships will be available with several new ones being added to the already generous list.

Teachers and entertains are reminded that their requests for entries should be in as early as possible. With the Provincial week over that year the committee is anxious to have everything now many weeks in order to prepare for in each class. Entry forms may be obtained from M. Shank, Box 1091, Lloydminster.

Should see school research funds as future investment, not expense

"An unresearched program is neither effective nor efficient," declared Dr. F. G. Robinson Monday evening, when he addressed a gathering of more than 300 educators in the Elks' Hall. Dr. Robinson, who is director of the Canadian Council for research in Education was the major speaker at the program which officially launched Education Week in Alberta.

The audience also included the Hon. A. O. Aalborg, minister of education, and Dr. H. T. Coutts, dean of the faculty of education at the University of Alberta, warmly applauded the thought-provoking address of Dr. Robinson, who entered the address around the theme of education week for this year: "Research: a Key to Educational Progress".

Research in education is a rarely touched field, said the speaker. For instance, he pointed out, there are the vocational schools, recently built for hundreds of millions of dollars across the country, and already questions are arising about them. Are we using these schools as a dumping ground? Are we convinced that job skills are the answer? Should we be training young people in technical skills, which may soon be rendered obsolete by progress, rather than developing individual talents in mathematics and language.

Much more research should have preceded the building of these schools, Dr. Robinson felt.

Planning in the past has been dangerously weak, he declared and he cited the explosion suddenly felt by universities across the country . . . which could have been seen some years ahead if anyone had stopped to read the signs.

Is it possible, asked the speaker, to develop research in education in a point where it can be a material force affecting the direction of Canadian education? The problem here, he said centers on finding sufficient trained workers capable of handling such work.

Research cannot be carried out to any kind of real depth if the field, he said. Teachers are already saddled with an average workload of 30 hours per week, leaving them little time to do the reading needed and to introduce the controls of a research program, or to communicate their findings.

Swinging into the financial side of the picture, Dr. Robinson said research is drawing much less than one-tenth of one percent of the budget for Canadian education. While the expenditure on industrial research has been estimated at one percent, he said, a figure cited recently by the Organization for European Economic Co-operation as necessary to remain competitive is 2 4 percent of the total educational budget.

This figure was severely defended by Dr. Robinson who said money allocated to research should be considered an investment, not an expense. Research money may provide the best investment value, and one which yields the most handsome returns in terms of the economic growth of the country.

The only way to achieve this state of affairs, the speaker continued, was to develop a line of thinking that the present is not all good. Only when the public as a whole is aroused to the need for greater research will the tax spending authorities give more weight to the need for more investment in this area.

County school committee meets Feb. 11

The sec-tress. reported that the recommendations from the Conciliation Commission had been received and were as follows:

1—300. 650. 6x235. 1x180. 2x750.
3—400. 650. 6x320. 6x275.
4—800. 700. 3x370. 5x235.
5—1,200. 800. 3x375. 5x225.
6—950. 850. 3x375. 5x235.

It was noted that the recommendation provided for an increase of $50.00 in the maximum of the second and third year of the county's proposal, that the fourth year was identical with the County's proposal, that the maxima in the fifth and sixth year were $100.00 over the County's proposal. The Committee was of the opinion that the Conciliation Commissioner's recommendation was not too satisfactory but that it would be acceptable on a two year agreement. The administration allowances to be increased from the maximum of $1,500 to $1,700 per year for the principals.

In regards to the railway crossing at Tofield, a letter from the Town of Tofield thanking the County Council for accepting a portion of the cost of flashing lights and the maintenance of these lights were referred to the Committee, and it was moved and carried unanimously that the letter be received and filed.

Mr. Pike reported that an engineer from the Board of Transport Commissioners was expected to be in Tofield on Wednesday, Feb. 12th at 11:00 a.m. to investigate the request for flashing lights and that he, as well as Cpp. Green of the RCMP, would be present at the time of inspection. It was moved and carried unanimously that the report be accepted.

In regards to the Camrose Vocational School and the tuition fee for the three pupils from the County attending this school the Supervisor of Instruction reported that the students were attending the Vocational School in Agricultural Mechanics which consisted of welding, auto work, carpentering and electrical wiring for half of each school day. Mr. Gorrie felt that we could refer just as good a program in the County's Industrial Arts Shops and that the equipment being used in the Camrose Vocational School was far more elaborate than the average pupil would ever have to work with. The tuition fee, as previously stated, was a $100.00 per year per student. After some discussion it was moved and carried unanimously that the County agree to pay 50 of the tuition fee

This is too much

Dr. Chaput and his secessionist supporters have gone too far in their warning not to bring the Queen of Canada to the province of Quebec.

We don't know how our readers have felt, but for the longest time we have been interested, concerned even, about the problems in Quebec and in the rest of Canada. And while we have felt many of the difficulties faced by Quebec grew from seeds that came from within their own system, we were nonetheless sympathetic to a degree, and willing to admit that some changes should be made, as long as they would also admit some changes on their side as well.

But our hair stood straight on end when they said in effect "Don't bring the Queen here". For even if the words weren't the same, the meaning is clear. And it produced an electrifying effect on us, and several people to whom we've talked. The general impression is that it's time to get out the bayonets, and march in and subjugate them. We've backed away from them for too long, and it's time to stand up.

Maybe this isn't the temperate sort of approach which softens differences and irons out problems. We'll admit that readily. But neither are the actions of Dr. Chaput and his supporters. Rather, they are designed to inflame minds and stir up hatred and animosity.

This talk about Quebec being a conquered people contains a lot of nonsense. Confederation one hundred years ago didn't conquer Quebec. It was conquered . . . in battle, at any rate . . . nearly a hundred years before that on the Plains of Abraham. And a century ago, at the time of Confederation it was accorded the status of an equal at the bargaining table and given rights not accorded other provinces, in order to preserve its special position. Now, they're not satisfied with that special position.

Prime Minister Pearson faces a difficult decision in the matter of the Queen's visit, but either here or somewhere else we're going to have to face up to this problem, and trade some blows. It's a cinch we won't win any championship by backing away all the time.

Union, anyone?

All those residents of this country who feel our eventual destiny lies within the broadening realm of the United States might have second thoughts when they read the day-to-day accounts of the travesty being carried on in the Bobby trial, in Dallas. Certainly it's probable that courts in Canada aren't above reproach, and certainly there are other aspects to consider, but the judiciary is and always will be one of the central bulwarks of any democratic system. When it is allowed to become a comic opera, such as the present situation, in which there is hardly the barest chance of a fair, honest and unbiased trial, then the democratic system is undermined.

For our part, we're prepared to accept some of the economic imbalance in this country in exchange for the more orderly and balanced operation of the courtrooms.

. . . In the Legislature

(By John Warren)

EDMONTON — Ted Hinman is one of those unusual cabinet ministers who speak only when they have something worthwhile to say. Friday, he spoke for one hour and 20 minutes.

When it was all over, Mr. Hinman had brought down a budget calling for spending of $114,488,864, an increase of $8,-668,908 over last year's estimates and a figure that left Alberta behind only Ontario and Quebec in the provincial spending parade.

In giving his ninth budget address, the 57-year-old provincial treasurer noted that per capita government spending in Alberta is the highest in the country. He said the healthy state of the economy "justifies our expectancy of obtaining revenue sufficient to meet these very large expenditures."

A tiny surplus of $24,712 resulted during the current fiscal year ending March 31 will probably turn into a surplus of $20,000,000 because of oil and gas revenues much higher than expected, said Mr. Hinman.

No new taxes or tax changes were announced.

The province's rich natural resources are again expected to produce the biggest chunk of revenue in the coming fiscal year. Predicted natural resources income of $152,594,500 represents an increase of $26,-983,000 from estimates for 1963-64.

Other major sources of revenue with 1963 - 64 figures in brackets are: Income tax, $80,-150,000 ($51,600,000); Fuel oil tax and motor vehicle licenses, $56,-518,000 ($54,175,000); Liquor, $36,500,000 ($38,500,000).

The budget underlines a "modest" increase in the sessional indemnities of MLAs and in the allowances of the opposition leader, speaker of the house and deputy speaker.

The treasurer didn't say how much the increases would be in each category, but his budget for indemnities and allowances was increased by $48,200 to $385,800. Members now receive a basic $4,500 a year.

Biggest jumps in expenditures was made in the department of health, which has an estimated budget of $184,638,750, an increase of $17,252,900. The figure represents 30 per cent of estimated operating expense.

The health appropriation includes $75,700,000 for Alberta's hospital plan, an increase of $1,850,000. About 50 per cent of the plan's costs will be received from the federal government.

Mr. Hinman said there will be no chaos in the four-mill tax levied on equalized assessments throughout the province as part of the municipalities' share of the hospital scheme. However, revenue is estimated $2,500,000 higher, at $9,600,000, because of an upward revision of the assessment base.

A total of $94,788,300 was provided for education, an increase of almost $10,000,000 over the 1963-64 figure.

The government's contribution to the school foundation fund is expected to be $71,540,000, an increase of $8,230,000. Money from the fund is used to provide a basic standard of education throughout the province.

The budget also provides $11,-660,000 — an increase of $1,660,-000 for the operation of the University of Alberta at Edmonton and Calgary and nearly $6,-262,500 for campus construction.

Expenditures for public welfare increased $2,130,420 to $26,-797,475, including almost $2,000,-000 for construction of homes for the aged.

The department of public works received $46,136,740, compared with $40,479,145 in the current fiscal year. Highway's expenditures were estimated at $63,644,660, down $904,720.

Hay Lakes telegraph
Observe, Alberta,
February 27 1964

Editor, The Canadian

Dear Sir:

May I have a little space to make a request for information? I would like very much to hear from present or former residents of the area between Hay Lakes and Bruce who know where the old telecamp internment trail to Battleford may still be seen. I have seen the trail at Hay Lakes and northwest of Viking, but have had no luck on finding it between those points.

I would also like to hear from one who has found or knows of anyone who has found implements or fragments of insulators on that route.

I am making a study of the first telegraph line through western Canada and would appreciate any help from my source.

Thank you

Sincerely,
Allen Rosnham.

Research provides best value for dollar spent on education

"No dollar spent returns greater productivity than that spent on education" declared Dr. H. T. Coutts, dean of the faculty of education at the University of Alberta. He was speaking briefly at the dinner held in Camrose Monday evening by the Alberta Teachers' Association, when many more than 200 guests were present for the official opening of Education Week in Alberta.

Guests gathered from all over the East Central portion of Alberta, including Dean Wainwright to Provost to Dauphin. Mayors and reeves of municipal school trustees and deputy school system members, representatives of the press, and superintendents of the various city schools participated in the main body of guests, together with several ATA organization members. In addition, the gathering was attended by several MLA's who made their trip from Edmonton.

Dr. Coutts said that what is needed is billions in education. We must have investigation to come up with more knowledge by research on the merit of the new ideas, he maintained.

He was followed by Education Minister Hon. A. O. Aalborg, who agreed with the statements made by Dr. Coutts. "There is a colossal task ahead," said the minister, in preparing the youth who will leave the schools during the last half of the century. We live in the world of the future, he suggested, with far less clarity than from the rear-view base before.

The only thing which is clear, Mr. Aalborg said, is the rapid development which is taking place in the field of science and change in the methods made by automation. The emphasis, the progressive elimination of jobs for young people who have no school without graduate training, he said. We are moving into an age where there will be increasing demand for professional people for highly skilled technicians. Because of this, the minister urged that all young people be advised to continue their education as long as possible.

At the conclusion of his short speech, the minister officially declared education week open in Alberta. This is the eighth year when the ATA has sponsored education week in the province, choosing different areas of the province each year for special emphasis. With arrangements largely in the hands of the local members of the association, the meeting was very capably chaired by W. H. Hunter, president of the Camrose local for the ATA. Interesting items provided during the gathering by High Irving, and by an 11-girl chorus from Bedgewick High School.

Speaker earlier in the evening, Tom Rieger of Picture Butte, provincial president of the ATA and he felt there was no chance of holding down the costs of education, but he suggested there was a chance of getting better value for the dollar spent. This can only be accomplished through research, which requires, Mr. Rieger declared, adequate financial support.

Tons of machinery on the move

The heaviest single piece of electrical equipment ever to be transported by a hydro power generating site in Alberta was successfully moved to its permanent foundation during the first week of February.

A generator transformer weighing just over 126 tons was transported on a James A Reid tandem-load six-axle 4 Rail Tilt trailer unit from Entwistle siding to the Brazeau power project. The rail shipping weight, were hauled in the Brazeau development in late January.

The 70-mile journey was deliberately scheduled for mid-winter to take advantage of frozen frost protection. The frozen ground made it possible to haul the heavy load over muskeg country without damage to the road.

The transformer was stripped of all ancillary equipment and filled with an inert gas at the factory to reduce its shipping weight. When such parts as cooling radiators, 12,000 gallons of cooling oil, auxiliary oil tank, porcelain bushings, and other equipment are added as the title, the transformer will weigh about 220 tons.

Other heavy electrical and mechanical equipment has been moved on site from both Entwistle and Breton. Two other transformers, one of 85-ton capacity and another of 60 tons, 12 miles upstream. A footing of rough concrete and gravel fill provided additional support for the loading operation. In readiness for hoisting the transformer from its trailer onto the plant, two heavy cables (each thick as a man's arm), are already attached to the unit.

Erection in the fall of 1964. Generator and turbine parts for the first 210,000 h.p. unit were transported to the site. Each generator has a 25-ton "pole ax" to wheel to support the rotor, a section of shaft, and stator sections. Each section weighs some of the other big loads transported to the powerhouse site.

Seen above, the powerhouse foundation near destination in the big Bend powerhouse, travelling over a narrow access road bordering the Brazeau River. The river crossing was made possible by Government permission to reduce water flow from the Big Bend storage

Fish & Game seeks higher membership

An attempt will be made in the spring of the future to bring the membership of the Tofield area Fish and Game Association. The president of the present group said in an interview Monday night "We need the help and co-operation of the Tofield people in our attempts to keep this area a place that is known for good sport and good sportsmen."

Mr. Lowles expects to announce the date for a public meeting to be held in Tofield soon and hopes to gain enough support here so that the group can hold monthly meetings in both towns, alternating the meeting between them. He also hopes that the executive can be evenly divided between the towns.

By forming a strong organization such as he proposes much can be done to improve many aspects of hunting and fishing, not the least of which would be improved conservationism and local residence relations. All interested in the above should be well advised to make a point of attending the meeting, both to find what they can do for the Fish and Game and what the Fish and Game can do for them. Further details as to time and place of this meeting will appear in this paper as soon as they are announced.

MODERN ETIQUETTE
by ROBERTA LEE

Q. How should a married woman have her personal stationery engraved — as "Mrs. John J. Powers" or as "Mary Powers"?

A. "Mary Powers" is only for a very young girl, or for a professional woman who is known by that name. Stationery is used for general purposes should have the woman's full married name: "Mrs. John Powers."

Q. When older women begin calling a young man by his first name, is he then permitted to begin addressing them by their first names?

A. Better not. It shows better taste to continue addressing them by their last names, unless they specifically ask him to use their first names.

Q. Should the napkin be used for removing some particle of food from the mouth, such as a bone or inedible portion of meat?

A. Never. This is done with the fingers and then, of course, the napkin is used for wiping these fingers.

Scholarships and bursaries
. . . available to students

(By Dr. J. R. Stan Hambly, Information on this topic is not only appropriate at this time but should be of interest to many students and parents who are in order about scholarships and bursaries and from whom they are available.

It would be impossible to list all the sources offering scholarships and bursaries. For detailed information the interested student or parent, should interview the guidance counsellor or the school principal.

Ordinarily a scholarship is defined as a grant of money made available to a student by a sponsoring person, or organization. The scholarship usually has some conditions attached such as high scholastic standing, need and purpose. The bursary, is differentiated from the scholarship by one further condition, namely a commitment on the part of the student to fulfil a contract or a portion of a contract, with the sponsoring party.

Probably the most important and the largest scholarship and bursary sponsoring party in Alberta is the Government of Alberta operating under the terms of the Students Assistance Act. Literally hundreds of thousands of dollars are awarded to Alberta students each year through the Students Assistance Board, whose offices are in C.C. Mercury, Dept. of Education, Edmonton. In all instances pertaining to scholarship and bursary awards, the student must apply for assistance and forms are readily available through the principal of the school. The guidance counsellor, the superintendent of schools or the Students Assistance Board for this purpose. There are regulations pertaining to the conditions for awarding these grants residence, scholastic standing, need, and limits of assistance.

The assistance provided is general and varied. Students entering university for the first time may receive assistance of $100, $200, $300, or $450 if the scholastic minimum average on matriculation subjects is 80, 85, 70 or 75, respectively. There must also be an indication of need. Further than this, the students may borrow from the fund to an amount not exceeding $500 each year to a maximum total of $2,000. Students enrolled in the Faculties of Medicine and Dentistry may be awarded loans to a maximum of $2,500. This assistance is available to students in a junior college as well as at the University of Alberta. Assistance by way of grants and loans is also available in much the same manner to under-graduate and graduate students at the University. Outstanding students in need of assistance, either matriculants or under-graduate students, may in limited numbers receive amounts of $1,250, $1,000, $750 or $500 each year. These scholarships valued at $2200 and $2000 each may be awarded each year to worthy students registered in a full year of work in graduate studies at the University of Alberta.

From the Students Assistance Board, tuition grants are available to students in the second year of each of the Standard Eight and Standard 9 programs to the amount of half of the tuition fee charged by the University. A student in receipt of this assistance is eligible to receive assistance as described in the above paragraph or may not above the tuition grant. For students in the third and fourth years of the Bachelor of Education program, tuition grants in a maximum of fifty may be awarded. A sub-committee made up of the Dean of the Faculty of Education and other representatives determines the successful applicants. Graduate students from other faculties in the University of Alberta may also receive tuition grants and a maximum loan of $800. In returns for receipt of tuition grants, the student must undertake to render one year of teaching service in Alberta for each tuition grant received.

The Students Assistance Act also provides for financial assistance of from $50 to $200 a year to worthy high school students who require help to complete their high school programs. While there are conditions to warrant receipts of assistance from this fund the criteria are the need, at least 25 credits of program, and a recommendation from the principal of the school. Student scores may be eligible to receive to a maximum of $100 in any one year of her course. Students in attendance at a Provincial Institute of Technology may, according to need, be granted a loan of $750 in any school year. These loans may be remitted, at least in part, to the student at the end of the year. The amount of the remission is entirely dependent upon the achievement of the student. Assistance is also provided to HOLDEN, March 2.—The Canadian Cancer Society held a program in the Holden Community Hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 26th, showing very interesting films of "Facts About Cancer", and the progress that is being made on Cancer research. The turn-out was small but those attending found the program very informative. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the show, which was sponsored by the O.O.R.P.

The royal Purple Lodge will again be sponsoring the Annual Campaign for the Cancer Society which is held in April, and will appreciate donations of any sum for this endeavor.

TC League deals with varied current agenda

The regular meeting of the Tofield Community League was held in the meeting room of the Community Centre on Mar. 3rd. In the absence of the president, H. A. Pike took the chair. Reports were read by the treasurer and by the theatre committee.

A committee consisting of Jack Lampert, Frank Langlois, Charlie Sears and Bill Dawson was appointed to secure music for all of the dances sponsored by the league during the year.

It was moved that a dance be held March 20th with Dick Mallow. Al Pike and Norman Glover in charge. Conrad Patterson and Edwin Stinson were appointed to audit the books of the TCL.

The matter of building bleachers for the horse show, area of the exhibition grounds was again discussed with J. a. n. Lampert and Ed Regier appointed to interview the Rec-reation Board in regard to this matter.

Since the exhibition grounds was shown down in a recent high wind, the executive of the league was empowered to replace it.

A motion which may prove to be of interest to residents of both towns and country was brought up for discussion. This is the proposed buying of a concrete floor in the curling rink so that the building may have a year-round use for community recreation and functions.

Other organizations including the Canadian Legion, the Lions Club, the Hereford Society, the Historical Society, the PUA, the 441 Clubs, as well as the Town Council are to be consulted in this matter and their co-operation asked for.

The next meeting of the TCL will be the planning meeting for Tofield's July 1st celebration.

It is important that there be a good turnout of members so that the Dominion Day plans may be thoroughly discussed.

Tractor maintenance course for district

With tractors being built larger and more sophisticated, farmers are becoming less competent to deal with the technical features of the new tractors. To help farmers overcome the difficulties encountered by tractor operators, a course has been arranged by the Dept. of Agriculture which will be held at the Ryley Agricultural School in Ryley during the week of March 9 to 13 inclusive. The meetings will begin at 1:00 p.m. on Monday and will continue each day at 9:00 a.m. and continue through to 4:00 p.m. each day.

Instruction will be given on all phases of tractor maintenance on both gasoline and diesel tractors. The units which will be dealt with will be the ignition systems, Fuel systems, Carburetors adjustment, fuels and oils.

Gas and diesel tractors will be available for students to work on and on which demonstrations will be conducted.

The school will consist of lectures, practical work and movies and it is hoped that it will be very informative and interesting to all farmers.

Because of the limited workspace in the school will be limited to 25 students. Those wishing to attend should make application to the District Agricultural at Ryley. Those who have not made application and decide to attend may do so on Monday, March 16, but if they must be accommodated they will be allowed to take the entire course.

A registration fee of $5 will be charged to cover some of the costs involved in sponsoring the school.

Gun Club hens shoot to be held March 21

At a meeting of the Tofield Gun Club, held Monday night, it was decided that the club would sponsor an Easter Hen Shoot, to be held on the club's Indoor range on Saturday, March 21st.

Since it was noted at previous hen shoots, it seems that there were quite a few youngsters who wanted to shoot, the club decided that there should be a special competitions for Juniors. Any youngster who attends between 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. will be able to try his or her luck in special competitions reserved for shooters under 15 years of age. However, adults will still be able to shoot at this time as well, so make plans to attend some time between 7:00 and 10:00 p.m. on March 21st

There will be lucky target competitions for those who feel they are not skilled enough to win in an accuracy competition, so anyone stands a good chance of taking home their Easter ham from this shoot.

The club also laid the groundwork for a supper to be interest to be held in June, when it is hoped that the club will engage an old-fashioned "School-marm" to conduct the auction sale. Further details will be announced later.

Water & Sewage School slated for Holden

Running water and baths are fast replacing water buckets and pails on farms in the district. Farm water and sewage disposal installations are also becoming more widespread. Many farmers would like to have these facilities in their homes but are without much knowledge of the principles involved and far less knowledge of the practical details in the actual installation all of which result in poorly functioning systems.

To assist farmers who contemplate such installations in the near future, a Farm Water and Sewage School will be held in Holden at the G. Munson Hall on Thursday and Friday, March 19th and 20th.

This school will cover all phases of water and sewage installation. The first day of the course will deal with running water systems in farm homes, discussion centering around the principles involved in the pressure system, how it works, and how to install or change over to this system.

As these courses are held annually in different parts of the province, all farmers who contemplate water and sewage installations in the future should take advantage of this school.

Perhaps the reason they are so happy is that they have a taty for a leader, and who wouldn't be happy after enjoying a lovely banquet held in Holden recently.

Canadian Garden Service

(By Gordon Lansbury Smith)

Suit yourself

In this day and age a lot of us cries have to live in the same sort of house, hold the same sort of job and even wear the same sort of clothes as the man next door but when it comes to the garden there is no necessity for this humdrum similarity at all. Here we can become individuals and that is one of the important and satisfying things about gardening. It is not at all necessary nor desirable that gardens should be alike, and especially as in city and suburban areas where houses are, ft. W. Dixer, author of many of the current federal government bulletins on gardening puts it this way. "To date the gardener's area adequately, we must think of the things we want to do in it, and how it can be made conveniently arranged to facilitate their being done. If the family likes gardening there must be ample space for flowers, even at the expense of lawn. Annual flowers are popular, then the lawn will predominate. But if the preference is for reading or tea, flagstone areas to hold chairs and tables will take the place of lawn, and shrubs will replace flower borders as they require less attention. Do we want a kitchen garden, space to grow clothes, or play area for children. How can we use all of our property to make it really life more complete". When these questions are answered all these points and know exactly what we want, then, says Mr. Dixer, we can start to put the garden on paper and lay out for these ideas to the ground as we want them. In each case the main idea is to create a garden that suits you and your family, not necessarily the neighbours or an occasional visitor.

GARDENING AND FISHING

Fishing and gardening have much in common. Both take one out into the open air and sunshine; both offer a little easy exercise and both are relatively inexpensive, and you can spend as little or as much as you please But where these two hobbies are most alike, however, is in the advance planning. Idleling or dreaming we can do about them, and in the boasting afterwards, too. The snow may still be a foot or three feet deep outside right now but there is nothing to prevent us pouring over a Canadian seed catalogue, ordering some new varieties and planning just where we are going to put them. And this planning not only results in a better and far more interesting garden, but it will give us lots of fun right now. It is well, however, to have a pad and pencil ready and to jot down just what we are going to add and where and when, so that when spring does arrive, and there is a natural rush to get outside we will have this new information right at hand.

OUT OF THE RUT

Regardless of the way we voted in the last election or will in the next, most of us when it comes to annual flowers are far too much inclined to stick to what we have always grown. By all means, old standbys like petunias, alyssum, marigolds, calendulas and nasturtiums should continue to be included and especially if we choose some of the new and greatly improved varieties. But a brief list like that hardly touches the fringe of the vast wealth of annual flowers now available to any gardeners in the land.

A total of close to 150 annual flowers are available to the average Canadian seed house and there are few that cannot be grown satisfactorily all across Canada. For beds of solid color you

Soap-making not lost art

PALMER-EARLING, Mar. 6 and making her own golden loaves of bread, Mrs. Fryad Urlacher here been making her own supply of home-made laundry soap, having learned soap-making at her mother-in-laws home years ago.

She claims and we agree that the soap will be as good as the imported purchased at the supermarket, made from tallow, lye and water, she has turned out about one hundred bars of clear white soap. (When washing, a whole bar is dropped into the machine, and takes out when the desired amount of suds appears).

there are, in addition to the popular ones already mentioned, snapdragons, common, lobelia, phlox, salvia, stocks and verbenas. There are scabiosa, snapdragon, dahlias, gaillardia, gypsophila, celosia and nearly a score of others which could have a place in a cutting garden. Experienced gardeners warn the beginner against trying too many new varieties all at once, because each one must be handled in a little differently, and also urge that at least one or two tried and true favorites be grown satisfactorily all across Canada. For beds of solid color year,

Modern Etiquette . . .

Q. Does the well-dressed woman always wear a hat?

A. A great many smartly-dressed women seldom wear hats except possibly in church. And I think, too, that uncovered heads of gleaming, well-groomed hair are undeniably attractive. Do what you want about hats—wear them or not, as you please.

Q. Is it all right to hold the fork poised in the air between mouthfuls while talking?

A. This depends upon the length of the conversation. If prolonged, it is better to lay the fork on the plate, rather than to brandish it in mid-air. Of course, one does not lay the fork down for each "Yes" or "No".

Modern etiquette

Q. What should engaged couples do when calling their engagement off?

A. Above all keep their bitterness if any to themselves. The girl shouldn't discuss the matter, except possibly with one or two close friends, and the man should accept the blame and discuss it with anyone. This may seem a bit rigid, but the dictates of good taste call for it.

Q. If asked to pass a certain dish at the table just as you are about to partake of it yourself, is it all right to help yourself first?

A. No; this would be very crude and ill-mannered, unless of course the other person insists that you do so.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

One of your lifelong friends, Jack Prather, has been trying for many months to settle the affairs of his wealthy father who passed away almost a year ago. What had up the settlement of the estate has been Jack's inability to locate one of the parties who is supposed to share in the estate. This party is the name of Robert Graham.

Today, when you happen to drop in on your friend, he introduces you to a tall, dark, rather unprepossessing looking young man who is seated in his office. "Here he is", exclaims Jack, "that long lost cousin of mine that Grandpa has been looking after all these years. I've never been able to locate him . . . he's changed so much during the almost twenty years we have seen out of touch. We used to play together as boys, and then when he was about 11 or 12 years old he ran away from home. He tells me he's spent all these years in merchant ships at sea . . . also that he's now first mate on his ship. He ran into the news of his inheritance in one of the European ports".

"Telegrams and letters have a way of eluding us sailors", says Graham as he shakes hands with you. "Finally the word came through to me about two weeks ago, just before we were about to embark for this cruise . . . and a rough crossing we had in our boat, too. Real stormy weather!" He points a finger at the small bandage on the right side of his forehead. "I got this during a particularly rough part of the storm . . . I was standing near the wheel of the boat and was just making a turn into the dock along the right side of the boat when one of the biggest waves I've ever seen hit us broadside . . . threw me against one of the sails, and I came out of that with this pretty little scar on my head".

You turn to your friend, Jack Prather. "Do you mind telling me . . . does Mr. Graham come from Flanders or Hensley-Lloyd Weinstrom, Ph. 31, Ryley. 36-tfdc

Q. Is it considered proper for a woman or a man to shake hands with gloves on?

A. Quite proper—and no one cares for the gloves are necessary either.

Q. Is it proper to say "Yes" instead of "Hello", when answering the telephone?

A. A touch "Hello" is the more widely accepted manner of answering the telephone, there's nothing wrong with saying "Yes". The most important thing is a pleasant friendly manner of speaking.

Q. When one is served a cup of coffee that is filled to the brim, is it all right to bend over the cup and take a few sips so as to avoid any danger of spilling the cup?

A. Indeed not! Take a sufficient number of spoonfuls of coffee and sip these, until you can lift the cup safely.

Q. A close friend of mine is giving a stork shower in my honor. Should I phone her the pleasure of thanks for, or should I write a note?

Modern etiquette
By Roberta Lee

Q. If a man is walking along the street with two women, does he walk between them?

A. Not usually. He should walk on the curb side, to avoid causing his best on one of the women while talking with the other.

Q. If a man is walking along true man of the sex ever refers to his ship a "boat", and he never refers to the "front" as "back", "right", "left", or "aside". It's always "forward", "aft", "starboard", "port", and "bulkheads".

Tons of machinery on the move

The boss cat spoke pace of electrical equipment can't be transported to a big hot power generating site. Shovels were unavailable to the permanent town during the first week of February).

A generator transformer weighing just over 15 tons was transported on a James & Reid low-bed trailer unit from Edmonton siding to the Brazeau power project. The rail equipment was composed of five cars of equipment.

The 70-mile journey was described on behalf of most drivers as "take advantage of winter roads" journey. The frozen ground made it possible to haul the heavy load over muskeg country without damage to the roads.

The transformer was stripped of all ancillary equipment and filled with an inert gas at the factory to reduce its shipping weight. When such parts as oiling radiators, 12,000 gallons of insulating oil tank, bushings, and other equipment are added at the site the transformer will weigh about 220 tons.

Other heavy electrical and mechanical equipment has been moved on site from both Edmonton and Breton. Two other transformers, one of 85-ton shipping weight, and other of 85-ton shipping weight, were hauled to the Brazeau development project in late January.

The first unit of the Big Bend plant is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1964. Generator and turbine parts for the 102,000 h.p. unit were transported to the site. Each heavy piece on a 28-ton "cradle" carrier moved to support the generator bracket, a section of rotor, and stator sections (3) and other components were brought in by the powerhouse site.

Seen above, the powerhouse transformer near destination at the Big Bend powerhouse, travelling along a narrow access road bordering the Brazeau River. The river crossing was made possible by Government permission to reduce water flow from the Big Bend storage dam, 12 miles upstream. A footing of rough concrete and gravel fill provided additional support for the footing operation. In readiness for hoisting the transformer from its trailer into the plant, two heavy cables (each thick as a man's arm), are already attached to the unit.

Tofield HS wins drama honors

The Tofield high school drama class fared well in the Zone 3 Drama Festival held in Vegreville on March 13 and 14. Best actor award for the festival went to Kevin Pike, while runner-up for best actress went to Rosemary Hallet and runner-up for the best play went to the Tofield director, Cal Annis, for the play, "Goodnight, Caroline".

BEST ACTRESS
Best actress for the festival was won by Judy Bingley of Vegreville. The best play award was won by the Andrew play "Riders to the Sea", directed by Eugene Topchinsky.

The adjudicator, Frank Beaudet of the University of Alberta, expressed to the participants his pleasure that the play were for the students was to be enjoyed by the audience first of all and in the process to gain self-confidence and poise.

Plays were entered from Tofield, Holden, Lamont, Fort Saskatchewan, Vermilion and Andrew.

The play "Goodnight Caroline" was given special mention for the acting ability by the festival director.

A bit parts taken by Marlyn Hyndman and Lynda Hyndman who gave a good performance.

Rosemary Hallet playing her part in the most capable manner had been part, cute and very much coquettish. She convinced the audience and the turned out to be a very dramatic attention and kept them guessing as to whether she would become a bachelor girl or husband who saved her from being one.

Kevin Pike, the male lead and overall winner of the festival, became a convincing servant of propriety in his part. He played the husband of Rosemary and attempted to please his wife just to keep peace and not cause alarm. His actions and facial expressions were of a type that desperately trying to please a demanding wife.

The Town of Tofield and the County of Beaver can be proud of their entry in this festival. It is hoped that the festival will be held in the near future where all zone winners will be able to participate and decide on their own winners. Jack McCulloch is to be congratulated for his part in directing this group of players.

The play also injured by the accident, who is in the University Hospital, is now much better. Joan's husband, who is staying in Edmonton with relatives, is allowed to visit with Joan for a few minutes each day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Armstrong, who were in Edmonton the early part of last week to be with their daughter Joan, returned home Tuesday when her condition improved slightly.

March is good seed month

The need for farmers to use good quality clean seed was emphasized by Alberta Agriculture Minister Hon. Harry E. Strom, as he declared March 16th, Good Seed Month in the Province of Alberta.

The minister urged all seed dealers and handlers of seed to observe and stress the use of top quality seed for better crop yields noted, "control of weeds is certainly much improved through the use of chemicals but a much better way is through the use of good seed".

He also suggested to farmers that they give consideration to growing the current varieties for their particular area in the province.

Mr. Charlie Moore, Debolt, Alberta, vice-president of the Alberta Branch, Canadian Seed Growers' Association, commenting on the declaration, said his organization since 1922 has worked with the Alberta Department of Agriculture in promoting the use of good seed.

Mr. Moore noted that his association was formed for the purpose of bringing about an improvement in the crops of Canada by the general use of improved seed.

"Sixty years of service to agriculture in Canada is now a reality by the Canada Seed Growers' Association", Mr. Moore said.

Working closely with the Departments of Agriculture, Federal and Provincial, our universities and other agencies, it has taken an important part in our national prosperity.

Considering the contributions of the CSGA, Mr. Moore said, "Canada's farmers can justifiably take pride in their accomplishments".

"Canada's farmers have benefitted by the use of improved seed, but a continued effort is necessary to keep ahead of varietal deterioration, detected in such a way as not only to leave the crop bigger and better but to quality of the grain", the Hon. Mr. Strom people".

Time to economize

Every day we hear of higher taxation, higher budgets, and as a result wild suggestions on how the extra money can be collected. It would be welcome news if some politician or administrator would make a few suggestions on how we could cut expenses and hold the line on spiralling government costs. This type of individual will show up if we, the voters, do something about it. We can stop asking for more for nothing, we can ask for less expenditure, and we can vote for the people who will think of cutting costs. The trend is applicable to every level of administration from the federal government down to the local government and yes, even in our pet club or local organization.

Frank Gainer from Banff-Cochrane suggests taxing the oil companies more. J. C. Hillman from Sedgewick constituency revives the sales tax herring. Others have been equally brilliant in their suggestions. They seem to forget we must pay, no matter how it is collected. What a story it would be if any one of them or a few of them would speak in favor of holding the expenditures where they are so there would be no need for new and additional taxes.

The Hon. J. Donovan Ross recently told the legislature the first health budget brought down by a Social Credit government in 1936 totalled $1.6 million. His 1964 budget is asking for $111,281,800. If he is reported correctly it sounds more like a boast than something he should be ashamed of.

It is reported from Ottawa that at March 31, the total net debt, per capita, would stand at $789.10. This is up $50.00 per capita, based on a national population of 18,180,000 people. Add to this current expenditures of the federal government, the provincial governments, and local government, and the debts of these governments, and you are getting very close to using 50 cents of every dollar you earn for the cost of government. Still we ask for more and support the men who will promise more.

Collect this cost of government through sales tax, property tax, gasoline tax, income tax, or any other tax and it still has to be paid and comes out of the dollar we earn.

What a statesman anyone would be who could suggest ways and means of giving us what is really necessary from what we are paying now. If he or she is looking for headlines they should try the "more for less" approach.

Writing on the wall

For those who would read the writing on the wall, the finger must have left a message when the violent wind over the week-end lifted clouds of dust from the bone-dry fields throughout the district, and scattered the precious soil all over the countryside.

Granted, it's been an exceptionally dry winter, and the snow cover is all gone, but it's just as obvious that many fields haven't lost any of their topsoil through erosion of wind. The difference, of course, has to lie in the various methods of soil culture being employed. This is the only major difference between neighboring fields, and the only difference that accounts for some fields holding tight, while others disappear.

Maybe it's in the growing of shelter belts, maybe it's in leaving a high stubble, maybe it's spreading the straw with a chopper, it could be in the form of cultivating and tilling, and the speed, or it might even lie in strip farming, which is not common in this district.

Yet the fact is that some farmers, all too many we're afraid, seem to forget the lessons of the dirty '30's, when dry fields were the rule, and every season had to be treated the same way; when one of the major problems was to hold down what soil there was. The science of farming has come a long way in these thirty years, and big strides have been made, but it's a sorry spectacle to see drifted snowbanks in the ditches which are black with dirt from the fields beside them.

Some of the straw being burned or stacked would have been a blessing during recent gale force winds to farmers who needed the protection and didn't have it.

No chance to win

The man who draws up the country's budget can't win, and all he can look forward to following the bringing down of any budget is maybe a little ters criticism, rather than a little more. It's probable that if some minister of finance were to abolish all taxes, he'd be criticized by some people for not having done it sooner.

So, in this light, Walter Gordon couldn't win. He gets mighty little credit for some good things, and lots of criticism for ideas which don't appeal to certain sectors of the community. Little is being said, for instance, about the extension of the family allowances . . . as long as the children do not leave school before they are 17. While it may not be too important, even if money is always welcome, in the decision whether Johnny stays in school here in Alberta, it's almost certain to have a beneficial result in Quebec and some other areas, where families tend to be lower, and the financial assistance is important. Equally important is keeping Jacques in school, for his record until recently has been quitting too early.

One thing which disappoints us is Gordon's backpedalling on the suggested penalty on American monopoly in many Canadian companies. However, we feel he missed the strategy of inserting the wedge in this area, not by jumping the withholding tax by a massive five per cent, which is a full third of the present tax, but by one per cent jumps. He has, for instance, accepted the principle of instituting the sales tax in the construction field by steps. Those who say American investment would be completely discouraged are proven wrong in the light of Alberta's oil industry. We recall the step-by-step increase employed more than a decade ago by the then, and one of Alberta's best, minister of lands and mines N. E. Tanner who bluntly told the oil industry as he increased the royalty in proven fields "frankly, gentlemen, we're closing in on you." And did they resent it? Did they cease to pour money into development? Did they pull out because we wanted a little bigger share for the natives? Look at the billions of dollars spent in the past ten years, and try to say "yes" with a straight face.

Plastic beer bottles

Tongue in cheek, we're moved to say we felt it had to be a newspaperman who showed the good sense to recommend plastic for beer bottles in Alberta, and of course, it was Deputy Speaker Ashley Cooper made the suggestion last week in the Legislature, when he added that many are the farmers who complain about the broken glass being picked up by their combines, thus ruining the grain, and many are the injuries caused by these lethal remnants

Mr. Cooper is editor of The Vermilion Standard, as well as being deputy speaker for Alberta, and we hope his comments in the legislature may be more effective with support from a number of editorial columns. Broken glass bottles have bothered this column for years, as our readers must know. We're glad to have powerful support . . . for once . . . on the government side and inside of the house

By Roberta Lee

Q I see more and more women shaking hands with men and other women upon being introduced. Is this now considered the proper thing?

A. Although optional, I like the women who do shake hands. I think they're also my more sincere pleasure and warmth over a meeting or introduction when they offer their hands.

Q What are your ideas on the most trusted kind of wedding ring a bride could receive?

A. Personally I like the plain band of gold. You'll find that if you're going to wash dishes three times a day and do your own laundry, the plain band is much more practical than a diamond. It never has to be removed, cleaned, or repaired.

Accident Vaccine?

WELL, NOT EXACTLY. Ten years ago, polio was a major killer of youth; today, vaccine has made the disease a comparative rarity. But, even when polio was claiming lives by the hundreds, traffic accidents were killing more people under 25 than any other single cause of death—and they still are.

Do we have an accident vaccine?

No. People can't be vaccinated against accidents, but the toll can be reduced through the teaching of correct driving habits—and safety habits—in our teen-age population at the formative stages in their lives.

This is what the automobile insurance business does through its sponsorship of the National Teen-age Safe Driving Championship—the culmination of a coast-to-coast series of safe driving competitions involving more than 30,000 young drivers in 225 Canadian communities each year.

IN MEMORIAM

HJELTER.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Harold Hjelter, who passed away March 27, 1961.

Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a heartache nothing can heal.
Some may forget you, now that you're gone,
But we shall remember, no matter how long.
We loved you, but God loved you best,
So he took you home, dear Harold, and take your rest.

Lions veto withholding administration expense

At the regular meeting of the Tofield Lions Club, held Thursday evening, several controversial matters came up for discussion. One of these was the practice of other clubs of withholding 10% of all funds raised by projects for use in administration of the club.

After lengthy discussion of the matter, it was decided to refrain from following this practice, as the majority of the members felt that these moneys had been raised from the general public with the understanding that they were to be used for community betterment only.

Rather than deduct this 10%, the club will sponsor sports pools, the profits from which will be used in the naturation, and the pools clearly labeled as such. Lions Chuck Blackford and Ray Henricksen were put in charge of these pools.

It was also decided to join with the Ryley club in making available to all schools in the county, a set of books on Australia; these books being supplied by the Lions Clubs of Alberta at an effort to all Lions Clubs in the world.

AND THE WESTERN SUPPLEMENT

VOL. 12—NO. 30 PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA Thursday, March 26th., 1964

An extraordinary pilot project for the medical care and education of multiple handicapped children is under way at the Glenrose Provincial General Hospital in Edmonton, where six children, from ages two to 10, have already been admitted. These children receive therapeutic and medical treatment and attend classes each day during the regular school classes, according to their grade standings. Many of these go to class in a wheel chair, and a few are wheeled to their desks in their beds.

More right than wrong in Canada says speaker on separatism

"There's a lot more that is right with Canada than there is wrong with Canada." Former speaker of the House of Commons and fluently French, Marcel Lambert, member of parliament for Edmonton West told this to a keenly attentive audience of nearly 200 in Camrose last Friday evening.

Mr. Lambert was discussing the twin subjects of biculturalism and bilingualism, as he pointed out that Canada is a multi-bilingual country, not simply bi-

There are many languages here, and Quebec is not the only province in Canada desiring an French for all, he said.

Referring to the present attitude over separatism, he said there were extremes among the two professional people. The feeling is well stated among the intellectuals, he said, points out they are extremely vocal and fervently represented in the journalists.

Mr. Lambert's talk he'd the attention of his audience for more than three quarters of an hour when he engaged in answering questions for another half hour. At the close of the meeting, he was presented with a Camrose pottery by the Chamber vice - president Dr. Ken Bayonet.

The problem of separatism is not by any means limited to Central Canada Mr. Lambert said, but started a number of years ago. The solution, he felt, could be based on the fact that the different types of population to be found across the country. We must go forward from there today. It is not a question of who was here in 1867, and in what proportions he declared. We must go forward from where we are.

The well known lawyer and former Alberta Rhodes scholar charged there is a paper curtain drawn across Canada at the Great Lakes. Newspapers in the West carry little real news about the other side, and the reverse is true in the East. Regardless of the great size caused by publicity, he said a survey showed 22% of Quebecers had not even heard of the problem, and only as few as 12% were keenly interested.

The great mass of the Quebec population don't want separation, nor do they think it is feasible, he said.

The major problem is not to seek what THEY want, or WE want, but what are we prepared to give, what are they prepared to give to keep this great country going.

Mr. Lambert referred to one of the major committees of the Province speaking Canadian that they are not considered for major positions in government or industry, and pointed out several of the reasons why this has been true. One of the more significant points, he said, is that rate to senior position generally requires willingness to accept transfer across the country, but this creates problems for children, and many Quebeckers are unwilling to accept this. Thus they are cut off from items in the educating of their transfer, and promotion, he said.

Similarly, the speaker confirmed, most educated old and prepare students in Quebec for this line of responsibility. And last sunday, 79% of young men did not finish even a Grade 9 education he said this seems to be the basic solution of the problem.

The speaker said the Quebec revolution is not really based on the role of government but primarily on an economic and educational basis.

So long as the threat of extremism and force continues, and the issuing of ultimatums is used, we are not going to achieve anything lasting. All this leads to the isolation of the country.

The responsibility facing all of us, maintained the speaker is clear, is to work to develop Canada on a truly national basis, developing the truth that the whole is more than the parts.

I believe that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. Really great men have a curious feeling that the greatness is not in them, but through them, and they see something divine in every other man and are endlessly, bewrayingly merciful.

Guest Editorial— . . . Keep our heads

The Montreal Star

From many quarters and from many reporters, notably Finance Minister Gordon in a recent interview here and the current issue of Maclean's Magazine, come reports that English-speaking Canada is beginning to get "fed up" with Quebec. Too much "separatism," too many "demands" and so on. Let us all sit back and take long, deep breaths together. Let us avoid a collision course. There is too much at stake. Things, fundamentally, are going very well.

The basic problem is that both policy and opinion in Quebec have gone too fast for English Canada. It has felt no need to undertake the kind of "quiet revolution" which now dominates Quebec which, after many long years of flaccid acceptance of English Canada's interpretation of Confederation, is now asserting itself in new ways. English Canada, broadly speaking, was ready to continue a comfortable status quo, and saw no reason to change.

Suddenly it found Quebec in a new mood, assertive and aggressive, talking sometimes too wildly for its own good. After a couple of years of this the English-speaking provinces, in this regionally afflicted country of ours, began to ask what is going on, what do these people want, why don't they realize that no province in Canada has not got problems.

Behind these specific questions lie the basic cleavages of language and culture and political tradition, coupled with prejudice and insularity and misunderstanding. Let us not minimize the difficulties. They exist, and they can easily become worse if we do not all — French and English alike — maintain the patience and moderation which both sides of this national controversy agree have been and remain, an essential Canadian characteristic.

On the one side it is important for responsible Quebec leaders, political and non-political alike, to refrain from making statements likely to inflame the English-speaking provinces. They have developed an understandable habit of doing so. Because of lack of contact they have not yet realized that they have, to all intents and purposes, won their point. Hereafter the people of the English provinces — apart from the usual small percentage of kooks — will know that the long-postponed readjustment of French-English attitudes in Canada must be worked out. This is the major victory which, in the long run will pay rich dividends.

On the other, the English side, there must be recognition that the men who make inflammatory statements do not necessarily represent the real, moderate opinion of Quebec. They must recognize that the vast Quebec majority does not want to separate and wants to work out a reasonable compromise. English Canada must not allow itself to be carried away on a wave of headlines.

The recent raid and theft of weapons from a Montreal armory does not represent the responsible opinion of Quebec, not even anything like it. Its only importance is as a reminder that in Quebec does want recognition of the undoubted fact that responsible grievances long left unrecognized, most of which can be adjusted without even an amendment to the BNA Act.

The lunatic fringe of politics is not confined to Quebec. It exists in every province. What we have all learned to do is to live with it It is indeed true that, in the other provinces, violence has not been resorted to. Violence is a new factor, but it can be dealt with effectively now (as it was last spring) without recourse to any other measures than competent police work.

Telepoll, again

Readers of this column know that most of the time we haven't much use for the television program Telepoll, sponsored by Canada's two national railways, and last Sunday's was no exception.

With all the vast network of communications available, and with all the brains these two networks can muster, it concerns us that so many poor choices of material can be made, and so often presented in a biased, or slanted fashion.

But last Sunday's takes the cake, In our view.

We have little to say about the question on the Liz Taylor - Richard Burton romance except that it has already gained too much attention and notoriety. However, when it comes to asking whether justice was done in the Ruby case, the program is over-stuffed.

We have only recently been howling over unwarranted American interference in affairs that are strictly Canadian, and no matter how keenly we may feel about the death of President Kennedy, the matter is now down to a simple question of justice in the law courts of another country. To focus attention on it through a national program in Canada is an intrusion not called for. Even worse, probably, is attaching any importance to the verdict of a thousand "jurors" who have not had the benefit of hearing all the evidence and supporting material presented at the trial.

This is degenerating to backneirism of the most irresponsible nature.

Christian unity

This Friday Christians all over the world will gather in their respective churches to commemorate the death by crucifixion of the man they believe to be the Son of God — Jesus Christ. Then on Sunday they will celebrate His resurrection from the dead . . . His victory over sin and the grave.

No doubt the majority of the world's Christians today are pleased with what appears to be a definite trend towards a uniting of several branches of the Christian Church which have sprung up all during the years since the sixteenth century Reformation. Much of the credit for adding impetus to the trend toward unity must go to the late Pope John, and to his successor who is carrying on the work, Pope Paul.

We have no doubt whatever that this movement toward re-uniting the world's Christians is yet another wave of the resurging power that has been evidenced on so many occasions since the birth of the Christian church through the death of the world's Savior.

In his book, New Testament Christianity, J. B. Phillips says, "I find that there is a definite movement towards a united Church, and a very deep desire to see the end of 'our unhappy divisions'. I have found this strongly marked desire in all denominations, and for myself I would say that unless a mass is completely blind and bigoted, he could scarcely deny that the living Spirit of God is using gently but considerable pressure to bring all Christians together. . . . As has been brought home to me in many letters, the points of agreement among the Christian denominations are so very much larger than the points of disagreement that . . . it is the height of folly to say or do anything which suppones the process of unity or perpetuates our differences."

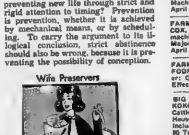
And surely the settling of these differences would be a major step toward the goal of universal love and brotherhood which Christ taught and for which he died.

Birth control winning

Writing in Maclean's Magazine recently, Robert Fulford draws attention to the social evils caused by laws governing birth control which do not have the full support of a wide segment of the populace. This calls sharply into focus a recent student editorial on the subject in The Canadian, followed by two letters to the editor almost immediately.

One of the things we have never been able to understand is the cry over the destruction of life, when in fact mechanical contraception does not actually destroy life, it simply attempts to prevent the conception of a new life.

And if, which we do not concede, it is sinful to savor the enjoyment of cohabitation while preventing conception by mechanical means, why is it not equally wrong to enjoy the same fulfillment while by calculated design preventing new life through strict and rigid attention to timing? Prevention is prevention, whether it is achieved by mechanical means, or by scheduling. To carry the argument to its logical conclusion, strict abstinence should also be wrong, because it is preventing the possibility of conception.



BY GEORGE!

NO CITY COMMISSIONER

Here is an interesting item which appeared in the March 9th, 1955, issue of The Canadian. It concerns a topic that is still being discussed nine years later — almost to the day

"When the city council got to the item on the agenda, 'City Commissioner,' Alderman Hymie Cohen suggested that the matter be tabled until after the first fall council was elected in the fall. Following discussion the question was tabled until after the aldermanic election on March 21st.

"Mayor R. H. Hume's answer to Alderman Cohen's suggestion was that the section of the new act which reads 'The council of the city shall be deemed to be the council of the city until the first meeting of the new city council which shall be held on the Monday immediately following the date of the proclamation' does not apply to the idea council shall have all the powers and be charged with all the duties of the city council and shall carry on the same as nearly as possible in the manner provided by the 'Public' . . . ers. (There's a brain-twister for you!)

"Alderman Cohen agreed that the matter should be left for the present council, but because of conditions he thought it best to wait until fall. He said he found on his trip east that business conditions were a little uncertain.

"Ald. F. M. Smith said that the city was hiring a commissioner to save money, and that Mr. Cohen's point was well made.

"Mayor Hume agreed to table the matter until after they had a full council on March 21st but did not favor delaying action until fall.

And so, if memory serves correctly, Mayor Hume was made part-time city commissioner early in 1956, almost four years later and council is still undecided as to when and if a full-time manager or commissioner should be hired.

FAMILIAR FACES?

Tofield residents who heard the Camrose Barbershoppers sing here last fall will be interested in the above quartet. These four men make up the Four-de-nation, who appeared on the Barbershop Harmony Night program in Camrose four years ago and will be headlining the show again this year. They come from Seattle, Washington, and like Camrose's own Harbor-ettes, are past district champions.

Increased yields from quality seed use

By using the largest seeds of any variety, it is possible to increase barley yields from 3 to approximately three bushels per acre and significantly increase the amount of "cone sense in the crop, according to researchers at the Canada Department of Agriculture Lacombe Experimental Farm.

A. D. McFadden and M. L. Kaufmann over the past five years have germinated seeds of barley to show large seeds are much more vigorous and produce more root and top growth than those from small seeds. They also produce more seeds per head.

For the tests, seed lots designated small, medium and large were obtained by sieve separations and another category — "mixed" — was taken from the original sample. Average yields per acre over a three year period at five locations in Alberta were: small, 82 bushels; medium, 83; and large, 85.

Even by taking samples that had been cleaned to a registered No. 2 standard and separating the larger seeds, the yield difference was significant.

During the same tests, it was seen that the incidence of loose smut could be reduced by as much as ten times by using seed of a large size.

These results indicate, say the researchers, that extreme care should be taken when processing seed. They say, "Although increases may not be obtained in all cases, where conditions are favorable the extra effort in processing will pay dividends."

This item highlights during March Good Seed Month that using good seed of the proper variety offers the best investment protection and possibilities of increased returns.

As Federal Minister of Agriculture, Harry Hays pointed out in declaring March as Good Seed Month nationally, "Growers who purchase certified seed of recommended varieties are getting the best available . . . seed that is pure as to variety, and has a high level of germination and uniformity of results in the field.

Good seed reduces crop risks

Crops and varieties selected to suit the growing conditions on the farm and the needs of the farmer are a first essential. Many risks of production can be minimized by planting the right variety of the right crop. Our opportunity to set the record straight is to nominate them for Calgary Power's Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year Awards. This program gives outstanding youngsters the recognition they should have.

If you know such a young person (as I'm sure you do) between 6 and 16 years, please write or phone me at my office. Please include your own name and address.

1964 Calgary Power awards will be for acts of courage or merit since September 1963. All nominators of award winners receive a special certificate of recognition. To be proud to have this, and I'm sure you would, too.

A Great White Father

My first and, to date, only meeting with Dr. Ivan Crowell, of that name, after we had shook him down from his swivel-chair in Fredericton New Brunswick, to craft rooms housed in attractive bungalow along a country promontory in Pundy National Park.

Dr. Crowell is a fortunate woman being because he has seen his dreams come true. Dr. Crowell started out on his career with the ambition to be a manual training teacher. Then he decided to be a plain agricultural and obtained his degree in science at Harvard University.

It was in some way was [illegible] manual labour as a means to an end, he became interested in [illegible] and industries also.

Canadian Garden Service . . .

(By Gordon Lindsay Smith)

SOIL FOR STARTING SEEDS AND SLIPS

One of the biggest discouragements a gardener sees is seeds or slips of plants indoors or to have them germinate to grow nicely only to wither and die shortly afterwards. This trouble is usually due to soil disease called "damping-off". The easiest way of preventing it is to use sphagnum moss vermiculite sand or a special and thoroughly sterilized soil. The first two are the easiest to secure being available at any seed store. Actually, neither the seed nor the plant slips need any great amount of nourishment to germinate and start growth. Just keeping the planting medium moist but not wet is sufficient for the first two to three weeks. Later, when well-rooted and the time comes for first transplanting, nourishment is provided in the shape of rich potting soil with some drainage in the bottom of the flower pot or flat. Sphagnum or peat moss are also an ideal conditioner for heavy or very light soil. A two-inch layer dug into a flower bed thoroughly will change the whole structure of the soil in a few weeks making it loose or friable as the experts say and far more retentive of moisture.

Helpful Information

To build a house, one should know something about the size, shape, color and spacial needs of the materials to be used in construction, and what goes with what and when. To build garden, velop or build a good garden we need similar seed information, and the seed catalogue is where we will find it.

When we plant, how deep to plant and how far apart — how big the plant will grow, when it will bloom etc. It is helpful to know to protect it from insect and disease, what sort of a location, sunny or shady, rich or poor soil, etc. etc. Answers to all such questions could be found in the catalogue, and the information is usually the specially tuned to Canadian climate and other conditions. There are lots of beautiful flowers, and some vegetables that may do well in Florida or Italy, but will be a failure here in Those, however, will never be listed in a Canadian seed catalogue as offered by a reputable Canadian seed merchant. Only varieties that have been tested and found suited to our vigorous climate will be listed and recommended.

Lawn Work Early

One place the indoor plant gardener can start over the snow grass and the ground is fairly dry is on the lawn. Grass is a cool weather plant and can be raked as early as possible. Later mosses and moss will start in but it is a matter of fact, it is well to remember that in Canada to do all grass seeding before or after the summer heat, that is up to mid-June or after the end of August.

Too many people seem to forget that grass is a plant, and like other plants it needs food and moisture regularly for the best results. An application of commercial fertilizer, high in nitrogen, every spring or fall and a thorough watering during very dry weather, will insure a smooth luxuriant growth and rich deep colour, and this will also tend to crowd out weeds. Of course even more important is good seed, because without it, it will be impossible to produce a fine lawn lastingly. Any good seed for the average home owner will be a high class blended mixture of several varieties of early, medium and late maturity, specially blended to produce even, fine and deep green color throughout the entire season.

Sharp And Clean

It is surprising how much faster and pleasanter the digging and use of the spade is sharp and clean. If the handle is smooth and easy on the hands. And the same applies to the rake the hoe, the special long handled and short handled weeders and in the power mowers or garden tractor. So keeping all digging and or grass clippers, filing sharp the cutting edges and spreading a little oil on the metal parts to prevent rust and rubbing it into wooden handles to prevent blisters, only takes a few minutes but it will speed up the work and make the tools last indefinitely. A power mower or tractor well looked after in the matter of oil changes, greasing, where necessary and regular cleaning or renewing of spark plugs should last for years. One not looked after will do well to operate into the second season.

"Small Fry Humor"

There are sometimes fiendish depths in the feminine mind — even when it is only five years old.

My five - year - old granddaughter, Leonne, and another little girl her age were playing together one day and wanted no part of Leonne's three-year-old brother. Leonne's mother however insisted that the little fellow be taken into the girls' game.

Shortly thereafter he came screaming to his mother that he didn't like the girls' game. His mother immediately went to the girls and demanded to know what sort of game they were playing.

"Well, you see," explained Leonne, "we were playing that John was the daddy and he has just died, so of course we can't have him in here. We put him outside until we can get around to burying him."

This piece of unconsciously macabre Small Fry Humor win our weekly prize of five dollars for V. E. Collins, 2004 S.W. Marine Drive, Vancouver 14, B.C.

Army Needs Help

Webbing! Hundreds of thousands of yards of it it were issued during the First World War, but today they are as scarce as the proverbial "hen's teeth."

Major C. A. Bell, (rtd.), Curator of the Army Museum at the Halifax Citadel, has been searching for a set of the 1914-18 web equipment for many months, but an extensive search by museum officials has failed to find a single set.

Pictures of Canadian soldiers wearing the broad belts and shoulder straps over khaki-high necked tunics are to be found, but the only actual sets of the old webbing are in other possession.

Hoping that great conflict one could have found "every an old "tweed" who would have cheerfully given you his set without the asking, but the situation is different today.

Readers who have pieces of this equipment or know the whereabouts of any are asked to contact Capt. Holt at the Army Museum, Halifax Citadel, Halifax, N.S.

Spring Brings New Vigor

Spring bloomed officially on March 20, bringing new vigor to plants, animals, and people

Some plants boldly thrust themselves up from milk-frozen soil to greet the verdant season. Trees put forth leaves, the amazing mechanisms that take energy from the rays of the warming sun and transform water and air into the substance of branches, trunks, and roots.

Other plants do more than just sprout. Aquatic duckweeds, submerged in winter, rise to the surface by filling themselves with hydrogen gas. Pitcher plants start catching and eating bugs

TIME FOR MIGRATIONS

Insects crawl from their hiding places. Bears come out of winter's sleep. Birds fly north to nest. Bird-worms move up from below the frostline. Baby eels, hatched in mid-ocean, begin their annual assault on the streams of the East Coast.

In spring, human beings do their own kind of migrating. Children head for sandboxes, their mothers for the hot stoves.

The first day of spring in Japan is a national holiday. Millions go to Tokyo's parks to sing, clap hands, and picnic under the cherry trees. Musicians dance through the festive throngs. Buddhists offer special prayers for the souls of their departed relatives.

Egyptians greet spring by getting up at 4 a.m. on the day of Sham el Nessim to dress in new clothes and stroll along the Nile. They break open sticks of green onions as a part of the spring ritual and sniff the pungent odor. Sham el Nessim means "smelling the sweet breeze."

Moscow housewives signal the end of Russian winter by pasting oil paper tape that has insided their windows from subzero cold. Then they sit along the banks of the Moscow River and watch the ice break up.

When robed and hooded Druids gather near Stonehenge Tower of London to celebrate ethen offe, the arrival of spring. Members of the ancient cult join hands in a circle and scatter seeds, forsythia blooms, and color on the ground, supposedly to honor the sun.

CAPS INTO THE FYRIAM

In Sweden, to mark the end of a long dark winter which may last through April, students in Uppsala light bonfires, throw their winter-worn caps in the Fyrisa River, and party all night.

In the United States, Washington, D.C. steals a march on spring with its annual flower and garden show in early March. Spring festivals later burst out all over — featuring azaleas, apple blossoms, dogwoods, rhododendrons, tulips, and cherry blossoms. Wild flower enthusiasts make pilgrimages to national parks. On the west coast, visitors gather at California's old mission of San Juan Capistrano on March 19 and wait the return of the swallows, an event said to augur spring

Spring, surprisingly, hasn't always been a favorite time for youngsters. Canadian mothers were once convinced that the seasonal change brought "spring fever" whose symptoms included anemia, skin pallor, fading of the eyes and hair, and a generally bleached and withered look

The recommended first-day of spring treatment in 1861 two ounces of sulphur, two ounces of molasses, mixed, and downed before breakfast.

'Quakes Familiar to Azoreans

ATLANTIC WAY STATION

The Azores have been a way station for Atlantic travelers since Columbus made a landfall at Santa Maria on February 18, 1493, on his return voyage from the West Indies.

In 1919 the United States Navy plane NC4 hopped in the Azores from Newfoundland on a trans-Atlantic flight. Twenty years later the famed "Yankee Clipper" made the isles a port of call on regular flights between New York and Marseille.

Today, commercial flights touch down at Santa Maria airport, which was constructed for the United States Air Force in 1944. There is a United States Air Force base at Lajes, on Terceira Island, and personnel from this base participated in recent earthquake rescue operations at Sao Jorge.

Evacuees from Sao Jorge described the recent three days of earth shocks as a "nightmare." Some have vowed they will never return to their island.

Earthquakes and volcanic eruptions have buffeted the Azores archipelago and terrified its inhabitants since it was colonized in the 15th century.

With the exception of Santa Maria, the easternmost isle, all of the Azores are of volcanic origin, their topography marked by craters, cones, and ridges. Many contain hot springs, fumaroles, and crater lakes.

Spread over 400 miles of ocean, the nine-island archipelago consists of three distinct groups that total 893 square miles. They are a part of the Mid-Atlantic Ridge, rising 2½ miles above the ocean floor.

INTENSELY CULTIVATED

Stark volcanic peaks, the highest over 7,500 feet, tower above vineyards and intensely cultivated fields of pineapples, oranges, grapes, corn, wheat, and tobacco. In Sao Jorge, whose villages were flattened by the recent earthquakes, the main occupation is cattle raising

The Azorean climate is nearly ideal. The temperature ranges between 53 and 78 degrees. White, pink, and blue stucco houses with red-tile roofs give the islands a Mediterranean atmosphere. Hydrangeas, azaleas, and camellias border the roadsides.

The present population is about 400,000. Portuguese discoverers found no inhabitants on the islands in 1431, though recent evidence has indicated that ancient Carthaginians visited the archipelago thousands of years ago.

Today's islanders are mostly Portuguese-speaking people of Portuguese stock. A few Englishmen, Scots, Irish, Flemings, and Bretons were early immigrants and have become assimilated.

The Azores are administered as districts of Portugal with the same status as those of the parent nation. There is no central government.

This Week's Cover Picture

It's spring time in the Rockies. Winter moves from the high country are tumbling down every canyon in the form of tempestuous little streams impatiently pushing the ice and debris of winter out of their way. The happy wee torrent shown on our cover this week is pouring down the canyon at Canyon B.C. — off to spread the summer in the rivers and lakes that make Western Canada's mountain area one of the most beautiful in the world. The photography is the work of Charles Worthington of Kimberley, B.C.

The Western Farm Scene — By Grant MacEwan

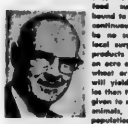
Observations By A Canadian About Agriculture in Europe

To a Canadian travelling in Europe in February, it would not occupy attention that a glass of milk carried a lower cost than a cup of coffee, beef was a luxury meat, cheese appeared commonly on meal tables and white bread was inconspicuous. In some ways, it was a reflection of local agriculture.

Where human population is so high in relation to arable land, the pressures on food supplies are bound to be great and continuous. There can be no such thing as local surplus of farm products and, because an acre of potatoes or wheat or sugar beets will yield more calories than the same area given to meat or dairy animals, the livestock population is more likely to shrink than to go higher. Nevertheless, because of the problems in maintaining soil fertility coupled with the universal fondness for foods of animal origin, livestock numbers have been held at relatively high levels. Germany, for example, has over eleven million cattle — about the same number as kept in Canada.



Grant MacEwan

Where human population exceeds 406 per square mile, land is bound to be at a high premium United Kingdom — meaning England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland — has 94,295 square miles of area and a population of 53 millions. It means an average density of 563 per square mile, about the same concentration of human population as in West Germany, where 52 million people live on 95 million square miles. Switzerland has only 240 people per square mile but much of the Swiss surface is mountainous and unproductive.

NOT ALL CULTIVATED

In Holland, with population of 12 million people, the average density is about 850 per square mile, meaning that if all the land were cultivated, there would be just about three-quarters of an acre per person Because all the land is not and cannot be cultivated, the average arable land per person must be very much less than three-quarters of an acre.

As every country in Europe recognizes, it is a matter of highest importance that land be used wisely and fully. It was especially noticeable in Switzerland that just about every square foot of level land is being cultivated and every square foot of hillside or mountainside is supporting grass or trees.

Woodland care is meticulous everywhere and there is less evidence of soil erosion than one would see when travelling in Canada. In point of forest management — restricted cutting, utilization of branches, fire control and replanting — the Canadian foresters could set good examples for Canadians.

Travelling by rail and highway in Switzerland, Austria and West Germany in February, no farm livestock were to be seen What was the reason? The answer was that cattle and other livestock were stabled continuously from autumn until spring. While temperatures were hovering a little above freezing during the days and a little below freezing at nights, an Austrian farmer explained that he would not take a chance in letting his cattle outside for fear of them catching cold And so, he kept his Brown Swiss cattle — considered by North American observers to be a hardy breed — in the stable continuously during the cooler months.

GO OUTDOORS IN SPRING

In the spring, his cattle will go to graze on the hills and lower mountain slopes of the Alps. In the fall, they'll be allowed to graze on the cultivated fields from which the harvest has already been taken, and then back to indoor stalls for the winter months.

The Austrian and Swiss farms are small — a quarter of them being under six acres. On such small units, mechanization is not likely to be practical. Some work in the fields is done by hand, much of it by horses and some by oxen. In an Innsbruck second hand store, the writer counted seven ox-yokes which had seen recent use, and which he had an urge to bring home as museum pieces.

Driving through the West German countryside, it was easy to see the encroachment of industry upon farms. But with full German employment and apparent prosperity, nobody seemed to be complaining about the take-over of farm fields by factories. In England, there was something familiar about the news of the day, members of the National Farmers' Union in session in London and proclaiming their case for a bigger share of the national income. A few United Kingdom farmers, it was admitted, were making big profits but most are working for less than the returns to unskilled laborers. Calling upon the Government to increase farm income by 25 per cent, Harold Woolley, President of the N.F.U., said that in 1961, two out of every five farmers had incomes of less than £600.

ACTIVE WHEAT TRADE

At the same time, Europeans were reading from the Financial Times that the World wheat trade is more active at the present time than it has been in many years. International movement for the 1963-64 years is likely to reach 80 million tons and "the only limitation on a higher figure is the inability of the internal transport systems and port facilities of the principal exporters to handle the wheat."

Everywhere in Western Europe, it's easy to sense the impact of the lower-than-average crop output in 1963. As Canadians know very well, they were the unfavorable crop conditions in that part that led to unprecedented Russian purchases of wheat.

To make good the year's deficit in bread grains, Russia has purchased wheat from United States, Australia, France and Romania, as well as Canada, taking in all about 13 million or 14 million tons in imports.

In good years, Russia and France have wheat to sell and both countries are presently listed as exporting members of the International Wheat Agreement. But European agriculture reaches a degree of diversification which would bring surprise to Canadians. While dairying is universal in European countries, the visitor must be equally impressed by pigs in Denmark, grapes in Austria, bulbs in Holland and so on, giving the Old World farms a most varied character.

It Really Happened...

In 1932 my son was just nine months old. One Sunday morning he wakened early beside me in bed, but I wanted to doze a little more. He was clambering round at the head of the bed when all at once he fell on my head and didn't move

Jumping up quickly, I saw that he had the electric light socket, that was hanging bulbless at the head of the bed, in his mouth I got him lose and began dashing cold water on him. He came to and began to cry. I could see that his mouth had been badly hurt.

I rushed him to the doctor, who after examing the little fellow, said he doubted that he could live. The most he could do was give him some drops to keep him asleep and apply some glycerine to the burns Some one had to hold the little fellow all the time.

About a week or so later, my little boy's tongue came right out and there was nothing but a hole where it had been I thought surely he would die then. I fed him with an eye dropper for a long time Slowly a second tongue grew in his mouth to our astonishment and relief However this second tongue was solid and he had to have an operation on it to loosen it up He had a second operation when he entered the Air Force.

Today my son is a married man with a family of five children. He drives for one of the major bus companies.

To me, this growth of a second tongue was nothing less than a miracle for which I had fervently prayed.

The above remarkable story wins this week's prize of five dollars for Mrs. Roy of Carnwood, Alta.

Wouldn't Be Easter, Without Eggs

By GLADYS CHAPMAN

Easter without Easter eggs would be unimaginable — like Christmas without filled stockings or gaily-decorated trees.

I NEED REST?

Disturbed rest may result from Nicotine and urinary irritations. GIN PILLS gently stimulate your system to relieve broken rest, save hours, a tired run-down feeling. Soon life and life.

GIN PILLS

Shrove Tuesday without pancakes, or Good Friday without Hot Cross Buns.

We all take eggs for granted at Easter, be they hen, chocolate or cream, and never pause to think how they came about.

Painted and decorated eggs have been Easter gifts down through the ages. The Chinese dyed eggs red at the time eight thousand years ago to signify nature's re-birth. The early Christians did the same centuries later to symbolize the blood of Christ's redemption.

ANCESTOR OF BUNNY

The Druids presented painted eggs to their goddess Eoire (or Ostory.) They thought that these came from the hare which is the ancestor of our Easter bunny.

The Persians presented each other with delicately tinted eggs at their Spring rites. The French dyed their eggs red and white.

In the 14th century, the accounts of 10-year-old Edward I showed a purchase of "450 and a half" (450) eggs for the sum of one shilling and sixpence (approximately 25 cents)! These were "boiled, dyed and decorated with gold leafs" for distribution to his household and servants.

In time, the decorated "Pasharl" or "Pare" eggs evolved into the game of rolling colored eggs down a hill on Easter Monday to symbolize rolling the stone from Christ's tomb.

Dyeing or painting shell eggs at Easter is a fine art with the Ukrainians and Polish people, who use geometrical, spiral or wallpaper designs to make intricate patterns. The Ukrainians use beeswax as a "mask" so that the colors will "take" only on the places wanted when the eggs are dipped in fast dyes. With the Polish method, a pattern is traced with a pencil, then the various parts of the pattern are put on with a tiny brush and poster paints in both cases, the results are often fascinating.

TOO NICE TO BREAK

The celebrated English engraver on glass, Laurence Whistler produced a series of exquisite, engraved eggs for his family and friends. Each eggshell carried a picture and engraving made with a sharp steel point.

Queen Victoria used to send hard-boiled eggs colorfully tinted and inscribed with various mottoes to her friends. She herself, once received an extremely beautiful egg from the Russian Czar, Alexander III. Inside the mother of pearl shell was a "nest" of delicate silver frosted twigs, baking silver supports pearls. The Queen had it put into a glass case in Windsor Castle, and it can still be seen there.

Queen Mary used to send pretty Easter eggs to friends, too.

Chocolate or decorated eggs seldom last long unless their fragile beauty is carefully prized or preserved, but many artificial eggs have been fashioned by artists and craftsmen out of glass (used for hard cookers or warmers in Colonial times); porcelain, metals and jewels, into what are now valuable antiques.

The idea of eggs as containers for Easter gifts became fairly widespread in the 18th century. In England, eggs of paper mache and later of cardboard were made to hide small articles by fitting the two halves together and hanging them with a ribbon or braid. By 1880 they became very large and very popular. Then they reverted to the smaller type covered with a wide range of trimmings.

LINKED WITH ROMANCE

Easter eggs have been linked with romance for centuries. Many have been beautiful and expensive eggs - presents of love! At one time kings and other rich men used to send fabulous eggs to their Lady friends or to a favorite actress.

On view in a German museum before the war was an iron Easter egg. The story goes that a German prince loved a princess who was fond of luxury. When the princess received the Easter egg made of iron she threw it down in a rage. The sharp blow caused a secret spring to open revealing a silver lining with a golden "yolk" inside. Inside the yolk was a small crown of rare rubies and a diamond engagement ring. The princess forgot her rage in delight.

The practice of giving expensive Easter eggs is an old custom. In France during the Second Empire (1852-70), these eggs became things of costly beauty. It was not unusual for men to pay thousands of dollars to please a wife or favourite of the moment.

Napoleon III gave Empress Eugenie a solid gold egg. Traced on its case in diamonds was the name "Eugenie". Inside on a scarlet velvet lining she found a necklace of pearls worth $100,000.

One of his courtiers gave the biggest Easter egg ever recorded, to an actress. It was ten feet high and twenty feet in circumference. Opened, it revealed a bike covering of velvet embroidered with golden arrows pierced hearts. When this was pulled aside she found a small carriage and pair of tiny ponies driven by a liveried groom. Needless to say, she was thrilled and was often seen driving around Paris in the equipage.

EGG WORTH $15,000

One Easter morning the Queen of Spain received a token of love from her subjects which rest more than $15,000. The outside was decorated with flowers made of fine metals. Inside, it was ingeniously illumined with electricity to reveal some exquisite jewels.

In 1887, Leo XIII, Pope of Rome, received an ivory egg enclosing a ruby in a golden case, all of it worth $50,000.

Another interesting egg which is still in a museum in Europe was once received by the Infanta of Spain at Easter. It was only a plain white enamel egg, but when the outer shell flicked open out popped a delightful little mechanical singing bird trilling its heart out. The jeweller had been instructed to make the mechanism so that it would never wear out, as used diamonds!

Best of all Easter eggs were the fairytale ones which Alexander III of Russia had Carl Faberge, his court jeweller, fashion for the Tsarina Maria Feodorovna in 1885. No one before nor since has ever made such a beautiful Easter egg and the Tsarina was thrilled to Alexander commissioned Faberge to make one for her every Easter. When he died in 1896, his son, Nicholas II continued the custom for his mother and added an extra one for his wife. Faberge made 56 such eggs of gold and jewels until the Revolution in 1917 ended an era of splendor. For these he received about $12,000 each, today they would be worth $125,000 each.

It would be impossible to describe all these delights which the imagination of Carl Faberge set forth to the wonder and admiration of his patrons. Each egg contained a surprise which was usually a fantastic spectacular — such as the minutely accurate miniature of the Uspensky Cathedral with its richly decorated interior, including rich carpets, altars and ornaments and even tiny chiming clocks in the towers.

Some of Maria Feodorovna's eggs found their way into the collection started by Queen Alexandra of England who had also received samples of Faberge's art as gifts from Edward VII in time they became the property of the late Queen Mary and are now in the treasure at Sandringham.

While this kind of Easter egg has gone forever, the lovelier modernes are not dead in 1961. A Paris confectioner sent a king size chocolate egg to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy her portrait adorning it was worked in sugar.

The Golden West: Five Roses Country

The earth is rich and fertile in Five Roses Country, stretching from Manitoba, across Saskatchewan, into Alberta. Here the summer days are long and hot, and there is just the right amount of sun and rain. Here is where the finest wheat in the world is grown . . . wheat that is hard, high in protein, rich in baking qualities. This is the wheat that Five Roses mills with painstaking skill and care into the world's finest flour . . . flour that is dazzling white, cloud-soft, and pure as Nature itself.

The Simple Secret Of Perfect Pastry:

½ lb. (1 cup) shortening
¼ cup butter
¼ cup cold water
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups Five Roses Pre-sifted Flour

Cream shortening and butter thoroughly, using electric beater if desired. Stir salt and Five Roses Flour together; gradually add to shortening mixture, creaming well. Add water and mix thoroughly. Mixture will be sticky at first. (Pastry will keep, if well wrapped, in refrigerator for 10 days. Before using, let stand at room temperature to soften.) Place half of dough on heavily floured pastry board; roll from centre outward until ⅛" thick. Cut with round cookie cutter 1" larger than tart wells. Lift pastry carefully and ease gently into tart pans but do not stretch pastry. Prick sides and bottom with fork. Repeat with remaining dough. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 12 — 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Fill with favourite filling.

Yield: 18 medium tarts or 24 small tarts. This recipe will make two 9" double crust pies, or three 9" single crust pies.

In almost all ways the grapefruit is unique: it's a chic, calorie-conscious fruit, with the United States producing more than 80 per cent of the world's crop. Yet, plant historians can't agree as to whether grapefruit is a sport of the West Indian pomelo or of the thick-skinned East Indian shaddock. Just to make things more confusing, it was also called "Adam's Apple" or "Forbidden Fruit" in bygone days. Its modern name, "grapefruit" may have been given to it because someone thought its flavour suggested grapes, but, more likely because fruits are borne in clusters.

A Spanish nobleman, it is thought, brought the first grapefruit to Florida in the early part of the 19th Century. We can be certain it was Florida, because even today 71.7 per cent of the world's grapefruit is grown in this state. Texas, Arizona and California also supply considerable amounts of this fruit. What with these widely-distributed areas from grapefruit is available in all months. January through April are the peak months.

One reason we see always fine grapefruit at the produce market is that this fruit needn't be picked as soon as mature. The fruit can be stored on the tree for a considerable time if

Healing Substance In Preparation H Shrinks Piles

Relieves pain and itching—shrinks hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids scientifically. It relieves itching and pain, lubricates dry tissue and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — discovery of leading research institute and also available in suppositories.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

A stitch in time...

The UFA Co-op is a growing organization: 165 more locals this year than last: all-time record highs in sales, patronage dividend payments and cash rebates. Yet almost every day some farm family — or group of them — asks for UFA Co-op services to be extended to their area. The UFA Co-op studies each request carefully and is moving as quickly as possible to extend facilities. Eventually, all Alberta farmers will have equal opportunity to make full use of their co-operative.

But meanwhile — those of you who now have the facilities of the UFA Farm Supply Centres and the services of the UFA Co-op Maple Leaf Agencies at your disposal have a special responsibility. Your support of the UFA Co-op is the "stitch in time" — which will help extend to your fellow farmers the economies of the co-operative method of buying petroleums and other farm supplies.

The directors were authorized to engage a speaker on Hog Marketing Boards, for the next meeting. The FUA has been advised that a member of the FUA Board will be in Tofield to speak on this very controversial subject at the Legion Hall on Tuesday, April 14th, at 8:00 p.m.

Yes, who leaves been reading the farm papers lately, will know how intense the debate has been at some meetings in Saskatchewan, and an organization was formed at Red Deer last week, which indicates a red herring is definitely getting the facts.

This meeting, the last of the season, will be open to all farmers, so it is hoped the hall will be filled, and that individuals will express their opinion on this [illegible] which might be of great importance to the hog raisers of the province for the next several years. Lunch will be served, ending the proceedings for the year.

MORE FERTILIZER FOR WEST

First bag of 100,000 tons a year of new fertilizer capacity in Western Canada is being filled as the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company brings into production the initial unit of the fertilizer complex at Kimberley, B.C. Cominco President W. G. Kirkpatrick (right) was on hand to mark the start of the new $9,000,000 unit. Mr. Kirkpatrick said another 100,000 tons a year of new fertilizer capacity will come on line early next year with the completion of Cominco's new plant at Regina. At Kimberley, the Regina plant will produce 11-48-0 ammonium phosphate —the key Prairie fertilizer.

The Kallal Hereford Ranch at Tofield is known now all across the country for its quality animals, mainly because the Kallals have taken so many ribbons at so many shows for so many years ... not the least of which are several from the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. 'The open grave'

All the forewarnings of a sacrilegious production proved unnecessarily alarming Wednesday night last week when the final fadeout of host Frank Wells brought an end to the CBC Holy Week play, "The Open Grave". Most people agree that the play was anything but sacrilegious, but opinions beyond that are varied indeed.

Some viewers told us they felt it was a typical, pointless CBC waste of public funds; some found it hard to follow; many not familiar with the nature of the program thought it was a caricature, on-the-spot coverage of an actual happening; others felt that it stimulated thought, not only of "modern-day Easter", but of capital punishment. The editor of one daily paper even went so far as to say the play merely holded down to a tiresome recitation of propaganda themes so dear to the hearts of CBC-type intellectuals. Ban the bomb, abolish capital punishment."

For our part, we would say that there are two types of productions at which the CBC excels. These are coverages of sports events, and the documentary, interview type of program such as "Close-Up", with Frank Wills as moderator. The fact that "The Open Grave" was written as a documentary made it a natural for the CBC. And since many people were fooled into thinking it was the real thing, we would say this speaks rather highly of the author as well as the producer and the play's director.

As for the printed comment that the CBC is merely reiterating propaganda, we feel that the writer is missing the point entirely. The play, in our opinion, was not meant to deal with contemporary problems. It was meant to be a parallel of the death of Christ. This was made very evident in the choice of names in the play, with initials of characters the same as those of the people most closely involved, according to the Biblical account, in Christ's death.

For instance, Mary Magdalene and Marion Morrison, and the man executed in the play was given the name Joshua Corbett.

Few can deny that the play was a thought-provoking one, or that the hour they spent watching it was worthwhile.

Pay as you go

Municipal Affairs Minister Alfred Hooke is right on the beam with a recent suggestion that municipalities be enabled to levy taxes over a period of years in advance of a specific project, and hold the money in trust until it builds up. There are always arguments against any new proposal like this, of course, many of them specious. But the idea is sound. Saving up a bit each year, and particularly socking it away at interest, it's not hard to demonstrate how one dollar can do the work of three when the project is built on normally heavy debt financing.

There's little doubt there might have to be tightening of the belt during the first few years of such a program, but once it was underway, the money would go further. It's a demonstrated fact, for instance, that some of the old school districts and municipal districts which built up surpluses and paid cash got far more value for their taxes.

The old perennial about the province getting out of debt simply by means of transferring all its debt to the municipalities is so much nonsense. It's advanced by people who insist the province should share its generous revenues with the local governments to keep them from going deeper into debt.

This is about as sound as suggesting the reason a spendthrift nephew is always broke is because his rich uncle fails to forever bail him out. As a broad generalization, the reason local governments across the provinces are so burdened with debt is that they have been unable to refrain from spending more money than they were taking in. In some of the major cities in the province, as well as in Camrose, home builders in earlier years were sometimes forced to wait as much as twenty, thirty or even forty years for the paving, curbing, sidewalks and such services that today go in with the development of a new community, if not actually beforehand. Sure, it's nice to have all these services as soon as you move in, but let's not blame somebody else for the added cost if we demand them right away.

Voice from the past

The Toronto Star the other Saturday quoted Sir John A. Macdonald on a problem that ever will be with Canadians because of geographical and other difficulties

"If I had any influence over the minds of the people of Canada, any power over their intellect, I would leave them this legacy: whatever you do, adhere to the union; we are a great country and shall be one of the greatest if we can preserve it; we shall sink to insignificance and adversity if we suffer it to be broken."

Teaching the teacher

EXPERTS TELL US that almost 90% of all automobile accidents are directly attributable to human failures of one kind or another.

Modern technology has succeeded in making today's cars and roads about as safe as can be. It is time for drivers to catch up—through driver safety training. Only this type of training will teach young drivers the kind of "safety-thinking" so essential to safe driving. But training requires teachers, and teachers themselves must first be taught.

That's why the automobile insurance business, as a part of its national programme of promoting safety education for the young drivers, pays the costs of the annual Driver Training Education Program conducted by the Canadian Highway Safety Council for teachers in many parts of Canada.

45 DIFFERENT MODELS OF CARS

Why one stop at your Chevrolet dealer's is like having your own private auto show

And if we had room here we could go on and on and list all the engines Chevrolet offers, starting at the Chevy II's 90-horsepower 153-4-cylinder (it's the thriftiest!) and ranging all the way up to the big Chevrolet's extra-cost 425-horsepower 409 V8 (it's the greatest!). We could wax eloquent about the choice of transmissions, and how they team up with those Chevy power plants to produce some of the going-est cars ever. Or the fact that you can have umpteen different exterior and interior color choices — enough, in fact, to allow some of our lady customers to have the sort of fun in buying and choosing that they generally reserve for shoe stores. And all the models with bucket seats and all the models without — all of them comfortable as all get-out. And the hundreds — yes hundreds — of different extra-cost options . . . serious ones like Positraction and gay ones like the new AM-FM radio. But all that's best left to your Chevrolet dealer. The long and short of it is, he'll go to any length to show you exactly the kind and size and price of car you want — and exactly how reasonable that price can be for you to be able to enjoy so much more car.

SKIING SKILLS

By BILL McNABB

HOP CHRISTIES

In last week's column we discussed proper technique as applied to intermediate parallel turns. We now continue our analysis of these turns and add to our knowledge the hop christie.

The skier becomes airborne for a fraction of a second and then he pulls the knees forward and during the ride to the end of the turn. Pulling completion which was discussed in earlier columns by Bill McNabb is applied in this drawing, a turn on the skis. This can be described as split rotation. The knees are rotating into the hill and the head and shoulders down hill, giving the impression that the skier is looking downhill.

At the completion of one hop christie the skier is again in the traverse position and ready to plant the pre-assault pole for another turn.

The illustration above describes a pond warm-up exercise that a skier could try before attempting a hop christie. On a hill surface plant both poles in the snow and with a hop keep the skis together during the entire flight. Repeat the process and both landing and leaving the down-up-down motions. On the down motion plant the downhill pole far in front and on the up motion the skis should be both skis a clearing the body a distance to the skis and the weight is transferred from the skis to the other.

Born on Bat Cave reservation near Moncton, New Brunswick, Michael Preve's parentage is a mix-up in the poverty of his surroundings with little hope of ever surmounting these conditions.

Then Michael Francis learned to carve a totem pole. He tried it, found it pleasant, and as the fore knew his early models and when he sold his first picture for $5.00 he knew the exhilaration of creativity and learned to interpret the legends of his people.

There was a reason for his choice of a subject. Michael's chief purpose in life to find me as I watched him work learned, is to earn enough to help his people improve their [illegible]

Junior college gets grant from provincial government

Major assistance for Camrose Lutheran Junior College was announced in the House by Premier Manning.

Premier Manning announced the grant in answer to a question by Chester Sayers, MLA.

Mr. Sayers was reporting progress at a full through the legislature which offers substantial aid to private junior colleges as well as to the university and public junior colleges. Having already passed first and second reading, the bill has now gone to committee, and may pass third reading by Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

The bill will assist three private colleges in the province, including Calgary's Mount Royal College, Edmonton's College St. Jean, and Camrose Lutheran Junior College.

It provides a grant of $650 each for full-time students taking first year university, and whose normal residence is in Alberta. In addition, the department will assume two-thirds of approved costs for new buildings. No limit has been placed on this assistance, but the government will be quite stringent in granting approval for buildings needed. No unit can qualify without an enrollment of 75 students, but this figure has been since been passed by CLC.

Mr. Sayers was quite pleased to relay the information to Camrose, knowing how useful it would be in planning arrangements for the college.

The Tofield Ladies' Curling Club brought the season to a close with a pot luck supper Saturday Evening. Following the supper a short meeting was held with a report of the year's activities. W. Christensen reported that the membership fee of $1.175 was the profit received from the bawn counter.

Former members, M. Finn and M. Turner were sent engraved mackinaw coffee spoons.

The president, G. McKay presented the Percy Hampton trophies to the J. Swift rink with other players being Faye Dodds, Bessie Hunter, and Vivian Murray.

Two new members join Agric. Service Board

A meeting of the Agricultural Service Board was held at the Council Chambers, Ryley, on March 18th

As Ivan Foshaug and Councillor Doris are now members of the Board, Stan Powers gave a summary of its purpose and objectives as set out by the Dept. of Agriculture.

The secretary read a letter from the AAMD regarding weed chemical prices and advised that this letter had been before the Council who had decided to ask chemicals again this year and that they be purchased through the AAMD.

Stan Powers questioned whether or not the selling of weed chemicals by the County was still doing the farmers a service. He said he had been approached by representatives of chemical companies who stated that they would like to set up agencies to sell all farm chemicals as well as equipment and parts. They state that the reason this is not possible is because the County sells such a large quantity of weed chemicals which is the large seller of all products.

Some of the other Board members questioned whether the chemical companies would provide any better service than they do at present if the County were to cease selling weed chemicals.

It was moved and carried that this letter be received and filed

A letter from Dr. J. S. Robertson requesting a large area of the County for Brucellosis vaccination was discussed. George Robinson advised the Board that, at a meeting with Dr. Robertson and Dr. Biliff, these veterinarians had agreed to the areas now set out and had stated there would be no further request for a change.

Moved and carried that there be no further change of boundaries for Brucellosis vaccination.

NEW BUSINESS

Rex Boyles advised that he had been contacted by Dr. Morton of the Federal Health of Animals Division regarding the Brucellosis blood testing program. Out of 1,342 herds tested there were 13 herds that showed reactors, and these affected herds will be tested again. There was some discussion on whether the Vaccination program should be continued on view of the testing programs. Rex Boyles said that farmers throughout the County favored the vaccination program.

Rex Boyles asked for the opinion of the Board as to whether roadside seeding should be done in the spring this year or the fall. Due to the amount of road work done late in the fall, much of the backslopes are not in shape for seeding. Cle. Krupowiski said he would like to see the seeding done by the end of June, before the farmers put their fences up. It was decided that alfalfa seed be collected to put on certain backslopes and, if possible, seeding be done before June 30th.

The question of spraying shelter belts was discussed. This type of spraying takes a high pressure unit and a large unit.

Moved and carried that the 1010 K unit be made available for shelter belt spraying when it is not required for County work

The Field Supervisor's report on Board activities to the end of 1963 were covered in the annual report.

Well over 170 farmers have been contacted regarding Selective Herbicide including weed chemicals, tree planting, pest control, soil samples, fertilizer, pasture spraying and numerous other farm problems.

A guest speaker will be present to talk on the controversial hog marketing board question. Hog raisers have many questions yet and can with regard to the value of a hog marketing board for western Canada, and this meeting should clear up many of these questions.

Men's Curling Club has annual supper

The Tofield Men's Curling Club held their annual oyster supper in the rink on Saturday last at 6:30 p.m. This is a president - vice-president event the losing rink paying the shot, and the meal enjoyed by those on the winning side. Club president Chas. W. Seeva was in charge, assisted by secretary, Ed Regehr. After the meeting and a vote of thanks was extended to the Tofield Ladies' Curling Club for the very good meal.

Items for discussion were the method of handling the annual bonspiel and the time for holding the mixed spiel, these to be altered another year. A shareholders' meeting will be held in the near future when the annual report will be presented.

Social insurance number project now under way

A nine digit number, designated as the Social Insurance Number, will be issued beginning April 1st to all employed Canadians with the exception of those engaged in agriculture, those in private domestic services where there is only one employee, and members of the armed forces.

As the Minister of Labor, Hon. Allan J. MacEachen, has explained, the issuance of the Social Insurance Number is being carried out for a number of reasons, one of the paramount being a reason in better government record-keeping. The Glassco Commission has suggested that a single numbering system should be established "to do away with multiplicity of numbering systems in government departments.

At the Unemployment Insurance Commission the situation has been that the growth in the labor force and the use of electronic data processing has made the old UIC number obsolete. Therefore it was felt that a good starting point for the new numbering system would be the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, and the UIC has been assigned to carry out the initial stages of the project. This new numbering system will be developed in close junction with the annual renewal of unemployment insurance books that will take place, as usual this spring.

The Social Insurance Number will be issued to employed persons whether they are covered by unemployment insurance or not. And it is to be noted that it will be broad enough and flexible enough to be adapted to the "record-keeping required for the proposed pension plan and other social security measures."

In an address to the recent opening of the UIC school for key personnel in the project, Labor Minister MacEachen dispelled rumors that Canadians are in danger of losing their identity, that the Social Insurance Number project is synonymous with regimentation, and that the real purpose of the program is to obtain an inventory of manpower.

"These observations are not founded on fact", the Minister said, "identity will not be lost and regimentation will not be the end result."

He said that, in fact, the Social Insurance Number will serve as identity for the useful and valid purpose of providing numerous benefits to the Social Insurance Number registrant. He explained that much of the information that is established for in the project has also been sought in the application for an unemployment insurance number for the past 20 years.

What is new for positive identification is the use of the first and last names of the parents of Smiths in the Unemployment Insurance Commission's number index. Well over 10,000 Smiths have the initial "J". Therefore, it is purely as a matter of identification that the Mother's last name at her birth is asked for.

In letter to Cliff Spiers

Eye-witness report of Anchorage earthquake

Cliff Spiers of Camrose yesterday received a letter from Canadian excerpts from a letter by Mrs. Spiers, had just received from their daughter, Mrs. Maureen Leopold, who with her family is a resident of Anchorage, Alaska. Mrs. Leopold gives several accounts of interesting spots in of the Good Friday earthquake, not due to a lack of snow on), the highlights as she sees them, are reported here Mr. Leopold is stationed in Anchorage with the United States meteorological department, and the family lives about halfway between the city and the airport.

Mr. Leopold was in his carport at the time of the quake, and Mrs. Leopold was in the house. Both report a terrific roar at the onset of the earthquake, and then began the destruction of these huge apartments kept them from immediately falling in a heap. The carport apartment building [illegible] and cracked so badly in fact, they are just leaving people in it at a time, and then to get out safely what they can from the elevators and hallways. All of the apartments in the Mountain View High School complex [illegible] students in a complete total loss.

Mrs. Leopold tells some of the happenings in Anchorage, Mrs. Leopold wrote about the following two incidents:

"One family with one year-old and a three-year-old had their home. They looked out and saw the neighbors house rushing away from them. Then they started to sink and stretch sideways. They sank 75 feet and the house spread out triple its width. As the house split in half, and the sand oozed up into a pile through the floor, they climbed up on it and put the children out on the roof.

Guest Editorial—No price change since Voltaire

Judgment passed it. Gerson against hope demonstrating that violence was useless liberty. The government of Geneva, headed by a man of high reputation, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, proposed a measure that would have given a police commissioner the right to put a man on trial for eight days and to renew that sentence indefinitely. The citizens would have been arrested for failure to answer the questions "put to him," or refusal to be present, or refusal to sign his statement. The three members of the commission would have been able to sit in secret. There are but two dissenting voices.

Appalling terms of the proposed measure, aside from the fact that the Attorney-General is trying to defend it. Philosophically the council representatives are in possession of the result. Actually the people are not protected if they don't protect themselves.

Purpose of the measure, which has some basic weaknesses, was to facilitate the apprehension of and punish the cost for the prosecution against criminals, but the criminal would have been anybody that police officers didn't like or had good reason for suspecting.

That measure in the Geneva Legislature, which involved the resignation of the attorney general, should perhaps in the minds of citizens generally, including citizens in other provinces. There are a number of laws on the statute books which are arbitrary in the extreme and which are put there for the benefit and convenience of officials of government rather than for the guarding of the public at large. Most farm marketing laws and regulations come under this head, and it is said that the Ontario securities commission laws are also arbitrary. It would be a useful thing if the lawyers of the country instituted actions to look into these encroachments on the liberty of the citizen.

Bureaucrats generally are fine people, equally not to invade their authority against people who are well disposed and who have good addresses, but people who are not well dressed and who live in slums are equally entitled to merely treatment. There is also a bureaucratic tendency to take shortcuts. Enforcing the price control regulations, there was a tendency for the government to have a seller's license cancelled when the person prosecuted would have been to take the man to court.

Many laws and regulations have on the books have been the responsible committees of elected representatives have been absent or asleep when the rules were given their supposedly careful examination before passing the Legislature.

When a Minister of the Crown dealing with a financial measure says that the requirements are trifling and intended only for administrative convenience, that is the time for the citizen to bury the knees, unbuttons in the back garden. When the powers are grave extraordinary powers for the detection of crime, the arrest of criminals, the future must be very careful that the consequences of the power is not an encroachment on the liberty of the people.

Canadian ownership

Measures to increase Canadian ownership of foreign-owned Canadian companies could discourage foreign investment considerably, especially if the measures were tax penalties. This was the message, shortly before Mr. Gordon brought down his budget, of Thomas P. Howe, president of the 54-member Canadian Business Equipment Manufacturers Association.

Most of the members are wholly-owned subsidiaries of foreign parent manufacturers, but Mr. Howe continued saying that the Association recognized the desirability of increasing Canadian ownership of Canadian enterprises, but urged incentives for Canadians to invest, rather than penalties to discourage American investment.

While we agree with the latter observation, we think Mr. Howe was overlooking the fact that in most instances wholly-owned subsidiaries were going to stay under the control of their American owners, no matter what the outcome. For however much resource or group Canadians try to invest in these companies, many of them operate under a strict policy that as no time is sufficient stock to be made available that control of the firm would ever be lost.

This still leaves Canadians in the position of janitors, who have little control of the ultimate direction the companies will take. One of the most glaring instances of this was the refusal of one of the auto manufacturers in Canada to ship vehicles to a country embargoed by the United States, but not by Canada, simply because the parent U.S. firm was told by its government it would be held responsible for the actions of its offspring in Canada. In other words, neither the Canadian shareholder nor the Canadian government could direct the policy of this organization in our land.

Incentives we may need and need badly, for Canadians to invest more broadly in our country's economy, but there must also be a few hedges, injunctions, boldens, penalties, call them what you will against increasing encroachment so that the climate for Canadians managing as Canada is healthy.

Canadian Garden Service

(By Gordon Lindsay Smith)

Why a blend?

For the average lawn, experts advise using a blend or mixture of various grasses rather than all one kind. The mixture gives much better results because they contain varieties with different and varied seasons of growth so that there will be something green and at its best from spring to fall. Such mixtures carefully blended by expert seedsmen invariably are more adaptable to various types of soil, climate and position. It is possible, of course, for one to go into a seed store, buy several different types of grasses and make up a mixture but as it would be blind as various tobaccos, but it is far...mpler for the average person to get mixtures already blended. In this case, too, we have the benefit of getting blends that are especially selected for this part of Canada to give the best results.

ADD ONE OF THESE

In our garden planting, it will be far more interesting if we add something new in both the flower and vegetable line. If it is several years since we have really gone into the question of garden varieties, we might be ashamed at how much improvement has taken place. There are larger, showier and more colorful flowers, more tender and early in maturing. Plant breeders have been busy all over the continent and the rest of their productions have been under constant test. All-America trials, which, of course, include several parts of Canada as well as in the United States select each of these trials, winners are announced each year and you will find any of these of great value and interesting addition to any garden. Usually these most recent All-America selections are listed separately in the seed catalogue. Make a point of trying one or two each year.

WONDERFUL SHOW FOR PENNIES

In most of the new suburbs, the lots are far larger than they used to be. And that is a fine thing for the children or wife that likes the garden and create proper surroundings to show off your home. With a 50 to 100 foot lot we can really make a big show with flowers and it needn't be expensive. If we have a lot of started plants, and want them extra early, it is advisable to make a hot-bed or at least cold frame, complete directions for which will be found in government bulletins or books on gardening. But if we live in any of the warmer parts of Canada it is surprising what we can do simply by planting the seeds outside in the regular garden. At least two weeks can be saved if we plant some of these seeds extra early and protect them right in the garden with some pieces of glass, propped up a few inches, or clear plastic paper or special waxed paper covers available in seed stores. In England, gardeners usually make a regular practice of sheltering some of the early seeding in this way. This saves all frost and cold winds and increases the heat from the sun. Germination and early growth are hastened and at least a fortnight is gained in early bloom or maturity, in the case of vegetables. Even with the first of the started plants such as tomatoes, cabbage or annual, many commercial gardeners protect with proper covers or glass for the first few weeks.

SUPPORTS

There is one garden job that we can do anytime. That is preparing a supply of stakes and other forms of support. There is never enough of this material on hand. Small sticks, anything from six inches to two feet, will be needed to mark rows, much sturdier and taller will be needed for sweet peas and for one or seven feet high. For this we can purchase bamboo or square pine or cedar from a lumberyard. There are also metal stakes available. For sweet peas and other tall flowers, twine is advisable, fixed firmly in the ground before growth gets too high, and through which the plants will grow and eventually hide. Some people also stake or support with brush, garden peas and the taller beans. Much of the brush removed in pruning operations from fruit trees will be found suitable.

Silver Strine
BY A.C. GORDON

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

Police Officer James Kerrigan has been shot to death in a gun battle with four escaped convicts he and three other policemen had managed to corner in a rooming house just outside town. The four desperate badams had broken out of jail two days previously, after brutally beating two guards with iron pipes. This gun battle at the rooming house finally ended with the capture of the four criminals.

Their names are Bart Mullin, Kerl Kleinschmidt, Hank Santmoss and Lenny Dalton. Although, of course, all the men are involved in the murder of the policeman, you are especially interested in learning just which one of the hoodlums actually killed Officer Kerrigan.

After an intensive interrogation of the four convicts, you are still at a loss. But then further information comes in from other sources, and you piece together the following facts:

One of the four convicts was at one time a hit actor in television dramas, and has a general working knowledge of three silver languages besides English, and because of his comparitively polite-visited appearance and manners, he usually acted as the spokesman and "front" for his gang. The unprepossessing Hank Santmoss was jealous of the front, resented his role in the gang's activities, and the two men were constantly arguing and bickering with each other. A few weeks prior to their first arrest, conviction and sentencing, the front and Kerl Kleinschmidt had joined forces to win $2,340 from some hockey players in a Bowling Green game at Lenny Dalton's apartment. Dalton had never been good at cards, or at any gambling of any kind. The friend and the killer of Officer Kerrigan were close friends and

At one time were business partners in a gambling casino of their own in Lenny Dalton's basement where were co-owners of a summer resort.

After sitting through and adding up all these facts you know which one of the four men killed Officer James Kerrigan.

SOLUTION

You know the "front" is not Hank Santmoss nor Jark Kleinschmidt. Therefore, the "front" is Bart Mulligan, and he is not the killer. The killer is not Hank Santmoss, nor is he Lenny Dalton. Therefore, the killer must be Karl Kleinschmidt.

Tofield farmers wind up successful curling year

Saturday evening, Mar. 28th, marked the end of another successful season for the Farmers' Curling Club, with the finals in all events of their closed spiel. The farmers who have been curling each Thursday and Saturday throughout the winter competed for two trophies. The Grand Aggregate Trophy, donated by Ed Rogers of Fresno Motors is awarded to the team with the best win and loss record over the regular schedule and the Woodlawn Dairy Trophy awarded to the winner of the Grand Challenge in their closed spiel.

Ron Goeglein with Marv Jacobson third, Barb Goeglein second, John Krupa lead, captained the Grand Aggregate Trophy with a 13 and 4 record. For the first time since this trophy has been up for competition a tie resulted between the Goeglein and Joe McLachlan rinks. However, in a special playoff, Ron came out victorious.

Andy Heiberg with A. Goubault third, Bill Dunki second, and Dan Litwin lead, captured the Woodlawn Dairy Trophy in a squeaky over win by Willie Hrisak, final score being 10 to 9.

At the conclusion of curling, President Lewis Shewchuk thanked everyone for the co-operation during the past year and told them to be sure to be back next fall. He also announced that the Farmers' Club had purchased a $100.00 share in the Tofield Curling Rink.

Andy Heiberg presented the Grand Aggregate Trophy on behalf of Ed Rogers and Fresno Motors to the Ron Goeglein rink. Henry Paege, genial manager of the local Woodlawn Dairy was on hand to present the Woodlawn Dairy Trophy to the Heiberg rink.

Here is a complete list of the other winners in the closed bonspiel.

First Event: 1. A. Heiberg; 2. Bob Wyllie; 3. Ken Eby; 4. L. Poahsug

Second Event: 1. Joe McLachlan; 2. Earl Rose; 3. G. Goeglein; 4. C. Jacobson.

Third Event: 1. Ron Goeglein; 2. J. Ingram; 3. V. Walker; 4. I. Poahsug.

Fourth Event: 1. L. Shewchuk; 2. D. McCuistie; 3. S. Sears; 4. P. Anderson

(What follows Easter?)

"I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live." St. John 11:25.

Easter is just passed, what then? This is the sequel to last week's "Apples of Gold", the "Christian's Lifebuilder". That should be reviewed before this week's message is read. Why did this profitable connection? Most thoughtful people will ask this question: "Is there a life after this?" Even unbelievers wonder about it. By following the impulses of their own nature, unbelievers they feel there must be an existence beyond this present one. And Jesus told us that there is another life than this earthly one. He brought heaven very near to this world. When men were in touch with Him they knew that they were in touch with the power of another world.

Lazarus, Mary and Martha's elder sister was very sick and finally her soul was released from this earthly frail bodily tabernacle. Heaven was made so real to her that the angels were waiting to her at the foot of her bed. She simply enjoyed to go with them to the mansions prepared for her. The veil that separates us from that other world can be very thin at times and individuals can see through it and hear from the other side. By faith she projected herself into the other realm and God responded to her faith and she was privileged with a glimpse of that glory. I will not dwell on the experience at her bedside the night of her passing. Death had lost its sting, for the Savior had given her the assurance that she should live again, for He was alive forevermore. So too, Jesus assures us that there is a life of the soul after death. In this connection let us be reminded of the parable or story told by Jesus of the rich man and Lazarus. In it He shows us that after those two men died they still were living on the other side of death, each in the state in which they left the result of his moneyed life while on this side. Lazarus who had not/ve but sorrow and trouble and difficulty here, was now at peace in the glories that God had prepared for him.

In Jesus' words to the penitent thief, He promised an existence after death saying to him, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise." Let unbelievers and scoffers try to deny it. Jesus also taught of death as being a sleep. He said of Lazarus "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth." Martha, that he was asleep.

Yes, the soul lives after death and hence, therefore it is wonderful to hear how Jesus definitely assures us that there is a resurrection for the body: that soul and body are going to live again after death, although the existence of the body will be in a new and different form, suited to the environment in which we are then going to be.

Diary of a Vagabond

Centennial plans need support of women

It makes one think when some thing hits right between the eyes. John Fisher, Centennial Commissioner, claims that women haven't come forward with many ideas or practical suggestions to help the Canada celebrate its 100th birthday. He gave the Women's Institutes a pat on the back for having launched a "Make Canada Lovelier" campaign, but he says he is disappointed that more women haven't come up with specific projects.

Ah, Mr Fisher, why not add a few women to your group?

One constructive suggestion with a subtle compliment wrapped up in it, is inspired by the statement that women are bad drivers. What is meant, is that women are natural planners are Mr. Fisher's ideas that they had art for family holidays in 1967 to visit other parts of Canada, a not only entertaining but compatible with plans that are being taken by CN and CP railways or headays for the young ones.

More than Red, White and Blue are being used in travel reductions and Car-Go-Rail, have been added to make holiday trips across Canada more attractive. Now, well will get a family's means, travelling from one shore to another aboard the Super Continental and the Ocean Limited has become an adventure.

V.I.P. WITH CO.-FIDENCE

The new image that is emerging regarding travel by train as has a lot to do with Pierre Delagrave vice-president, CN passenger sales and services in a recent address before the Chamber of Commerce in Montreal he expressed confidence. "I have confidence in the future of passenger transport for which I am responsible at Canad an National," he told his listeners.

This confidence is reflected in the innovations for passenger comfort and pursuits such as:

We are not going to be limited to that other and glorious reality. Jesus will demonstrate that He is our God by raising our bodies at the end He told us that He Himself is the resurrection and the life. Yes, also the power of resurrection. All the shades and all the unbelievers since Adam's transgression have never been able to answer the question, "How are the dead raised? With what body?"

Just as surely as death has come as the experience of mankind because of sin, just as surely will resurrection be the experience of all mankind because of Jesus rose from the dead. By the death and resurrection of Christ, God prepared heaven for men and there is a place prepared for every believer, and we do not want that place to remain empty because we failed to believe in Him. This leads us to the practical question relative to our earthly life. What has it to do with our everyday life? Much, because the life we live here will determine our resurrection. Our resurrection life depends on our deeds here on earth whether we have been by faith accepted the salvation that Christ offers in His cleansing blood. And if you are a member of the body of Christ, then know that the head of the body is already resurrected in the glory seated on the right hand of the Majesty on high! And we want to share that resurrection glory that our Savior, Brother, the head of the body to which we should belong already has! This is the MASTER AFTERMATH DYNAMIC also for 1964!

Modern etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. I've been told it is not good manners to sip water or coffee while there is food in the mouth. Is this true?

A. Generally speaking, yes. The only time it is permissible to take a sip of water is when one has inadvertently burned or moved into the mouth that is "too hot to handle." Otherwise water or coffee should never be used as a "washer-downer."

Q. My bridegroom's parents live in a distant city and are giving a reception in our honor about two weeks after our wedding. May I properly wear my wedding gown at that time?

A. You may wear your wedding gown, but not your veil.

Q. Isn't it proper for a woman to use her maiden name as a middle name after she is married?

A. This is the established custom. In other words, after Mary Helen Smith becomes Mrs. William Henry Swanson, she becomes Mary Harris Swanson.

Q. At a dinner recently, a large bowl of mixed salad greens was passed with the meat course, and since I don't like my salad mixed with my food, I left there were no salad plates. Is it considered a faux pas to request a plate? This is all right.

A. I think so. Before you were a server certainly the server. Instead of asking for the extra plate, you would have done better to decline the salad.

CGIT RALLY AT WEEKEND

Checking over the day's program at the district CGIT rally opened in Tofield United church Saturday morning are Mrs. George Mayer, left, and Mrs. Clare Rudosky. Mrs. Mayer organized the two-day affair, while Mrs. Rudosky was in charge of registrations. Visiting Tofield girl, along with Mrs. C. Annis, were in attendance.

Com. League sets up maintenance fund; July 1st activities discussed

The April meeting of the Tofield Community League had 23 members present and president John Dargens in the chair. Tabled at the last meeting, the question of a maintenance fund for the hall was discussed. It was decided that the income from theatre rent be set aside for a period of two years for this purpose.

The League agreed to sponsor a concert to be presented by the Tofield Band on April 28th in the Community Centre.

JULY 1st CELEBRATION

Plans for the annual Dominion Day celebration were the chief order of business. Hosiery Seller reported that a collecting horse display and a jumping horse competition could be counted on as a major attraction for July 1st. Prizes will also be on display.

A. Pike suggested that the Department of Agriculture officials be contacted in regard to the possibility of their attendance at the curling rink so that it might be of year-round use to the community.

The Red Cross swimming lessons were again discussed and Bill Christenson reported that 230 was H. Christenson's estimate of the cost of a pre-fab metal pool. It was decided to proceed with the project so that the young people may take advantage of the swimming lessons again this summer.

B. Gorrie, treasurer, reported a remaining $40 deficit on the Easter dance.

Hoge crowd attends Fiddlers' contest

(Mrs. J. Woodrich)

Lakeview Pavilion was literally lodged as the scenes on Friday April 10th when the annual Old Time Fiddlers contest opened to the accompaniment of a terrific blizzard. CFCW was complimented on this management of this affair, with his charming wife who helped keep the evening going smoothly throughout the evening.

After the contest, an old time dance followed until 2:30 a.m.

Choices, worthwhile goals are themes for CGIT weekend rally

The choices that confront girls today, and the importance of having worthwhile goals in life, were the themes of two addresses delivered by Mrs. W. A. Stevens of Wainwright at the CGIT rally held in Camrose United Church over the week-end. She concluded her morning talk with a verse her first CGIT leader had written at her autograph album: "Isn't it queer that princes and kings, and clowns that caper in sawdust rings, and common folk like you and me, are makers of eternity. To each is given a bag of rules, a shapeless mass, and bag of tools, and each must fashion ere life has flown, a stumbling block or a stepping stone."

Over 165 girls and leaders registered for the rally from Daysland, Donalda, Dalhamel, Pertelma, Hardisty, Rosalyn, Killam, Sedgewick, Tofield, Wetaskiwin and Wainwright.

FROM TOFIELD

Attending from Tofield were Caren Scott, Ruth Ingram, Vickie Wasko, Sandra Brown, Geri Hardy, Susan Dawson, Carol Hornby, Wendy A ett, Margaret Hallett, Shirley Swift, Frances Schultz, Jackie Hunter, Patsy Sears and a leader, Mrs. C. Annis.

Leadership was drawn from Camrose CGIT graduates and leaders, as well as Miss M. Bo Cree, Mrs. Malcolm Johnstone, Mrs. H. W. Johnson, Edmonton, Mrs. F. McPhee, and Janet Foster, provincial CGIT president The seniors heard J. Smart from the Alcoholism Foundation of Alberta. Other groups included Inside Jobs, Expedition for Teens, CGIT Heritage, and Bible Drama. Leaders present had a special session on the needs and nature of teen-age girls with Allistair MacKenzie-Elliott of Camrose.

The big task of catering to the hungry group was handled by members of the Camrose CGIT girls, headed by Mrs. Boyd Lindberg and Mrs. Ed Noga.

Hog marketing system in Ontario is outlined

Main speaker at a public meeting on hog marketing last Wednesday night for Camrose area was Gary Quinn, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hog Marketing Board, who outlined the board's operation in that province.

He said the board has complete control over hog marketing, with the exception of sale of hogs from one producer to another, and, of course, the Ontario board has no control over producers of hogs outside Ontario.

SOLD THROUGH BOARD

In Ontario, all hogs marketed for slaughter must be, and are, sold through the board, said Mr. Curran. The processor, he added, must buy even hogs of his own production, if any, from the local board.

To return the board guarantees each producer, regardless of his production, the availability of a market place. Whether an Ontario man produces 10 or 10,000 hogs and wishes to sell them at a given price, he is assured an equal opportunity with any other producer for sales of his hogs in that province.

"The only restrictions under legislative marketing", said Mr. Curran, "are that the producer must sell his hogs through our agency, and that the processor may purchase only from the local board".

Among questions asked after Mr. Curran's address were whether or not production is controlled by licensing, whether or not the packing plants are getting into the business of hog production; and whether or not the producer processors were classified with their board in such cases, the answer was "no".

GOOD TURNOUT

An indication of the amount of interest in this district in a hog marketing board lies in the fact that approximately 150 farmers from this area attended the meeting.

Ed Nelson of Brightview, past president of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, also was a speaker at the meeting. Arranged by the PUA local office in Edmonton, the meeting was chaired by Wallace Hunnell, PUA director from Cadaby.

Lots of fires!

The Tofield Fire Department received two calls last Friday, both being grass fires, one at Corby's and the other at John Riemer's. Two calls were answered Tuesday, one from the Tessco Co., where a d tires were being burned, and the second at the Harold Boettger farm, where a hog barn was lost in the blaze.

FROM THE SCRAP BOOK

Where you are is of no moment, but only what you are doing there. It is not the place that ennobles you, but you the place; and this only by doing that which is great and noble. —1787

Tofield Library has art display

The Tofield Community Library was opened to the public April 10th, when a display of reproduction of bookrevending w s given and a display of handwork from Pakistan was shown. There was also a display of art work by the local women.

The Library Board would like to thank Mrs. Irene Harris for collecting the handwork and putting them on display.

Fire at Poe destroys farm buildings, feed

Thursday morning, April 9th, the Holden Fire Truck and helpers were called to a fire at Poe. The blaze had started as a small grass fire and when the wind came up it quickly ran onto the farm rented by the Olson brothers, destroying a chicken house full of bales, two granaries which were empty, another building and two stacks of hay, then running into the bush and C.N.R. right-of-way. The fire truck was also called to the scene.

While this fire was being taken care of, garbage burning at the back of a residence in Holden got out of control and the fire engine had to be called! as grass in the slough behind the C.N.R. depot, the Liquor store and the hotel was burning badly. After extinguishing this blaze, the fire truck returned to Ryley.

Due to the very dry conditions, parents are warned to watch that their small children do not play around garbage barrels when refuse is being burned.

Fire Brigade renovates equipment

The Tofield Fire Brigade, at their February meeting, decided to have the tools fire truck repainted and overhauled. It has been decided that March 31st will be the annual meeting, with evenings pre-fire meeting, washing and repainting it. John Widynowsky was volunteered to paint it a bright fire engine red. The brigade appreciates the service.

The regular meeting of the fire brigade was held on the 20th of the month in the council room with Chief Friesen presiding.

Reports on the Civil Defence meeting in Wetaskiwin were given by Gerry Beese and Mr. Dyson.

The two-day Provincial Fire Protection Association conference in Edmonton also reported. Equipment belonging to rural and town units were also discussed at the meeting.

The fire brigade has continued to answer most of the fire calls in Tofield and farm districts themselves with three buildings in case of fire. Three inspections will be continued.

Guest Editorial— . . . Political morality the real issue

The Financial Post

Blocking parliamentary funds for unemployment insurance payments may be bad senatorial tactics or bad party politics or generally tantamount to a vote against home, motherhood and life everlasting. Most certainly Senator O'Leary appears to have delivered himself and the Upper House very adroitly into the hands of its House of Commons critics. But the Senator has demonstrated abundantly and forcibly the dangers and futility of perpetuating an "insurance" scheme that has become a barely camouflaged system of social handouts, especially for seasonal workers. Administration after administration has systematically abused the fund, ruined its actuarial basis, used it as a vote-getting slush fund — and resolutely refused to face the fact that nothing less than an entirely revised system of benefits payments will keep the fund out of bankruptcy.

This government and the previous governments have only themselves to blame for the great unemployment insurance mess. The big drain on the fund that has put it into apparently permanent bankruptcy is the payment of benefits to purely seasonal workers, many of whom never expect to work year-round. By "insuring" seasonal workers, our governors of the past took a fund designed to help industrial workers through periods of occasional unemployment and converted it into a lavish scheme for social welfare handouts.

The solution, as the still-ignored Gill Committee pointed out, lies in separating the insurance and the welfare aspects of the existing fund, financing these separately, cutting out some groups, limiting some benefits and checking the cheaters more rigorously. This, all too plainly, is not a platform for winning votes. But failure to act courageously and promptly will leave the government lurching from crisis to crisis and from financial bankruptcy to moral bankruptcy.

Bully for ol' Khrushchev

It wasn't so very long ago that we could hardly imagine anyone in the Western world caring two hoots whether Comrade Khrushchev lived or died, and maybe hoping a little that things might lend toward his death.

But when the unfounded rumor of his death flashed across the country on Monday there was the same sudden apprehension, the same disbelief, and the hope that it wasn't so that followed the ruthless assassination of President Kennedy. In Kennedy's case, of course, there was the stunned grief over the loss of a giant who had quickly become the symbol of hope to a free world.

In the Russian leader's case, the feeling was more one of apprehension over the future . . . what would heal up out of the inevitable struggle for power which must follow his death, whether peacefully or by assassination, of the open breach between Russia and China and the upheaval which might take place here, and the general disturbance to our way of life that all these actions must build up.

For all the West does not like Mr. K., it seems a quirk of fate that he now has become possibly the focal point for the strongest hopes of the West, the hope that he, who is one of the few Russians seemingly to appreciate the dread power of the fission bombs, can hold in check the dread forces of his associates until such time as the Russian people gradually build up their controls through more and more demanding consumer appetites.

The report was false. Thank God for this extension of the opportunity Mr. K. has to improve relations and possibly no other Communist could.

The most dangerous part of an automobile

...IS THE DRIVER. Today's modern automobiles are soundly engineered, safe, and remarkably reliable. Modern roads, too, are designed to present the minimum of hazards. Driving only becomes dangerous when fallible human beings come into the picture and, through their human failings, cause accidents.

In a determined effort to cut down the nation's accident toll, the automobile insurance business has dedicated itself to the promotion of highway safety programs and driver training education.

Editor, The Mercury:

I read with interest the article by Dr. J. H. Sissons today on scholarships and bursaries, which appeared recently in "The Tofield Mercury. We are always glad to see publicity about scholarship and assistance programs so that these may be as widely known as possible. Notwithstanding all our attempts with publicity there may still be high school graduates unaware that assistance is available to them if they need it.

There seems to be some opinion abroad relthough this did not appear in all of the articles that we have seen which dealt with the subject here that we need or use. This is not true, as we have a file of over 1,000 names and addresses of students who have been awards in order to keep some relative parity with the rapidly increasing student body.

There is only one comment I would make on paragraph three. Our definition of a scholarship here is that it is based solely on academic merit. Financial need is not a factor in scholarship if it is expressly named, although of course, the scholarship may be considered by certain fields of study. It is true that our University's calendar does show some scholarships with a financial need factor but those data from many years back and we have attempted to force a change of name.

A bursary on the other hand is based on a combination of the two factors of academic standing and financial need but is awarded annually for a bursary. Our University offers entrance bursaries and bursaries to the donor to the student of his choice. We are very loath to accept awards which carry any commitment and we have only one or two in that entire program.

Sincerely yours,
R. B. Wishart,
Administrator of Student Awards,
University of Alberta.

By George . . .

If you are color blind, you may have noticed a change in the weather. If, however, you can tell colors, or color conscious, or even if you're color blind but just plain nuts . . . read on, Mack!!!!!

Spring fever seems to be the order of the day in buildings, clothing, machinery, printing and so on, so I suppose it is inevitable that the Canadian Good Roads Association should consider making a study of the make of colored road surfaces. Road drivers in the future could be "Follow the pink road to the Junction, then take the blue one for the scenic route, or if you're in a hurry the green road will get you there faster. Besides, the green one is better for the eyes"

Well, whatever they do, I hope they don't take down all directional signs and rely entirely on color for routes, because I just happen to be one of those color-blind types!

But this isn't the only project the Good Roads Association is studying. In all, some 441 projects in various areas of road research are currently being carried out in Canada or have been completed during the last five years. Subjects range from highway finance to electronic computers to simulate traffic flow and from the evaluation of electric snow melting installations to five-purpose licence plates.

If you have been wondering why some-one doesn't do something about your pet peeve that impressive list of projects will reassure you that something is being done to solve the problems.

Cause to pause . . .

GOOD NEWS

A business manager sought out his regular third baseman in the locker room. "Joe", he said, putting his arm around the player's shoulder, "It's with regret, O.K. for you to forget all those batting tips I've given you, but traded you to Kansas City".

Schoolmaster: "Now, Willie, if the earth's axis is an imaginary line can you bring clothes line?"

Willie: "Yes, Sir".

Schoolmaster: "Ha, ha! That's right. And what sort of clothes is that imaginary clothes line?"

In the Legislature . . .

(By John Warren)

EDMONTON. Unless you had a particular interest in the Great Canadian Oil Sands project at McMurray or in the CPR's electrification scheme in Calgary there wasn't much to get excited about in the legislature last week.

Each year as the session grinds to a close, the members spend entire afternoons dreamily repeating "aye" as each bill is passed, clause-by-clause, in a routine way.

Just as the public's attention on the $300,000,000 oil sands project was given a cabinet push light, and the CPR's $15-million plan looks like it will get past the legislature and back to the Calgary voters in a jiffy.

The report of Alberta's film censorship is out and was laid on Provincial Secretary Ambrose Holowach's annual report. It should be interesting to see how famous critic of the censor's scissors enjoyed 301 cuts from a total of 90 films.

Another of the annual examinations calling for provincial takeover of Wood Buffalo National Park in the northeastern part of the province gained solid support and is on its way to Ottawa.

Mayor A. D. Fimrite of Spirit River argued that huge tracts of resources will be unleashed in the area until the province takes it over.

Frank Gahner, the coalition member from Rocky Mountain, continued his fight against the colored margarine bill, saying it will deprive the 56 per cent of Alberta farmers who own dairy cattle of their cream cheques.

"It's silly to put in any act that will make margarine look like butter but not quite, and that's what this act does." The bill now needs a third reading and royal assent to become law.

It's done, now

Like it or not, Canada now has a pension plan which is portable, and is universal for every employed person earning $1,000 per year, which means nearly every employed person. While the passing credit, if any there be, for introducing the matter at all must go to Health and Welfare Minister Hon. Judy LaMarsh, there is little doubt that any real credit for introducing a plan which stood any reasonable chance of acceptance must go to the Prime Minister. Without his determination that the plan absolutely had to be introduced, there is little doubt that the combined opposition in the federal house and in the major provinces would have forced down to defeat any of the other suggested programs.

The new one, carrying some of the merits and eliminating many of the demerits of most of the other programs, found ready acceptance on all sides, even if it were grudgingly given in some areas.

Certainly this plan is better in that it is sounder financially. At the same time, it is also certain to play havoc with many existing pension scheme, which now have ten years to work out Integration programs. There is at this time little information available on the action of the program, such as for instance, what benefits can be collected by people already looking at retirement. Or what benefits can be collected by those who have been unemployed for any considerable period of time, whether by their own chance or involuntarily. It would seem a shame, for instance, that those who have consistently milked the Unemployment Insurance Fund by planned periods of unemployment should now also be able to collect full pension benefits when their time comes.

However, these are details to be worked out by the politicians, and since the answer is likely to be decided on this basis, there is every reason to suppose treatment will be at least reasonably generous.

While our readers know we have not been too sympathetic to the early attempts at this legislation, we are not completely opposed, either. We suppose if we lived in the industrial East, and saw more of the abuses of the present system, we would more readily accept the need for a universal portable pension. Certainly we have run into several seeming abuses, or programs unreasonably loaded in favor of the employee in recent weeks, and probably this is more frequent in the East. Undoubtedly it had much to do with Mr. Pearson's decision to announce on some program which could reach acceptance.

Now we're all one step nearer socialization, and Mr. MacEachern's number system for everyone.

Overhaul needed

We have on the desk a stack of bills from the Alberta Legislature which were saved up for the dying days of the session just concluded, and rushed through as quickly as to be revolting. Last Wednesday, the closing day of the session, 116 bills were passed in only three hours. That's two every three minutes, or 90 seconds apiece. The session as a whole, and not just the end of it, gave rise to many serious questions, and surely the most important one is what better method can be found to handle this situation?

Thirty-nine days of sitting hardly constitutes a great deal of work (unless it's measured in terms of the difficulty of listening to some of the inane contributions.) Yet the ordinary members all drove home with $5,400 for their fortitude, plus, of course, what they may have been able to save on their expense allowances. For many of their constituents, this is considerably better than a whole year's income.

For many people, the compensation might not seem out of line if they could see greater evidence of contributions being made to the efforts of government by the backbench members, or more weight being attached to their opinions. But when the members murmur their "agreed" to new bills with almost the same mechanical monotony as rowers responding to a coxwain's "stroke", it must make even the most loyal supporter ponder.

We acknowledge that the administrative mind probably enjoys this sort of arrangement, with no one rocking the boat. But surely the sounder mind of the statesman . . . and we have a few in Edmonton . . . feels there is a better way of doing it, even if it meant remaining in Edmonton a few days longer.

Vote for Leah

Vince Leah won our vote this week with an article in the April 18 issue of Maclean's Magazine, suggesting the abolition of hockey leagues for youngsters. While Mr. Leah, who is well known as a sports writer for The Winnipeg Tribune, had not formerly come within our circle of acquaintances, we will hope the time will come when we meet him. Certainly we agree on one thing.

Mr. Leah suggests elimination of "the teams that adults run for kids from eight to maybe fifteen", continuing with the comment that most of the time they wind up learning the adult sins and adult casteicles that lead to ulcers. It's pretty nauseating, he comments, to people who still feel that boys are more important than the games they play.

We couldn't agree more, and we're delighted that a man with the position and the recognition Mr. Leah commands could focus attention on the problem in a magazine of the stature of Maclean's. Not every team is cursed with the type of coaching that it does-n't matter how you win so long as you win, but there are far too many of them. Every sporting fused in its proper sense minded person will agree the emphasis at kids level should be on the cultivation of proper attitudes, on sportsmanship, gamesmanship, modesty in triumph and not despair defeat.

EDMONTON — The last week . . .

This weekend my family and I are leaving for a two-week vacation, one which I think I've earned, but my doubt there are those around town who will say, "What? A holiday for him? I thought it was a holiday for all year round!"

Well I must admit that this newspaper work is an interesting and challenging one and can enjoy it every day (when almost as much as a holiday. But there comes a time when a couple of weeks away from the daily grind are a welcome break.

So, George will be able to take a holiday for the first two weeks. It is to be hoped the column will be moved. This will mark the first time in about 21 years that it's column has not been published weekly except for the unusual period when it moved from The Nation News to The Canadian.

Now it is only right and proper that readers should expect a new, fresher, more original, more humorous column after a two-week layoff . . . but I wouldn't count on it. Just expect any miracles, and for goodness sake, don't hold your breath until these changes have come about!

We plan to head for Victoria through the U.S., returning via the Rogers Pass. Since there is little of interest in Edmonton we will be missing very little of the doings of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association convention and the convention of the Manitoba weeklies.

Vancouverites are always being reminded not to allow newspapers to print items of their coming holidays as one letter nasty burglar might be left into their home while they're away. Well we've taken care of that, but have a couple of people staying in our home while we're away. Any burglars who might have thoughts of invading the premises, please be advised that we have two dogs. They're tough! They're trained in Judo. have muzzles like Charles Atlas, and besides that, they're mean!

give a grant towards the construction of the necessary ditches. Mr. Strome advised that under the 50-50 Assistance Policy the County would have to accept the responsibility and would have to obtain the necessary easements, etc., as it was necessary that the Department had an organized body to deal with. The Department of Water Resources would do the survey, engineering, and a rough cost estimate.

Messrs. Anderson, Campbell and Chappel attended at this time and the situation was explained to them. It was pointed out that a considerable amount of water was diverted from No. 29 and 13 was expected that possibly the County of Camrose would be agreeable to assist in this matter. It was also pointed out that no doubt, crossings over the proposed ditch would be necessary on a good many of the parcels through which the proposed ditch would run. It was considered that the details would have to be worked out after it was known what land would be effected by the ditch and it was moved and carried unanimously that an application be made to the Department of Water Resources for Financial Assistance under the 50-50 policy.

A letter from the Town of Viking re Rural Fire Fighting Unit was referred to the Council. The letter stated that at least twice a start had been made to form a fire fighting organization in the Viking area but that no organization had been established. The Council of the Town of Viking suggested that possibly the County would spearhead the organizing of a fire fighting unit for the Viking area. The Town of Viking would store the unit. As indicated on other occasions the Council was not in favor of organizing fire fighting units but would be prepared to give a grant and it was moved and carried unanimously that the Town of Viking be advised that the Council is prepared to give a grant towards the purchase of a fire fighting unit but is not prepared to undertake any organizing of a fire fighting unit for the Viking area.

A letter from Department of Water Resources concerning the complaint of John Zaerpoids in N.¼ 13-51-17 W. 4th; a report of investigation of this drainage problem conducted by Mr. M. Chrapko, was referred to the Council. The report indicated that the County had no liability in this case, that it was a common law case which would have to be settled between Mr. John Kordzowski and Mr. John Zaerpoids.

A letter from the Department of Lands and Forests advising that a Recreational Lease had been issued in favor of the County for a term of 21 years, at an annual rental of $1.00 in Pt. N.W. 35-49-11 W. 4th, was referred to the Council. It was moved and carried unanimously that the letter be received and filed.

On a number of occasions the matter of fencing the yard around the bus garage and equipment shop had been discussed by the Council and the School Committee, it being considered advisable to have additional fencing erected in accordance with all school buses and other equipment. A cost estimate for material only for this work was submitted from Frost Steel and Wire Company Ltd., the estimated cost being $1,172.57; to this would have to be added the labor cost.

It was moved and carried unanimously that the question of this additional fencing be discussed and dealt with when the County Budget is considered.

The requisition from the Department of Education under the School Foundation Program Fund in the amount of $235,337.00 was referred to the Council and it was moved and carried unanimously that the requisition be accepted and payment made as required.

The requisition from the Department of Municipal Affairs under the Alberta Hospital Act in the amount of $50 851.87 was referred to the Council and it was moved and carried unanimously that the requisition be accepted and payments made as required.

A letter from Viking Municipal Hospital District No. 18 stated that the 1964 requisition on the County was not available as yet but that it appeared that the requisition would be approximately the same as in 1963 was referred to the Council. The letter also requested an advance on the requisition in the amount of $5,000.00. It was moved and carried unanimously that the information be received and that an advance of $5 000.00 be made to Viking Municipal Hospital District No. 18.

Requisition from Vegreville Health Unit No. 15 in the amount of $8,014.31 was referred to the Council and it was moved and carried unanimously that the requisition be received and paid as required.

The Council at this time considered whether the weed maintenance should be done on a per diem basis, with the cost charged to each division, or on a County basis, which would allow the maintainers to work a more than one division, and the maintaining cost charged to Public Works general. The latter suggestion was considered advisable and it was moved and carried unanimously that the maintaining of the roads in the County be done on a County wide basis and that the cost of maintaining be paid out of general funds.

It was moved and carried that this meeting now adjourn to April 23rd at 10:00 a.m., to consider the 1964 budget and other matters that may be brought before the Council.

Guest Editorial— . . . Discordant Anthem

(The Financial Post)

"O Canada" will be adopted as the country's national anthem in a few months, says a member of the Pearson government. If a majority of Canadians want a new anthem — which may be true, "O Canada" would be a poor choice. In its original version, which is French, it is unmistakably a patriotic hymn for "les Canadiens" in their St. Lawrence valley homeland. It speaks of them living by their mighty river (fleuve grand) among foreign peoples (parmi les races etrangeres).

There could be of course not the slightest objection to an anthem on the ground of the author's ethnic origin. But what is the use of a "national anthem" that means one thing in Quebec and something quite different in the rest of the country? It would make very little sense if the British had an anthem in which the Scots sang about the Battle of Bannockburn and the English about the Battle of London! or if the U.S. anthem had verses in honor of Robert E. Lee and Old Black Joe for Southern singers and verses about Honest Abe for the North.

To be any use at all, a Canadian national hymn should unify, not divide. It should say and mean the same thing in both languages. Probably it should say something about the unity, fraternity and common loyalty of the two founding peoples, not neglecting the Canadians who belong to neither by descent.

"O Canada" does not fill the bill in any respect. Instead of hastily "adopting" it merely to satisfy popular clamor, Ottawa would do better to offer a prize for the best anthem, with a 1967 deadline for entries. And incidentally, when Canadians do acquire an official new anthem, there is no reason why they should not keep "God Save the Queen" as an official old one. The U.S. has had two anthems for more than 100 years. Switzerland has 22, one for each canton.

System wrong

Something must be seriously wrong with the electoral system in the province of Saskatchewan, where ballots from the advance polls are not counted until as much as six weeks after the election. According to reports, as many as 25,000 ballots yet remain to be counted, and with the large number of really close votes experienced in the recent election, the tallying of these ballots may upset the result in several polls.

Surely a better system can be devised than this one. Surely there can be no logical reason for leaving the result so long in doubt, in setting up all the trains of events which can be foreseen where both parties may be at work considering personnel for a government, where government should be going ahead on a more-or-less certain basis, rather than on an opportunist basis, and where the people have the right to know the people enacting their laws at least have the confidence of most of the voters.

It seems ridiculous that votes cast in advance of regular polling should now be holding up the entire decision.

Hard to fathom

We certainly don't have all the facts and information which were available to the Porter Royal Commission on Banking, but we'd be surprised if the suggestion for raising the legal ceiling on bank interest rates is made in favor with the little man, or for that matter with many industrial complexes which borrow from the banks from time to time.

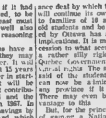
Anyone who has read the financial statements of our banks, or watched market over several years, can find on the action of their shares on the stock hard to agree they need great relief. We were told recently by an expert in the field that the banks last year averaged roughly 10 per cent profit on investment. That's not too bad, taken all in all.

Money around

Nobody's told us there's money being in the streets, but it seems there's more of the stuff than there has been for some time. One of the best arbiters is the success of farm auction sales, and most of those held recently have been very good, we're told.

We've talked with a number of auctioneers during the past little while, and all say prices are holding up very well. One reported "a real corker" the other day, particularly when it came to the livestock.

It's good to know our farmer friends still have money in their purses, and it's good to know they have a good deal of confidence in the future of farming. Our district is still overwhelmingly dependent on agriculture, and it will be a sorry day when the farm picture is depressed.



"If we have a cell he will be visible and we'll let you know."

MacDuff Ottawa report . . . Canada gets a plan

OTTAWA — Time will decide whether Prime Minister Pearson and his government have performed an act of supreme statesmanship or have beaten a frightened and ignominious retreat.

At Quebec City two things were made plain to the province's inclusive Quebec. Ottawa had gone as far as it could in tax abatements even at some expense to provinces ready to take on the full cost of shared welfare and other programmes. Not only was the Canada Pension plan final except in small detail but provinces opting out could do so only if they offered a plan of which the federal government approved.

There is no doubt that fear was responsible for the subsequent negotiations with Quebec, but it was not a political fear of losing Quebec votes. It was a really a fear of Quebec as a state. It was the fear that the rest of Canada might drift off the French speaking province.

NOT ARRANT IDEA

The right to "opt" or "contract" out of joint projects which fall within a provincial jurisdiction under the British North America Act is not unreasonable in principle whatever one may think of the results, but to English speaking Canada the Quebec attitude was being interpreted more and more as a gradual "opting out" of Confederation.

This was the basis of reasoning in Ottawa, that Quebec must be kept in the family, that a Canada Pension plan if it had not proven, as expected, to be a unifying force at least must not divide. It may well also have been part of the reasoning in Quebec City.

Meanwhile Canadians have a pension plan which they may like a great deal better. It will not be for the next 15 years at least. It will be later in starting. The government will be doing well if it can get enough cost more for the next 15 years at least. It will be later in starting. The government will be doing well if it can get enough money to pay for the first pensions paid in 1987. In addition substantial savings by Canadians are involved which may be very important if Canada is to recover more of its capital needs out of its own rather than foreign savings.

SUBSTITUTED AS TAX

The new plan has wiped out the last excuse for not treating the pension contribution as a tax. With the possible exception of the Armed Forces and RCMP where early retirements make it almost impossible to integrate with service plans, everyone earning more than $600 a year pays.

This compulsory feature for the self-employed will be a some grumbling. The farmer will have to contribute not only for himself but 1.3 per cent of anything over $600 paid to a hired man. There will be one small compensation. For the first time a federal tax will be deductible from taxable income.

HARDER TO JUSTIFY

It is more difficult to justify other features of the retreat from Quebec. The family allowance deal by which the province will continue its own payments to families of 16 and over in full-time education is an admission by Ottawa that its contribution to the principle of a universal family allowance was merely a temporary device to get around a wrong constitutional decision. Today's family allowance is a welfare measure.

Bill 54 League had a budget which is make and development that he be put in the position where he could give assurance of more revenues from Ottawa if at all this can be justified by the growth of the economy as in new tax adjustments. It will carry on that programme in the province for the time being.

BIGGER ROLE

But Lesage has done one thing more which is important and could prove lasting. That is National Pens n Plan and more tax room for provinces. He has said that this compromise is the very limit of the powers of federalism and he has shown himself willing to risk summon in the Province of Quebec the spirit of Confederation against discussing Quebec nationalism with and without his own party. If the compromise formula Lesage for this task, the basis of the compromise will have received even the material benefits of a uniform national pension plan and the first steps towards bringing federal and provincial taxing resources in line with their spending responsibilities.

With the Lesage demand for more revenues is associated in the public mind with the negotiations of the new Quebec it is not fully realized that whereas prior to 1946, federal spending was almost three times that of the provinces and municipalities together, today the share of spending of the province and municipalities together is slightly over that of the federal government although the combined expenditures of all three levels of government represent approximately the same share of the gross national product today as they did in 1946 namely about 32% Further, this trend to more provincial and municipal spending is evident in federal spending as almost certain to continue.

CAPITAL HILL CAPSULE

The House of Commons at Ottawa has adopted a resolution which bars the use of the word "Canada" in the name of any corporation that is not incorporated by the Canada Corporations Act or by a special act of Parliament. The resolution was introduced by Mr. Lewis Duncan, Liberal member who feels a glaring injustice has been done him because the speaker has selected him during the session period so that a Member has not per a party answers a question, his supplementary is quite that gives the Minister or his Parliamentary Secretary has three minutes to reply. Oh, three minutes will be heard each night. The idea is excellent and the performance may improve. Up to now it has been something and then adieu.

Fertilizer in short supply

Reflections of a shortage of fertilizer in the district become clearer every day, according to a survey done this week by The Canadian Fertilizer Institute.

One firm in Camrose reported selling on a final week. This served basis in the first week. Forty to book orders from dealer outlets. Another firm was down selling orders as far east as Hardisty.

Because of the big crop last fall, many farmers find their bins are full, and they have no room to store the fertilizer they might otherwise have bought earlier. Storage has been a problem to many.

Some dealers who have had established customers for years say that year they just cannot get enough. Every dealer interviews to sell out without any trouble and predict a few customers will have to do without.

Trouble is being experienced only in the granular type fertilizers and not those used for grasses. Here there seems to be no problem.

Dogs are believed to have been domesticated about 8,000 years ago.

(Mrs. C. S. Soderstrom)

ARMENA, April 27th Some people are lucky and some are not; Albert Galenza of this district is one of the lucky ones!

Last Thursday, April 23rd, Albert Galenza, a local farmer won $10,000 at the St. John's Institute bingo held in the Edmonton Gardens. This was a $20,0.6 cash bingo. $10,000 being the biggest win. The rest were divided into $1,000 amounts.

Trenkan was at a peak when five others bingoed the same time as Mr. Galenza. When the lucky number was called, he "bumped the rest off" to be crowned the jubilant owner of a $10 0.0 cheque.

Luck seems to run in the Galenza family as Mrs. Galenza won $500 in a recent CJCA radio bingo.

When asked how this money will be spent, the Galenzas just said they will "spend it."

Are catching up with wife deserters
(The Sudbury Star)

Three years ago a special investigating unit was set up in Ontario under the authority of the attorney-general's department. Main duty of the unit was to track down husbands who left their wives and children without support when these wives and families went on the public relief rolls. One department of public welfare included in its report for the first year of its business:

"Now is the investigating unit justified? Best evidence is based in the figures for last year. In that period 1,625 cases were referred to the investigators. As a result of the investigation 43 per cent of the absentees were found and made to contribute to the support of their families. It also meant that 539 families could be removed from the relief rolls.

It is a shameful thing that a man will leave his wife and family to be supported by public charity. It is even more shameful that it became necessary for the government to get into a position to track down deserters and compel them to meet their family obligations.

GRASS FIRE

Fireman Ken Johnson, in white coveralls, rushes with a fire extinguisher to help keep a grass fire away from buildings and lumber. The fire was one of four in the district last Saturday. This is the only one in which no damage was done, but the firemen did manage to rid themselves of one more hazard by burning off patches of long dry grass in the area north of Byers' new feed mill.

Beaver school committee meet

Regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 School Committee was held on Tuesday, April 7, at the Council Chambers. W. A. Westerdal, A. L. Gibson, W. D. Johnson, J. H. Kryszkiewicz, E. M. Jamieson, H. Riddick and A. M. Gosha of the Tofield and Viking, Norther Lights and Ryley districts respectively, and the Superintendent, H. A. Pike.

Business Arising from Minutes

In connection with the Query sheet coming at Tofield, it was decided to hold over this matter as secretary-treasurer reported that an order had been issued by the Board of Transport Commissioners on March 5th to the effect that no engine, except those which pass over railway crossings in the Town of Tofield is a speed greater than 35 m.p.h. The superintendent stated that he had received information from Mr. Pace, M.P., to the effect that flashing lights would definitely be installed at the Lawn Street crossing, but that no date for the crossing to be put in had been received.

It was moved and carried that the report be accepted.

Concerning the purchase of school buses, Judith walk by vacant a 1171-61, the secretary-treasurer reported that the committee, consisting of Cy Masterson and Kryszkiewicz, together with the bus inspector, the superintendent of schools and the secretary-treasurer, had further report be accepted. It was moved and carried that the report be accepted as read and that the committee be discharged with the thanks of the Board.

Arranging our dissolution

(The Financial Post)

Day by day and year by year, it is becoming clearer and clearer that the easy, least expensive way for Canadians to meet our national problems would be to quit trying to deal with them, go on a nation-wide tax and work holiday and let our national affairs go to pot. After a few months of that, we could count on thorough national chaos.

We could then count on the Americans rushing to our aid with lovely loans and gifts, sending us battalions of experts to "advise" us on how to manage our affairs.

Canada is in chronic trouble with the U.S. because it has NOT done those things. It struggles mightily to pay its own way, to put its house meticulously in order and to be a respectable, non-troublesome and useful member of the Western alliance. It a George Ball, the U.S Undersecretary of State, who has launched the biggest recent attack on Canada for its efforts to mind well its own business and to perform sensibly the duties of nationhood. Ball threatens that Canada must do nothing to bring about the transfer of production from one country to another. This means Ball will fight against Canada's efforts to make progress with things like the auto parts rationalization plan. According to him it is bad for Canada to ask car makers in this country to earn U.S. dollars on exported made-in-Canada auto springs, for instance, to pay for imported made-in-U.S. auto roof stampings.

Canada is, in fact, the best U.S. customer. It is the most elementary fact of economic life that the only way to economic health is for Canada to develop ways of selling more to the U.S. This Ball says we must not do. What Ball orders inevitably means that our government should let our situation continue to deteriorate and that it preside with dexterity over the liquidation of Canada as an independent country. For those who think there is a place in the world for small nations and who have a regard for Canada—and that regard is just the same quality of mind and heart that Americans have for their country—the Ball prescription for our national requiem is not welcome.

Their homework was done

We complained recently about the machine gun rapidity of giving final reading to 118 bills in the Alberta Legislature on the final days of its sitting, so this week Camrose's representative came in to set us straight on the matter.

It's true, Mr. Sayers agreed, that the third reading for these bills was all given during this period, but this is usually little more than a formality which follows what is usually a considerable and often prolonged period of study. For instance, Mr. Sayers said, several of the bills had been given critical study over a lengthy period, some of the discussion coming from members of the government, while some of it came from the Opposition, before they were approved for third reading.

This action, of course, comes in the Committee of the Whole, or the Agricultural Committee' study of the bill, the usually following second reading.

Actual progress of a bill through the house is that it is read the first time as much for information as anything else. Unless it is absolutely ridiculous, it will be passed along to a second reading, where it is given searching study at the committee level. Having passed this scrutiny, and maybe receiving change or amendment, it goes to third reading, and even then the occasional bill is not approved. Not long afterwards, the Lieutenant Governor is in the chair, and gives royal assent to those approved. This is the reason, Mr. Sayers said, for so many of them going through the mill so quickly.

For days beforehand the House had been doing its homework, sitting up until 11:35 o'clock the night before closing to polish up the wording, on matters for the public.

19 bills which had been referred to the committee of the whole.

Life saver

We don't have to say the rains since last weekend have been a God-send to farmers across the entire province. Everyone already knew the situation was critical, though many couldn't bring themselves to despair too soon. After all, they'd say, we always manage somehow. Remarkably general as these rains have been, they have saved the day for nearly all farmers who were fearing a drought . . . at least until mid-summer at any rate.

Now, if things would only soak in so we could get seeding . . .

Incredible nature

The forces of Nature are almost incomprehensible, and magnificent . . . or awesome . . . (whichever way you see it) as are the new forces man can unleash, they are still puny by comparison.

Just recently Leonard Murphy, director of seismology, surveyed the Alaska earthquake on Good Friday, and came up with the answer it had released more energy than 10,000,000 of the bombs which destroyed Hiroshima. That bomb was small by contrast with today's unit, but not that small. The hurricane, too, expends a megaton of force every 20 seconds.

The mills of the gods

The old proverb says that the mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly fine, and it would seem this has been the manner in which they worked when it came to the notorious situation developed by Hal C Banks as president of the Seafarers' International. There will be little discontent with the five-year prison sentence meted out, we should think, except from those who think it may not be long enough.

We haven't actually heard this feeling expressed, but it would not be likely there aren't many citizens who feel a lifetime of imprisonment would be too short for all the hardship, misery and suffering Banks and his supporters have caused. While five years is a considerable sentence for a man of Banks's age, and it may well be that his influence and his usefulness in building brutality are vastly ended, it should not be forgotten that he made a comeback before, after a three-year jail term Certainly he has shown almost a genius for his particular kind of organizational ability, and it would be folly to overlook it

This end, if end it is, of Banks's career, coming at the same time as Jimmy Hoffa is facing legal difficulties of the most severe nature, may invest ordinary citizens with the hope that slowly and painfully the battle of freedom on the labor front is being won, as any freedom has always been and always will be won. Don't be fooled. our veneer of civilization still hasn't developed any real depth, and the law of the jungle is ever ready to push back the law of the courtroom if we slumber just ever so slightly.

HURRAH FOR THE HOGMEN

In this day when nearly everyone turns to the government to solve their problems, it is refreshing to see the Canadian Federation of Agriculture recently set about to do something by itself to strengthen the position of hog marketers and to improve hog quality. Designed to be financed by the breeders themselves, it will also be controlled by them. And the committee wisely suggests that a conference be called a year from now to review progress.

By no means the least important suggestion put forward was the institution of some term such as "Elite Breeder" for consistent excellence The grain industry has enjoyed and profited from the prestige and integrity of this distinction. There seems no reason why it could not also benefit the entire hog industry.

MacDuff Ottawa report

Bank changes coming

OTTAWA.—Word here is that the federal government will accept several of the recommendations of the Porter Royal Commission on Banking and Finance for incorporate them in a draft bill to amend the Bank Act and present it to Parliament next fall. Initial reaction in government circles was one of surprise because of the shock of the many changes proposed which if adopted would involve a wholesale rewriting of the country's banking legislation.

Procedure is to be followed by the government will be to prepare the draft bill as an amendment to the Bank Act. It will then be introduced into Parliament with the clear understanding that it will be referred to the banking committee for detailed study. This will provide the opportunity for interested parties to make representations for and against.

REAL COMPETITION

The Royal Commission proposed far reaching reforms in the operation of the banks, trust and finance companies, mortgage companies and stock exchanges. It came out strongly in favour of injecting real competition into Canada's system of lending and borrowing coupled with more supervision and intervention for the public.

The Government is found that some of the laws now in operation needlessly restrict the financial institutions, serve no purpose in protecting the public and in fact reduce the availability of credit to some borrowers thereby driving them into the arms of high cost lenders

One of the main recommendations was to step up the ten per cent reserve that Parliament has set long ago to control the lending rate of the chartered banks. It was imposed first in 1867. First it was seven per cent; but then it was reduced to six per cent in 1945.

The main recommendations were in keeping with the position taken by the Canadian Banker's Association when it appeared before the Royal Commission early in 1963. What the government is now has to decide is whether now is the time to go all out for competition, not control, in the field of the chartered banks.

OPEN DOOR FOR BANKS

One big bone of political contention will be the freedom for the banks to enter mortgage lending The royal commission not be stymied.

said this could open up new sources of credit for business men. It may make it easier and cheaper to buy new and old homes, it seems to be seen. It could also mean that the big banks will get larger at the expense of the small. The commission contended that the size of the banks did not necessarily give them an advantage. The banks had been around in recent years to trust and loan companies and credit unions. Their profits were lower than some other private financial firms. The concentration of power in the hands of the big banks contributed to the Commons committee's conclusion that there was room for new bank charters and to answer the points advanced by the commission when the present plan goes before the joint Senate-Commons committee this summer.

SAVE LESS, SPEND MORE

The royal commission stressed that it was not arguing against thrift. Canada's Canada Pension plan, but it was emphasizing the need of considering each step along the way with the thought in mind of maintaining the vital savings and investment process involved. It suggested that under a contributory pension plan the banks had long advocated Canadian might be inclined to save less and spend more.

There are certain to be political repercussions over the section of the royal commission report questioning the proposed bank mergers committee. Interference by the federal government will be sabotaged by the powerful lobby of the banks.

The bill amending the Bank Act will probably be introduced in the fall session, receive first and second reading and then be referred to the Banking Committee for detailed study. That committee would sit in the fall and winter and the same bill would likely be reintroduced at the next session in 1965.

HIGHER MORTGAGES NOT FAVORED

The recommendations of the royal commission against liberalizing National Housing Act mortgages will be studied by the government with a view to considering their adoption when the House of Commons studies the resolutions now before Parliament respecting amendments to the National Housing Act. The report proposed the NHA interest rate be fixed, not pegged by the government. This would mean the rate would go up, which is contrary to present government policy to have NHA mortgages available at low interest cost.

The royal commission had some caustic criticism to make of funded pension plans and warned the government to go slowly and ensure the cost before embarking on its controversial Canada Pension Plan.

It suggested that an unfunded, pay-as-you-go pension scheme might be cheaper and more effective in the long run for the average Canadian. The commission urged that the proposed federal pension legislation take account of the fact that will have to be paid in the terms of the financing of Canada's national development and that care be exercised to ensure that the country's economic resources

"Does it"—the pawnbroker retorted, "One day a guy buys a sax or tuba or banjo and then a couple of days later, his neighbors come in and buy the shotguns".

Air rifle taboo in Holden village

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Venne boys owning air rifles have become a "holiday" shooting out most of the windows in the house on the Ross Huseby farm on the east side of the village, also breaking into the house and doing considerable unchecked. While this household is unoccupied most of the year, it is used by Mr. Huseby and helpers when the land is being worked in the spring and during harvest. Parents of the boys who own this type of gun should be aware that this property is in the village limits and as it is not legal to shoot inside the village, need should caution them regarding damage.

Lakeshore-

Brenda Eaton of Tofield returned home Thursday evening after spending two weeks with her grandmother, Ellen Eaton, at Tofield.

Lyle and Norman Jones and Janet Wickenberg, all of Edmonton, were Sunday guests at the home of Vivian and Janet's parents, Roy and Ruth Wickenberg.

Ray Watsonbern is a patient in the Tofield Hospital, where it is expected he will undergo surgery. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Rain started falling on Saturday evening and has been falling gently today (Monday) with a little over half an inch of moisture so far. This is a welcome relief to farmers and fire fighters, as it will start the grass on the dry pastures and bring to a stop the tinder dry conditions in the bush-lands.

A history of Deville

The Mercury is grateful to the Tofield Historical Society for having made available the following article:

The article on the history of the Deville area has been contributed to the Tofield Historical Society by Mr. John Hyrenuk, a pioneer of Deville. Mr. Morrow, though just 50 years of age and hospitalized for part of the winter, has himself written this interesting and historically valuable account of the early history of Deville.

—G. Phillips

— THE DEVILLE STORY —

On a cool October day in 1906, a group of four fur traders, Sam and John Adams, John Coleman, John Morrow, and an American from North Freedom, Wisconsin, Jack Deville, wended their way east from Edmonton by the old base line trail for eighteen miles, then on to where they could for another fifteen miles through brush, swamp and muskeg. They had pooled their resources to buy a team of horses, oxen, and supplies for the coming winter. They reached the northeast shore of Cooking Lake by nightfall and pitched their weary bunks, built a campfire, fed their horses and their bellies, and made plans for the night. Tomorrow each would set out scouting for a quarter section of land on which he would squat and establish a home. This land was part of the Cooking Lake Forest Reserve and although it was all burnt over and not yet surveyed or open for homesteading, its choice lay in the fact that it was good rich sandy loam. It lay in a sloping valley between Wanniscan Lake and Hastings Lake, with Cooking Lake on the west and Islet Lake on the east.

At one time this area had evidently been an Indian hunting ground. Many a time the writer picked up what was reported to be large bolts of pemmican, which was sundried buffalo meat, pulverized and mixed with suet and wild berries such as cranberries, saskatoons and bakepeple. It was in balls as large as a football, and had been buried in the earth by the Indians for use in emergencies. It was tough as rubber but not decayed. Many Indian relics such as arrowheads, flint spearheads, stone battle axes, pemmican pounders and tanning scrapers were also turned up.

The main idea of squatting in this district was the report that the railway from Winnipeg to Edmonton might come through this location, and the settlers pursued it would be on the north side of Cooking Lake.

They decided to squat on a quarter section each, and by the end of November each had built a log shack of a kind in order to establish a claim. On Jack Deville's quarter, a large two-storey house was built and the five boys hatched together to live there. We made our headquarters there, and built a log barn. Everything possible was home-made — our beds were made from poles, mattresses were gunny sacks stuffed with hay, pillows were made from duck feathers, tables were native poplar; apple boxes nailed to the walls served as shelves; we cooked on an iron stove. Throughout it all, we were warm, comfortable and healthy.

The winter of 1906-07 is remembered as the winter of the deep snows and as a temperatures sometimes as low as 60° below. On the odd perbridge, but the snow barely accumulated to indentedness to the tiny bush rabbit. Rabbits were eaten every day—stewed, fried, baked. We also had lots of pork and beef, as we could buy a dressed hog or a quarter of beef for five cents a pound from the occasional settler who would pass through with a load of hay on his way to Edmonton. Cooking Lake trail and the old Beaver Lake trail were the two highways travelled by the early settlers from the Tofield and Beaver Lake districts. Such families as the Frasers, Cookson, Ingham, Woods and Shupe come to mind.

All the creeks and lakes had been fished out before the winter. There were deer, elk, lynx, fox, musk and muskrats, and these meant ready cash for their fur and hides.

The only settlers near this part of the country were the Adams brothers came were Peter Donald and his family. The Donalds, whose grandfather homesteaded on a quarter section which is now Bonnie Doon in Edmonton, lived on the creek at the outlet of Cooking Lake. The Jonas Ward family lived on the creek on Hastings Lake at the northwest end. Another family was the Augustus Gladue family, who had a well established ranch at the outlet of Hastings Lake. He had moved from Beaver Lake years before to take advantage of the lush hay pastures and has meadows along Hastings Creek. Many a weary traveller between Beaver Lake country and Edmonton was glad to make camp at the Gladue ranch, and share the hospitality of the Gladue home. This ranch was the outstanding land mark in the district during the early days. Jack Sanderson lived on the west end of Cooking Lake. He was a Black guide with General Middleton during the Riel uprising. He came to Edmonton from Fort Pitt and was late" guide for many parties around Edmonton. He ended up as a guide for Charlie Brenner, colonizer and appraiser for the CPR. Charlie set him up on a quarter section of land on Cooking Lake, where he eked out a living trapping. Jack was quite a story teller, and was welcome wherever he went.

COMING OF THE RAILWAY

The settlers had guessed right about the railway, for in the summer of 1907 the Grand Trunk Pacific surveyors came along, and construction gangs followed in 1908. By this time we had left the big house we shared during the winter, and had all moved into our own log shacks and improved them considerably. With the coming of the railway, other squatters began to come into the district, most of them squatting on the south end of the Forest Reserve. Among these earliest settlers were Alex Morrow, Hugh Adams, John Adams, Bob. Adams, Bert Dunn, Jim Morrow, Hedley Bryenton, Charles Magee William Doore, John Watherston, J. M. Verge, Jim Scott, Fred Pennock, Peter Donald, Henry Donald, Roy and Guy Dunn, Jim McCaskill, R. Bailford, William Ross, Teddy Doran, Bob Mellarky, Walter Langton, Matthew Ferguson Sr., Andy and Archie Ferguson, Henry White Julia Rowland, Pete Huston, Tom Scott, William Druiard, Jim Gray, Charlie Gray, Alex Love, Bob Darnell and Peter McKerral. I am mentioning these settlers as there are residents in the district today who will recognize many of these names.

With the coming of the railway, jobs were available working with the surveyors, cutting right-of-way dicthing, and building the grade for the railway. During the winter, earth was removed with chutes of horse-drawn scrapers took sub-contracts building grade with a borrowed slip, and if they could double up with someone, they could get a freeze. This was slow hard work, but it paid $2.00 a day and I honestly believe few of the settlers could have stuck it but for this ready cash. Many left indebted to the late Mr. Jackson who contracted from Foley, Welsh and Stewart. He

A letter from the Ryley Curling Association is offering to purchase the window panes from the Ryley School Industrial Arts Shop, that were damaged in the recent fire, for the sum of $20 was referred to the Committee. The secretary-treasurer stated that he had contacted the Insurance Adjusters and that they were prepared to accept 50% of the estimated cost of the window panes. According to Mr. Pike there were seven unbroken panes valued at $100 wholesale.

Moved and carried that the window glass be offered to the Ryley Curling Association for $50.

Mr. Pike reported briefly on the fire that had taken place in the Industrial Arts Shop last week at Ryley on March 18th. It was a very peculiar fire in that it had burned out the upholstery in two cars, that were being used by the students to do metal lathe work on, but had not burned anything else such as tires, batteries, etc. It had resumed a considerable amount of smoke damage, had broken some of the windows and had melted some of the electrical wiring. On instructions of the Insurance Adjusters, repairs were being made and cleanup operations fairly well completed.

Moved and carried that the Bus Supervisor's report for the month of March and expense account in the amount of $54.45 be accepted and the account paid.

Moved and carried that Clarence Johnston be appointed to represent the School Committee at the Principals' Meeting, April 9th.

The Superintendent informed the Committee that on April 24 a Play Night would be held in Tofield in the School Auditorium, with a one-act play being put on by the schools from Viking, Ryley and Tofield, and that it might be advisable to use school buses to transport students from Viking to Ryley.

Moved and carried that permission be granted for the use of school buses for this occasion.

The Committee was informed that the Ryley High School Basketball team had travelled to Drumheller for the Provincial Finals and had missed by only one or two points in taking the Provincial trophy. Also Lehman had travelled to Drumheller to see his bus to Drumheller, and the expense that he had incurred together with his wage, was referred to the Committee. The actual time that he had been on this trip was 15½ hours which, at $1 an hour, would amount to $15.50. However, Mr. Lehman had reduced this to $10. His expenses were $3.50 for meals, $7 for hotel and $14.50 for gasoline for the bus - total of $37.25.

Moved and carried that the account be paid.

It was realized that it was necessary to set a rate for trips of this kind, and it was moved and carried that payment to bus drivers making trips outside of the County be at the rate of $15 per day for a 24-hour day, plus expenses.

The Committee was advised that a dump truck should be obtained for the Ryley School as it had been sold. A used truck would be not that expensive.

Moved and carried that Mr. Gelka, together with the maintenance foreman Nick Shilniski and the F.W. mechanic Stan Towns, look into this matter.

The Committee was reminded that Neil Reid's probation period as Bus Supervisor had expired. The Committee was of the opinion that Mr. Reid had proved himself satisfactory for the position, and it was moved and carried that Neil Reid be appointed as Bus Supervisor on a permanent basis, providing his services continue to be satisfactory.

Cr. Westbrill brought up the need for the extension to the bus garage at Tofield which had been discussed from time to time, and it was moved and carried that an amount of $10,000 be included in the current year's budget for an extension to the Tofield School Bus Garage.

The School Budget, as prepared by the secretary-treasurer and the superintendent of schools, was now placed before the Committee and examined section by section, and it was moved and carried that the Budget as considered at this time be adopted as the Budget for 1964.

ing of the gas conversion permits, though resulting legislation has already been passed.

There can be forced entry into $3401, it was stated. The decision is entirely that of the council. However, it was pointed out the people look to the councillors for guidance on roads, ditches, schools and so on, and would normally look to them for guidance in emergency. Councillor Hay stressed, by urged the county to join the local organization, during part of the $6,500 cost in this re-

Councillor Hutchinson felt more information was needed before a county residence were to be added to shelter in accordance with the provincial program. It would be good to have organization, for instance," he declared. He had little support.

would give anyone a chance if they were willing to work.

When the grade was built and I've steer lead, there was other jobs such as fencing and keeping the track level. There was no gravel, and the usual procedure when the track sank in the mud was to go into the bush and cut poplar poles, and haul them out, cut them into suitable lengths, jack up the steel and slip the poles under the ties. This was only good for a few days, at which time the operation had to be repeated.

By 1908 the railway was completed, and on August 13th, 1908, the write rode from Tofield to Edmonton on the first passenger train from Winnipeg. By the time the Grand Trunk was through, most of the settlers had a few cows, and cream cheques were the life saver from them on. As land was cleared, grain was grown, and hogs and beef cattle increased, and the settlers were beginning to feel well established.

Now that the district was well settled, requests were made to Ottawa to have the district thrown open for homesteading, and giving the southern the right to file on their land. After much negotiating, and with the help of the Honorable Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior at that time, the land was eventually surveyed, and the old squatters got their claims, paying the way for new homesteaders.

It is of interest to know how our district was named. Various names were suggested for the new settlement, such as Dixie, Wilson, but the name of the first settler, Peter Tofield Kyle, were other names suggested. However, when the railway built their stakes, they hoisted up a big red-velvet sign on the tree of it—"DEVILLE", in honor of Lee Surveyor General of Canada at that time, C. E. Deville.

Judy Watson wins regional 4-H speak-off

Miss Judy Watson of Clyde was picked as the winner in the junior section of the public speaking competition held at Viking on Friday. Judy was the grandniece of one of the judges who were highly impressed with the clever if long and spirited speech. Miss Watson's subject was "Farming is the Greatest Industry in the Universe" and she described the part agriculture has played in the development of civilization from the days of the caveman to the present day. She also described the part agriculture will play in the future and the progress which can be expected on the farm based on the past half century. Her theme was "Farming in this Changing World". She stated that the changes taking place in the farming communities were more rapid and exciting than in any other industry and she asserted all farmers to change with the times or they would find themselves unable to compete with those who do. A farmer today, she said, needed to be an expert in his particular field of production and to attain proficiency he would have to take advantage of all sources of information to learn more about his particular specialty.

Miss Watson is presently the Dairy Junior Project Leader in Agriculture at Wanham. She is entering the top of the class in Grade 12 there. She will next year enter the University of Alberta, Edmonton, where she will major in Home Economics. Judy, which will be held on a two-year during her absence.

Second place in the public speaking contest was Miss Faye Cassidy, Viking. Faye spoke on the topic "Agriculture is more highly loaded to the rafters and they don't intend to name her for several decades."

Cathleen Wolfe representing the Tofield Beef Club, placed third for her talk on "Love of Country". Miss Wolfe was named winner of the County competition two weeks earlier.

Honorable mention was given Harry McDonald of Mannville for his excellent talk on The Family in Our Changing Society. The judges stated that he showed considerable promise as a speaker and urged him to continue to develop and use his public speaking.

The judges for the competition were Mr. A. W. Yarick and Mr. James Ross, both of Camrose. Both gave very good reports and spoke highly of the high standard of the speeches.

then heard a cry from her daughter, and on back for her. By the course of this, her neighbors were hurried and she herself suffered severe burns her daughter suffered only singed hair.

Camrose fire brigade was called, and responded with the County pump and spray truck. However, due to telephone lines being out of order, a long trip to Ryley was necessary. As it was needed, and the firefighters arrived only about 9:50, helped to keep the flames from spreading. Neighbors only a mile or so from the fire were unaware of the disaster for some time.

A tractor was used to pull a barn in from the south of the building, though the floor did not come. This was the only part of the house saved. Furniture and all other belongings went up in smoke. Insurance estimated at $4,500 was carried on the furniture, which was quite low, but no coverage was carried on the log building.

Round Hill house razed in early morning fire

Fire early Tuesday completely destroyed a one and a half storey log house near Round Hill owned by Eddie Petryshen. Mrs. Petryshen was taken to Tofield Hospital, suffering from burns she sustained as she fled the home with her two-year-old daughter, Cheryl.

The fire seems to have broken out about 6:00 a.m. Immediately after Mr. Petryshen left the house and drove half a mile to the home of a neighbor Stan Hayduk. Mr. Hayduk and Petryshen when they returned, and suddenly both saw the house was

Citizenship Day

As far as we know, Citizenship Day is new in the Canadian calendar, but we are informed that this Friday has been designated Citizenship Day by the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. As such it will be celebrated in varying ways by schools, libraries and voluntary organizations throughout the country.

Nowhere does the information given us suggest that this ties in with Victoria Day, which we celebrate on Monday, and which has historically been associated with Empire or Commonwealth. All the same, we think there can be a real association, and one well worth marking.

It's more than probable that if schools and other public organizations had maintained the old celebrations we used to know immediately before the Queen's Birthday, waving the "old bit of bunting" and so on, there'd be less talk about a new bit of bunting these days. It's more than probable if we had "sold" Canadianism energetically, to the last generation or two of young Canadians there would be far less talk of there being "no Canadian nation"; "no Canadian culture".

It's still not too late. Let's get busy right now. Let's start by listening to John Fisher and his press agentry for all that's Canadian. Let's start surrounding us all with a Canadian aura. Surely, it may not ring true at first, but give it time to develop.

We should be playing up the heritage of well beyond the past hundred years. Champlain was just as Canadian as St. Laurent; Cabot just as Canadian as MacKenzie King. There's sheer magic in some of the names available to us. Frontenac, LaSalle, Hochelaga, Stadacona, MacDonald, Tupper, Lacombe, Amor de Cosmos, Donald Smith, Haultain, Galt, Drummond—these are only a few. What there's fascination even in Bellevaire and Francois Adam.

Let's dig in and make something of this heritage, and with any luck at all, there will still be a Canada around to celebrate it's two hundredth birthday.

Peaches and lemons?

"The six per cent limitation on interest (for the chartered banks) is something that will be difficult to get rid of," says the Fort Erie Letter Review, adding that the people in favor of eliminating this ceiling will have to prove to the satisfaction of the country at large that the proposal is fair and sound.

Strenuous objection will be made by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture for any abatement of the preferred conditions under which farmers may borrow money, but this may not apply to the broad picture as a whole.

The point that has been made so often by proponents of increased rates is that the present level is just where it was when automobiles cost $1,000, and no one would dream of getting a new car for that figure today: by inference, therefore, it is not reasonable to expect to get financing for the same rate.

Surely this is equating peaches and lemons as one and the same thing, simply because both may taste tart.

To carry the illustration in its logical extension, since the $1,000 car now costs in the neighborhood of $3,000, them money which used to bring 6 per cent now should bring somewhere around 18 per cent . . . . and most public figures seem to consider this somewhere in the realm of usury.

What is being overlooked, we think, is the rate of profit on the automobile, and the rate of profit on the bank loan. We don't know what's happening in the auto industry specifically, but there are lots of figures around to substantiate the modest profit percentage of industry generally. And bank shares haven't lagged noticeably behind in the stock market's rapid appreciation of late years.

Furthermore, the increased price of the auto is symptomatic of the increased size of the loans being made, and the increased interest repayable. Simple volume has increased many times for the banks, yet the mechanical work of writing large loans is little different from writing small loans.

One thing which must be kept in mind, of course, is pointed out by the Letter Review comment that Canadians should never forget that the system of chartered banks is by without question a sounder system than prevails in any other country.

Who is the expert?

A couple of years ago a major bus company in this country, as well as one or two large trucking firms, issued orders to all their drivers that headlights of their vehicles be turned on for daytime driving as well as at night. The move, of course, was to make the vehicles more conspicuous, and the hope was that accidents on highways would be reduced as a result.

Shortly afterward, the Canadian Optometric Association backed up the companies issuing such orders, stating that motor vehicles using their headlights during daylight hours were, if memory serves us correctly, thirty-eight per cent more conspicuous.

We were interested to read the other day that the Winnipeg chief of police objects to the use of headlights in the daytime by some motorists, saying that if only a few motorists adopt the practice, other motorists approaching them might fail to see another vehicle which does not have its light on. He felt that all should be lighted or none should be.

He may have a point. But it is our belief, as we travel down provincial highways, that anything we can do to help ensure that all oncoming motorists see us, we will do. If other motorists feel that they don't require the extra safety measure, this, we feel, is up to them. But if the optometrists say our car is more easily visible in the daytime with the lights on, then we shall continue to leave them on until some new law deprives us of this added safety measure.

It is simply a matter of which is the better expert on this question, the Winnipeg police chief or the eye specialists.

Ain't Nature grand?

In the words of the well known song: "Suddenly it's spring!"

In spite of the relatively cold weather we had all during March and April, and in spite of the dry conditions of a few weeks ago, almost overnight everything burst into bud, and turned green following the marvellous rains of a couple of weeks back.

While it may have been tough on some of the farming operations . . . we had heard of only one farmer getting his crop in before the rain . . . there wasn't really anybody who wasn't thrilled with the generosity of Nature. And the way the trees and shrubs and flowers are leafing out, and the grass is greening up away ahead of normal schedule, it gives promise of being a long, bountiful growing season.

Ain't Nature grand?

A most enjoyable two weeks' driving . . . but still enjoyable.

One of the highlights of our vacation this year was when we defied the "protection" of the Alberta movie censorship board, and went to see the movie, "Tom Jones".

We found it to be an excellent comedy. The story is about a handsome young man who can't seem to help attracting the female of the species, and continually winds up becoming involved in situations that spoil for their husbands that spoil nothing but treachery" of the Alberta movie censorship board, decided to shield us from. However, in doing so, they have prevented a lot of people in this province from seeing one of the top comedies of the year.

But one cannot help but admire the courage of the censorship board and, most of all, that of the MLA's and their wives who bravely sat through a showing of "Tom Jones"—uncensored!

I would guess. There are many words and phrases used in the film which are not in common use today—and in fact are considered vulgar or profane in this age and age—but which I can well imagine did not seem out of place then. It is this straightforward usage of the English language, I presume, which the Alberta censorship board decided to shield us from. However, in doing so, they have prevented a lot of people in this province from seeing one of the top comedies of the year.

But one cannot help but admire the courage of the censorship board and, most of all, that of the MLA's and their wives who bravely sat through a showing of "Tom Jones"—uncensored!

What a sacrifice! . . . and a bunch of baloney . . . and I know because I, too, saw "Tom Jones"—uncensored!

MY TREAT

Two Texas oilmen dropped into a free corn carnival one afternoon on a little shopping spree. After buying the largest, John rode a $10,000 convertible around. "I'll take this one," he said to the salesman. But as he reached in his pocket, his friend slapped his arm. "No, you don't John," he said, reaching for his own roll. "You got the lunch."

You can usually tell when a high school boy is serious about a girl by the way she calls him up every evening.

SAY SOMETHING!

A well-meaning lady held a cookie above her dog and said, "Speak! Speak!"

"Well," replied the dog, "I hardly know what to say under the circumstances."

Mr. and Mrs. Downmore were riding along in their car when Mrs. Downmore broke the silence by asking, "How come we ride so far apart in the car these days? I remember before we were married we used to sit a lot closer together".

Mr. Downmore drove on and then replied, "I slid myself".

The competition now is to have the smallest car in the neighborhood.

HERR-SPLITTER

A wife who was somewhat of a nagger bought two ties for her husband's birthday. He came down that morning wearing one of the ties.

So, snorted his wife, "You didn't like the other one!"

COLOSSAL CANAL

"NAWAPA", the name of the colossal $100,000 million plan to dig a ship waterway from Vancouver to the Great Lakes, is not being treated as a pipe dream by the U.S., says The Financial Post. A special subcommittee of the U.S. Senate public works committee is studying the project that would take 30 years to build. First step needed is a full-scale engineering study.

FOUR GOOD HANDS

The expressions may reveal who has the best hand, the rabbit with the happiest look holds a straight flush; one holds four aces; another a full house with three jacks and a pair of deuces; the saddest looks a full house of kings and a pair of 4's. The glasses are empty and the chips are down. Bill Southerpe who dreamed up the display said it has been his ambition for years. He raised the rabbits and his future son-in-law mounted them.

Service board meets

Pasture spraying demonstration delayed by field crops branch

The secretary advised the meeting of the Agricultural Service Board of the County of Beaver on April 22nd that the tentative agreement had been held up at the Field Crops Branch for clarification of the Project 4-41 which we were going to use as a pasture spraying demonstration. They requested that this be used as a shared project with the farmer paying one-third, the county one-third and the balance as a grant from the department of agriculture. It was moved by C. Lee that this be a shared project as requested by the Field Crops Branch.

The secretary advised that the council had decided there would be no shelter belt spraying until a proper agreement, relieving the County of any responsibility regarding damage, had been obtained.

Rex Boyles advised that the local telephone companies have cleared quite a bit of brush this winter and are dumping it in the ditches. Also the graders are pushing the soil from the shoulders of the roads into the ditch.

The Service Board felt that this should be stopped as it is trying to get the ditches in shape so they can be mowed by the farmers along the road, and it was moved by George Robinson that the littering of the road-sides be brought to the attention of the council.

Rex Boyles said he had been contacted by farmers to seed brome grass on certain bush slopes, but the board agreed to continue the policy of no brome grass on bush slopes.

Rex Boyles said there are three farmers in the Kinsella area who have severe infestations of Toad Flax involving about 80 acres. These farmers have not had much success in getting rid of this weed, partly due to the cost of the chemical. He wondered if the County would assist by supplying the chemical at half price as they do for small patches. The cost to the County would be about $40.00, and it was agreed that the County supply chemical at half price to clean up this Toad Flax problem.

—FELLOWS

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding future brushland vaccination. Rex Boyles said that three farmers have told him they were informed by the technicians doing the testing under the Control program that the vaccination program would be discontinued. He advised that this was not the case and there has been no information from the department of agriculture if they intend to stop the grant for this program or not. According to Stan Powers, this is not likely to happen in the near future.

Stan Powers said he had been contacted by a young veterinarian who had been practising in the Kinsella area who was interested in information on County programs as well as certain other information.

Stan Powers reported on a 4-H meeting in Viking where Dr. Bisbjerg gave an address on "Preventative Medicine for Farm Animals". This requires periodic visits by a veterinarian to check herds and prescribe medication before animals become sick. This program is being carried on in parts of Manitoba.

THE BIRTH OF THE SCHOOL

In time most of the backers had married, and as the community grew and families increased there came the need for a school. The local school had its beginning at a public meeting held in Mr. Rose's house in January 1912. Trustees were elected. The first trustees were J.J. Verge, Mr. Rabley and Bradley Storey was elected by-law-breakers by the Alberta School Supply Co-operative. Interest paid was 6%. The site for the school was donated by the late John Coleman, who had his life in the last World War. The school was built for $750.00 by Mr Harrison

The second annual meeting had four ratepayers present. At this time the writer was elected president and was connected with the board for the following 45 years when he retired and left the district. Early trustees were Mrs McMenemy, Mr Fosler, Alex Low, Mrs Hyndman J M. Verge, Mr. McCarty, Mrs Dawn Mrs Bryson, Mr. Alex Morrow and the writer, J. Morrow. Besides a fee for the role as a trustee, the only pay I ever received was a single rule by Mr Hamilton's class. She gave each of her men in evening school to teach the children handwriting, such as knitting, sewing, and woodwork which were exhibited in the Annual School Fair. Many of these children who now have families of their own remember her helping hand with gratitude.

The school ran very successfully from its start in 1913, and had many pupils of which it is justly proud. In 1917, permission was granted to add another room to the school, to enable the students to take up to grade eleven. This was built for $415.00 Now two teachers were hired — a Junior and a High School teacher.

The local school is no longer used, as pupils are now taken by bus to larger centers, under the Provincial Government's new scheme It is now used as a community center, as still serves a useful purpose to the community.

SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

In the winter of 1913-1912 the first store was built in Deville by Mr. Jim McCaskill and a partner who was a fur buyer. This store served the community for a short time, as it burned. In 1914 Mr McIntosh built a store and in 1916 sold it to Jack Curtett Jr. About 1924, Mr. Curtett's son Jack Jr. and his wife Laura took over. Around the same time that Jack Curtett Jr. was operating his store, Alex Morrow kept a store on his homestead farm, a mile distance north of Deville, and built a new store south of the railway station. The two stores served the community until Curtett's store burned in 1930. It was later rebuilt. Morrow's store has continued to serve the district.

The first mail in the district was brought by saddle horse from South Cooking Lake district to Mr Watherston's homestead. Later the Verge's had it in their log home When the railway was completed in 1908 the post office was moved to McCaskill's store, then to Mcintosh's and Curtett's store. When Curtett's store burned the post-office was moved to Alex Morrow's store on February 20th, 1931, where it is at present located.

On June 1956 Mr. Alex Morrow received a long time service badge for having given twenty-five years faithful and satisfactory service in the Post Office Department and to the people of Canada.

Several Churches have served the district over the years—the first is believed to have been the Anglican Church from Tofield. Services were held in December 1912, presumably in the school. A Catholic Church was built shortly after this date. The United Church held services, in the school for many years, sending student ministers on from the Strome Circuit. In 1926 the Lutheran Church and the Mennonite Church have also served the religious needs of the Community.

While Deville has become a prosperous district the struggling railway, no longer an asset to the district, is slowly shrinking into oblivion. The stockyards, the elevators, the section gangs, water tank and siding are all gone. Good roads, good trucks and good service have been a welcome substitute and nobody gives a second thought to the disappearing railway.

The early settlers are pretty well scattered today, and many have reached the end of the trail. Many of their families have enjoyed large holdings, and are enjoying the prosperity that well developed farms, good buildings, gravelled roads, electricity and gas brings. No longer are people dependent on trapping — this has all been replaced by dairy herds, beef stock, hog and sheep-raising. The district is fortunate in having the Blackfoot Stock Association pasture adjoining it. This is a 46 000 acre community pasture which was started in 1922, and runs about two thousand head of cattle each summer. From May 15th to October 15th, and is under the capable management of Mr. Jack Gray

Tenaco Exploration had done some drilling, and struck a strong gas flow. Drilling is continuing from time to time.

When the district was transferred from the eStaver Municipal District to the County of Strathcona, a new era of road development started . . . high grades, and gravelling of all main roads. It is something the district had hoped for after many years of only "good weather" roads. Councillor Andy Adamson played a large part in bringing these services in our district, later was taken over by Rodger Parker.

The latest acquisition to the district is the new Provincial public picnic park set up in 1956. This is a quarter section of land on the north shore of Hastings Lake, owned by the Provincial Department of Lands and Mines. It has hills, a lot of lovely sandy beach, and good fishing and boating. Log picnic shelters, beautiful islands of spruce and birch are dotted throughout the lake, making it a popular spot for boating, fishing and duck hunting. Our local Member of Parliament, Mr. Floyd Baker, played an active part in developing this project, and "Baker's Beach" is the result being one of Alberta's most beautiful public parks.

This is the story of Deville, as the writer knows it. It has had its ups and downs, but through it all it has carried on, and has come through stronger.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartfield and son Timmie were supper guests from Mrs. Ethel Armstrong on Tuesday of last week. Mrs. Hartfield accompanied them to attend the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Bruce district.

Locals . . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stinson left Monday by CPR to visit Mrs. Stinson's father, W. H. Ternond, at Balcarres, Sask. her brother at Abernethy and Mr. Stinson's sister, Mrs. Scott and family, in Winnipeg. They will also visit the Brooks and Miss Shirley Stinson in Toronto and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Stinson, at Milton.

Alan Hollands, a former Holden resident, now of Camrose, was in Holden last Thursday. Alan, who operated the M. & M. store, is employed as a car salesman with one of the garages and car agencies in Camrose.

We learned this week that Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pederson have sold their home to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wright, Calgary Power manager in Holden. We understand the Pedersons plan to move to Camrose, but will not be leaving for some time yet.

Mrs. Elsie Clark was a visitor this past week with her mother, Mrs. Elna Parsons, and uncle, Chris Christenson.

Joe Alexander is busy this past week, when not driving the rural mails, taking the census of all village residents.

ON "SICK LIST"

We were sorry to hear that one of our old-time residents, Henry Hansen, is not feeling too good these days. We wish him a friend's farm a short while ago, helping hand out the mail. We are stunned his back. We hope it will not be long before he is feeling better and we see him around.

Mrs. Richard Globeluan was a visitor in Edmonton, Monday, Tuesday morning. We hope her stay in hospital will not be long. Mrs. Ida Wilde is trying to look after the children and the home. Mrs. Wilde has been helping out at the office of the Service Station while Richard has been visiting Hospital for observation of a bad hip.

Miss Shirley Laskowski, nurse-in-training at the Vegreville Hospital, was home last weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Laskowski

Miss Jessie McKenzie is now looking after the Jeffery children during school hours. Mrs. Olaf Smerlie, who previously looked after them, was unable to do so after having the Tic.

News items from Holden district

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Mrs. Mary James went to Tofield Hospital a week ago Monday and has been there this past week receiving treatment for a severe cold, which she has had for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Breitsand were visitors in Edmonton on Tuesday, May 5, when they called on friends, and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Arne Nelson.

Milton Pederson of Edmonton who moved from Holden recently, was a business visitor in Holden on Wednesday last week. Mr. Pederson is now employed by one of the dairies, delivering milk.

Jim Carolyn Friend, who is employed in Edmonton, visited with her family, the Peter Friends, last weekend.

We were pleased to hear from Mrs. Clint Armstrong last week that her daughter Jean (Mrs. Irvin Rabitz) is now home from hospital. Mrs. Rabitz underwent surgery for the last several weeks following a car accident. She returned home on May 1st. While Jean was missing much better and glad to be home with her family, they will have to sacrifice her activities for a few weeks to allow her to regain her strength.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartfield and son Timmie were supper guests from Mrs. Ethel Armstrong on Tuesday of last week. Mrs. Hartfield accompanied them to attend the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Bruce district.

OREGON GRADUATE

Alan Tiedemann, Calgary "Fresh" student, came home with his parents for the week-end after they had attended the graduation exercises and banquet at the U. of A. in Calgary. After writing his final exams, Alan is expecting to go to Lake Louise to work for the summer months at the Chateau Laurier Hotel.

The story of the Mitchell family

(This is the first of a two part story of the Mitchell family of Tofield. Written by Mrs. Grace Pudlas, the information for the article was obtained from a letter sent by Howard Mitchell to Dave Mitchell and from an interview with Mr. Mitchell by R. A. McDonald, Tofield.)

Hugh McNeil was born in the state of Pennsylvania and was one of a family of four children. His father was a bridge builder but died when Hugh was very young. The widowed Mrs. Mitchell felt that the Civil War in the USA was about to break out so she moved her family to Ontario where they lived till the war subsided. Then she returned to Yama Quinn.

The future Mrs. Hugh McNeil lived comfortably with Mrs. Mitchell and her children in Yama and was courted by Hugh. Mrs. Mitchell soon realized Hugh's intentions were honorable and he died when Hugh was very young. The widowed Mrs. Mitchell felt that the Civil War in the USA was about to break out so she moved her family to Ontario where they lived till the war subsided. Then she returned to Yama Quinn.

When Mrs. Mitchell was ready to be married to Hugh McNeil, Mrs. Mitchell moved to Portela near Dauphin, Manitoba. After a short interval the family again moved this time they travelled across the Westward Valley to a place called Waterloo. There were rumors that a large wheat mill built there. Mr. Mitchell obtained work building the mill but as he and his mill wrecked friend Mr. Carney had the hazardous job of the project was called off. When most of the work was finished Mitchell and the owner of the old mill foundation was the cause of the trouble.

Mr. Mitchell soon realized Portela was the best place to bring up his family so

Guest editorial—

We still speak his language

The Montreal Star

There was a man who said he couldn't stand Hamlet because it was nothing but a string of cliches, which is an inverted way of saying that no man speaking the English language can go through a day without all unconsciously quoting William Shakespeare.

Of the 500 pages devoted by the Oxford Dictionary of Quotations to English phrases, 97 belong to the man supposedly born at Stratford-On-Avon, give a day or two, four centuries ago today (The Bible rates 29 pages.)

We say "supposedly" because in every university library some dull little man can be found devoting his life to proving that he Shakespeare was not Shakespeare; that he was really Marlowe or Bacon, or the plagiarist of some writer unknown, or that there were two Shakespeares. It is a myopic form of scholastic lint-picking. What matters is that there exists a great, vibrant, lilting, resonant body of the English language known as Shakespeare, and that it always will be so known.

That this body still permeates our daily speech is a memorial to Shakespeare's instinctive understanding of a quality that distinguishes English — a quality that can portray emotion, or be full of subtle satire. It has a mongrel of a language, lacking that absolute but cold precision of which the French boast; but, just because it draws its sap from two roots, the one Nordic and the other Roman, it is capable of an infinity of shadings, it can be terse or ornate, harsh or wonderfully gentle, rich as velvet or lyric as a nightingale. This, Shakespeare understood intuitively, for he was not an educated man; in his origins he was as earthy and as wrathfully bawdy as our generation's Brendan Behan, as close to the soil as our Dylan Thomas.

To this understanding he added the ability of total recall. Whatever he heard, from the gutter to the fringes of the court, from philosophy to the rudimentary science of his day was stored away to emerge from memory at some exactly relevant point in space and time.

And then, to intuitive understanding and to memory, he added showmanship, that most ambivalent of qualities. He was cynic and social climber, tailoring his plays to applause; but he was also preacher against the evils of his day. He knew how to play on patriotism; but he also knew the virtues of the froth of fun. If he was an idealist, he was also a businessman with a cold eye for a guinea.

If all this proves anything, it is that you cannot explain Shakespeare. All you can do is accept him, bathe in the wonder of him — and thank providence that 400 years ago he was born into the English language.

Foreign investors benefit

According to a statement by George Hees, former Canadian trade and commerce minister and presently president of the Montreal Stock Exchange, Canadians are seeing opportunities to make some real money because they seem reluctant to invest money in development projects of their own country. Mr. Hees noted that Canadians have about eight and a half billion dollars lying in savings accounts, and that this amount increases by almost one hundred million a year.

Large capital sums for industrial development are needed by a young and growing country like Canada, according to Mr. Hees, and from such investments large financial gains can be made. While so much Canadian capital is stored in savings accounts, foreign investors are moving in and taking out a "polful."

While Canada is still one of the cheaper nations in the world, and while other nations may have far more wealth, it would appear that a good number of Canadians are missing the boat. Let us hope that these Canadians who are not willing to invest in Canadian projects are not the same people who complain about there being too much foreign capital in Canadian-based companies and industries.

For better, for worse

Like it or not, Canada is almost certain to have a new flag tomorrow night, so new that many Canadians probably haven't seen it yet. Prime Minister Pearson will bring up his new flag, three red maple leafs joined on a white field, flanked by two bars of blue, in the House of Commons, and has already intimated his intentions of forcing the matter through. We think Mr. Pearson has been most unfair in his whole approach to this matter, singling out his cabinet ministers one at a time, before taking the matter to caucus, and further, in telling the House that while there will be a free vote on the matter, that is, one not regulated by party groupings, he will nevertheless consider the outcome a vote of confidence.

THIS IS NOT A FIT MATTER ON WHICH TO GO TO THE COUNTRY FOR ELECTION.

Mr. Pearson should know this, and he should know, too, the point would be so cluttered up with other issues that no decision would be reached.

There can be only one possible reason for the unseemingly haste and unnecessary urgency attached to this matter, and that would be the matter of saving Quebec. Whether this is justified in the eyes of the rest of the country is doubtful. However, we can see no other reasonable justification, unless it is personal and we should not have thought so ill of Mr. Pearson.

Why must there be such haste in so many important decisions? Only a month ago cabinet ministers and reporters were calling on Mr. Pearson to implement his election promise, and almost out of the blue comes this proposal. The same incredible haste was demonstrated in the centennial pension plan.

We cannot agree with the Canadian Legion's request for a plebiscite; this could easily show Quebec against all the rest of the country, and then no decision would be politically acceptable.

While the Legion convention at Winnipeg roundly heckled Mr. Pearson a good deal during his recent speech, it warmly applauded his quotation of Eisenhower: "If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen!" Mr. Pearson has more than once demonstrated his ability to stand the heat, and this time he's generating considerable of it. When the smoke has cleared away maybe we'll see more clearly whether Canada has a new national flag or merely Pearson's Pennant.

Splstead news

(Mrs. G. Fairbrother)

The Splstead Ladies' Curling Club regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Bridges on May 6th. It was decided to have a dinner party and social night at the hall. The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Louise Winder's in June. A very delicious lunch was served by Mary.

Congratulations go out from the district to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray on the birth of a son.

Recent visitors at the Lloyd Fairbrother home were Mr. and Mrs. Verdi Fairbrother, and family of Edmonton.

Mrs. Louise Winder is moving to her new home in Camrose and family to Swan Hills and Wednesday.

Recent visitors at the Ernest Bryant home were Mr. and Mrs. Jeanne Seymour and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Brunner.

Highways certainly have been improved in Western Canada in the past 10 years.

I believe it has been about that long since I last travelled across B.C. and through the Provinces. I was most favorably impressed with the improvements in southern British Columbia. Where even a couple of three years ago washouts and boulders were having Canada shortly after entering British Columbia in order to avoid forty-nine across hikes and the twisting, rough, dusty gravelled roads over the Cascades west of Hope.

Travel on the Trans-Canada Highway, as is an excellent road, with the possible exception of a small section of the stretch from the Alberta - Sask. border to somewhere in Winnipeg. The road is quite rough in places. I posted this report on Monday and I think he was quick to copy that Manitoba was the first of the Western Provinces to have a paved highway from an eastern point to the boundaries. Well, this may be, and I would guess that parts of that original road are still in use to form stretches of the Trans-Canada Highway!

I was impressed, too, finding that Alberta is the only province in the west that insisted exclusively black-top shoulders on the Trans-Canada. In the other three provinces there are patches with paved shoulders, but for the most part they are gravelled.

And what a thrill it was to get as far further across Canada than I ever did in the past — and equal to Alberta's Number 2 Highway.

Ewaskiw - Chrystian vows at Holden

Holy Ghost Greek Catholic Church, Holden, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Thursday, April 2nd., when Sylvia Chrystian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Chrystian of Ryley, became the bride of Wilbert Ewaskiw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Ewaskiw of Daysland. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father B. Lozynsky.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace, fashioned with peurls. Her veil was a fingertip length of lace, and she carried a bouquet of pretty sweet heart roses.

The bridesmaids were Ch.-Ire Chrystian, sister of the bride, and Evelyn Ewaskiw, sister of the groom.

Attending the groom were Emil Makarenko, friend of the groom, and Noel Chrystian, brother of the bride.

A reception for 50 relatives and friends was held at the bride's home. Paul Makarenko proposed the toast to the bride, in which the groom ably responded.

The happy couple will make their home on the groom's farm near Daysland.

MacDuff Ottawa report . . . False security

OTTAWA—The Canadian economy has ensured itself on the long-term upswing in the postwar period. Year by year since 1946 Canada's economy has expanded that in the United States.

The level of unemployment in Canada, which at the end of the present decade the turn of the Indian in the Indian was the steadily rising trend, has fallen substantially below that point of the present decade. For the balance of the present decade, the outlook is for continued growth of the economy.

Bright as the picture looks now, there is a cloud on the horizon no bigger than a man's hand that could spell trouble in the years to come.

Strange as it may seem at first glance there are some economists in the nation's capital who are concerned because while in the United States the increase amounted to only 1.4 per cent. The level of employment in Canada was up by an amazing 3.2 per cent in March over 1963, but in the United States the increase was only two per cent.

HOW CAN THIS BE?

What it may generally is that Canada is falling behind in the competitive race, even though the fact is still obscured by the temporary advantages which it has gained from devaluation of the Canadian dollar in 1962.

Late in 1960, the number of Canadians without jobs rose to a postwar peak of 7.9 per cent of the total labor force when it stood around a billion of seasonal layoffs. About the same time the level south of the border stood at 6.3 per cent.

In the intervening months, the seasonally adjusted figure on unemployment in relation to the labor force has fallen to 4.6 per cent in this country, while across the line it has never gone below 5.4 per cent.

This very substantial improvement in the Canadian labor picture has taken place despite the fact that the number of people entering the labor market in search of jobs in Canada has been very much higher than in the United States.

Last March, for example, the number of Canadians in the labor force rose by 3.2 per cent on the level of a year ago while in the United States the increase amounted to only 1.4 per cent. The level of employment in Canada was up by an amazing 3.2 per cent in March over 1963, but in the United States the increase was only two per cent.

SO WHY WORRY?

So what is all the concern about? A few more figures are necessary to tell the story.

Between 1961 and 1962, employment in manufacturing industries in the United States, 4 per cent in Canada. The value of goods produced by these industries rose by 8.3 per cent in the United States, only 7.8 per cent in Canada. On the basis of output per worker, production rose by 4.3 per cent in the United States, compared to 3.5 per cent here.

In 1963, employment in Canada was very much faster in Canada than in the U.S. 3.1% against 1.7%, but output increased by 5.8% and 5.1% respectively.

But the critical fact is that in terms of the growth in manufacturing production per employee, the United States has a rise of 4.1%, against only 2.8% in Canada. In other words, the increase in the amount of goods turned out by each worker in the United States was more than one-third greater.

MATTER OF STABILITY

While the situation is still far from clear, what these figures may indicate is that the United States has been achieving a substantially higher rate of output per worker because it has gone considerably further in introducing automation.

Canadian industries have taken on more men in order to meet the rising demand for their goods at home and abroad.

If Canada's economy is booming and more men are being employed than in the United States why does it maybe be a sad, shouldn't Canadians count their blessings?

The fear of some economists is that Canadians are being lulled into a feeling of false security. The reality may be that they are falling behind in the worldwide race to increase efficiency of production and pull down costs.

If Canada is falling behind why is that its economy is still booming, the sales of goods from its factories and farms still rising rapidly at home and abroad?

The answer may be in the fact that Canadian producers are still enjoying the advantages that were produced by devaluation of the dollar to 92½ cents in terms of U.S. currency nearly two years ago. This is an advantage, however that can be consumed by increasing efficiency of production in the United States and other countries.

TAPERING ADVANTAGE

The day could come when the advantage of devaluation has been completely nullified by higher prices in Canada and abroad. It may be when that day comes, the demand for Canadian goods will taper off, the wheels of industry will slow down and unemployment will again increase.

Only four years ago, when the Canadian economy was still in the midst of an economic slump dating back to mid-1957, there was widespread concern voiced by many influential figures about the state of Canadian manufacturing industry.

There was a growing realization that Canadian companies in many fields were hampered by being too small because the limited size of the Canadian market and the excessive number of firms within many industries made it impossible to obtain the advantages of large scale production based on the United States.

ONLY A SHOT IN THE ARM?

Many authorities warned that steps must be taken to encourage Canadian companies to specialize so that they could obtain longer runs and greater efficiency.

With the revival of the economy over the past few years however, most of the voices that were calling for a drastic reorganization of Canadian industry have been stilled.

But the fundamental weaknesses that alone seem to exist in the economy in 1963 and 1964 may still be present today, hidden for the time being by the stimulating effect of devaluation.

By the time the pep pill has worn off it may become evident that the much lauded solution of automation in the United States has further widened the margin of advantage that results from large-scale production.

CHILDREN'S EDUCATION GUARANTEED BY SAVING GOVERNMENT ALLOWANCES

Family Allowance Cheques Can "Roost" for Future Use at the Bank of Montreal

While your Family Allowance Cheques are intended, first and foremost, to help you pay for your youngsters' day-to-day expenses, they can also be used to give them a good start in agricultural or other college courses, later in life.

If you deposit every Family Allowance cheque for one child in a B of M savings account, there will be over $1,600, including interest, in it by the time the age of 16 is reached, points out Harry Sutherland, Bank of Montreal manager, and, through the years, this net-egg will always be immediately available, should emergency or opportunity arise.

By this means, you can do much to make sure that your youngsters will have every chance to earn a good living when they start on their own career or when your farm is passed on to them. If you can't manage it on any like a basis cheque, try to bank at least a part of it regularly. You'll find the practice will pay off in the future.

So, next time you receive your Family Allowance cheque, why not drop into the B of M and open a savings account in your youngster's name. When you do that, you'll be building a nest-egg that means much to her future and that gives any parent a wonderful feeling!

Solve a Crime

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You stop down by the body of Tim Sanders, operator of the anti - drink concession at the county fairgrounds. A big, ugly, blood-encrusted wound over his left temple is mute testimony of the cause of his death and the light from your flash fails to pick up any weapon in the area around the body.

Finally you straighten up and direct a kick at the two men standing nearby. One of them is Fred Moore, general manager of the fair but has been taking place all week on these grounds, and the other is Joe Johnson, one of the itinerant workers employed by the fair. Johnson is the man who discovered the body, and you ask him for his story.

"The last of the people had left the grounds by midnight", begins Johnson. "My work was finished, and I was walking around getting a bottle of ale before turning in. I happened to walk near Tim Sanders' stand and it was all in darkness. I saw a body on the ground. I didn't think ... to go out and see what was the matter, but when I stepped around I saw it was Tim and I almost fell over with surprise ... but then when I managed to get my senses together I ran over to Mr. Moore's office and told him what happened".

"Poor old Tim", Fred Moore shakes his head mournfully, "I had been talking with him only about an hour or so before this happened. Little did I know then that it was to be our last little chat together. I've just finished packed his cash drawer ... he money is all gone ... more than $300. I know this, because Tim had mentioned to me that he had a good night's business and that his last client showed close to $300 in the till".

"Someone else must have been keeping pretty good check on the day's receipts, too", you remark.

Moore nods his head in agreement. "That certain 'someone' might even have been hiding nearby while Tim and I were talking, too. Tim always did talk in a sort of booming voice, and it wouldn't have been difficult for the thief to overhear his report of his receipts". Moore pauses to light the stub of cigar he has retrieved between his teeth, then mournfully resumes: "What a shock it was when Johnson here came busting into my office with the news that Tim had been slugged over the head with one of his own empty soft drink bottles! A real brutal crime!"

"How long have you been working with this fair?" you question Joe Johnson.

"Oh, just for the past week", replies Johnson as he rubs a hand over the shaky growth of beard on his chin. "I work for lots of fairs and carnivals ... do lots of travelling, all over the country".

"And you're going to do some more travelling right now", you say. "You're going to travel with me to the headquarters to some more questioning about this murder".

Why do you suspect Joe Johnson of the crime?

ANSWER

Although you have wanted to find any murder weapon, Joe has removed his guilt when, according to Fred Moore's story,

Modern Etiquette ...

Q. Just what does "bowing" mean for a woman?

A. Not the deep, formal bow of yesteryear. It is a pleasant nod and smile, accompanied by a slight bend forward from the waist. Bowing is a friendly gesture, not a stiff one. You would use it in greeting friends across a room, and some naturally graceful women combine it pleasantly with shaking hands.

Q. Is the double-ring type of wedding ceremony considered the most proper these days?

A. There is no question of propriety here. Whether or not the man wears a wedding ring is entirely a matter of personal taste, not of etiquette or custom.

Q. When two married couples attend a dinner dance together, is each of the business couples supposed to dance the first dance with the wife of the other man?

A. No; each man's first dance is with his own wife.

Q. What is proper when eating a chicken leg? May one, after cutting off most of the meat, pick up the bone in the fingers in order to chew off the rest of the meat?

A. At most tables, manage the best you can with your knife and fork. Picking up the bones in the fingers is condoned at picnics, and in some restaurants where such practice is encouraged as a feature of the house.

Q. When writing a personal letter, is the date correctly put at the end of the message or at the top right of the page?

A. If a long letter, the date is usual ly placed in the upper right corner of the first page. If none, the date is inserted at the end.

Q. Would it be all right for me to have both a maid of honor and a matron of honor at my wedding?

A. Yes, if your wedding is to be a very large and formal one.

Q. When using a lace tablecloth, do you lay it directly over the table or on a table pad—and also, is a lace tablecloth ever used on a colored linen?

A. You use a lace tablecloth directly over the bare table.

And, as the lace design is decorative enough in itself, it is in better taste not to put it over a colored lining.

Q. When the wedding ceremony is over at the church, should the members of the immediate families be permitted to leave the church first, before the other guests?

A. Yes, this is the usual procedure.

Q. When attending a large dinner, should a guest wait until all the other guests have been served before he begins to eat?

A. No.

Q. How late at night is it proper for a young man to phone a girl at her home?

A. This depends upon the custom of the girl's family, and their usual hour for retiring. I should think that ten o'clock would be the latest.

CGIT banquet honors mothers

The CGIT girls met for the last time this season on Wednesday, May 13th for their annual mother and daughter banquet.

A delicious hot turkey supper was served by the UCW, followed by a sing-song led by Rosemary Hallett and Wendy Arnett.

Small gifts of appreciation were presented to the leaders, Mrs. Arnt. Mrs. Patterson and Miss Cumming. Mrs. Pervey, who has acted as guide for the past year, was also presented with a gift.

The entertainment committee provided a number of skits and pantomimes.

Later, all retired to the main church where Miss Mayhew, the guest speaker, showed slides of the journey she made to the Holy Lands.

The CGIT girls then presented six seniors with bouquets in the lunyard ceremony.

As the evening came to a close, the girls turned weward and sang "Taps", for the last time this year.

Master locksmith speaks at Lions' Club meeting

Bob Lang of Edmonton, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Tofield Lions, held on Tuesday evening, May 26th.

Mr. Lang, a master locksmith and co-owner of Joel's Locksmithing, Edmonton, gave a very interesting and informative address on locks and safes, with tips on safeguarding valuables in business and the home. He also related a few of the amusing incidences that have happened to the troublehunters workin out of their shop.

Mr. Lang brought along a display of different locks and handcuffs, which he collects as a hobby. Two of the Lions had the honor of wearing a pair of cuffs each for the balance of the evening, thanks to their locksmith friend.

At the conclusion of Mr. Lang's talk, Lion president Bob Salcichuk thanked him for a very entertaining lecture on a unique and fascinating subject.

Two members of the Jasper Place Lions Club were in attendance at the same meeting and after their departure, it was discovered that they had "borrowed" the Tofield gong and gavel. Plans are being laid for a reprisal raid in the near future

History of S. Cooking Lake, Ministik

(By Mrs. Irene Williams)

SOUTH COOKING LAKE

Cooking Lake, as a stopping place goes back to the days of the fur trade, the overland stage from Edmonton to Battleford in the 1880's. Around the turn of the century, the first settlers began coming in this district and the old trail running from Cooking Lake to Edmonton was known as the settlers came from far and near on foot and on wagons to get to and fro. If there was any mail, it was brought to Cooking Lake by the settlers across the lake to their first other. Instance ... Tom Grammer ... He has been known to start to Edmonton on foot across ... stop at five p.m. and be back by daylight with the ton of shells he went for. He was also an excellent violinist and all of his family, three sons and two daughters, inherited his gift. A jack of all trades, he was also the carpenter when the Anglican Church was built in 1908, and built a fireplace of ... for Sheriff Robertson.

From 1903 to 1906 Cooking Lake district filled up rapidly. One of the earlier settlers was Ed Edwards, 1901, who hauled freight from Edmonton to Cooking Lake and later with a team of oxen broke the first land on many homesteads.

Mr. Keen, who had a greenhouse on the north shore, sold bedding plants in Edmonton, hauled in via team and demonstrated with a Cooking Lake trail. Eddie Keen, whose home is familiar to readers of the Edmonton Journal, is a grandson.

Mr. Walton's four daughters and their sons made their home a popular one. It was a gathering place for the young people and 20 guests was a conservative number for Sunday supper.

Billy Murphy's homestead is

"Rudderless" car menace

Except for the failure of a car's brakes indoor of the steering mechanism probably is the most horrifying experience a motorist can have," declared W. Arch Boyce executive director of the Canadian Highway Safety Council and member of the Council's vehicle safety committee. The driver who finds himself unable to steer his car experiences a type of hysteria probably equalled only by the drivers of cars in his vicinity. Unless he locates and repairs the steering fault before it creates a deadly situation, lack of control coupled with the resulting confusion and panic, will almost certainly produce a serious crash.

We'd be inclined to agree with Mr. Bryce if only he'd take out that first bit about brakes. Probably most drivers have at one time or another driven with brakes not fit to use, but consider the panic that must be produced when the steering wheel suddenly goes limp in your hands. We know of experienced drivers who have faced and conquered the sudden break in the brake line, using the engine for control or even steering for the ditch. As long as the driver can control the direction of his car, he has at least some chance of averting an accident

But without steering . . . ashen-faced consternation. Every driver should co-operate with the Council's spring car-check campaign. One driver of a mechanically faulty car is a menace to every other driver on the road.

Chance for Mr. Hees?

It probably isn't within the framework of the Bank Act, but George Hees, who was trying to divert some of the massive savings in Canadian banks into equity stocks in Canadian companies, might look longingly on the more than $600,000 lying unclaimed in Canadian banks for more than ten years. Under the Bank Act, if these amounts are not claimed by the end of this year, they will revert to the Bank of Canada . . . though this institution will still meet claims which can be proven.

The list of accounts is nearly twenty thousand in number, and the amount of money unclaimed reaches $600,000 plus, so that the average amount would be roughly thirty dollars. Many, of course, are much smaller than this, yet one listing at least in the Canada Gazette rises above the three thousand dollar mark.

More than 350 pages of records are needed to list the claims, and some very interesting items seem to appear from them. By far the greatest number of "lost" depositors seems to rest with the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, with the Royal standing well down in second place. And interestingly enough, only in the latter two banks is there any substantial number of lost depositors from the prairies

However, in every bank, the outstanding majority of the inactive accounts lie in Quebec and Ontario. Does this indicate, possibly, that the richer Eastern provinces are more careless with their money? Does it indicate that prairie people, not having enough money to ever forget their account, rarely move if they can't take it with them?

Whatever else it says, we were intrigued that in all those thousands of names, we could find less than a dozen from the Camrose area. (They're listed in this week's or next week's Canadian.) This probably says very clearly that not only are our people around here canny, but our bankers are assiduous in keeping in touch with their customers in rural areas such as this.

Cooking Lake history . . .

Will Bulyea's homestead was west of the present Lakeview in 1907. Burt and Fred Wilcox's home and their mother were two-mile hotels at Clyo area and they arrived in 1904.

The country south of Cooking Lake was rolling and heavily timbered. Mr Chadwick had a saw-mill where the village now stands. Settlers hauled their own logs to the mill where they were sawn into rough lumber at $4.00 per 1 000 ft. B M. Berrecloth - Stannard marriage vows pledged

Salisbury United Church was the scene recently of a June wedding ceremony united in marriage Miss Gloria Jean Stannard, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stannard of Salisbury, to Mr. Brian Keith Berrecloth, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berrecloth of Tofield.

Bouquets of mauve chrysanthemums and white gladiola were placed on either side of the altar and white satin ribbons and daffodils marked the pews. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Richer.

Miss Ruth Lynn, soloist, sang the Wedding Prayer during the signing of the register, and the wedding march was played by Lois Jamieson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown which featured a bruhce of white nylon lace trimmed with seed pearls and irridescent sequins. It was styled with a sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented by lace panels at front, back and sides and rows of matching lace were appliqued to the front. Her shoulder length veil was held in place with a tiara of crystal beads and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

Bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Mcelroy and Miss Sharon McClarvey chose identical street-length dresses of daffodil nylon with fitted basque bodice moulded neckline, bracelet length sleeves and flared skirts. Their headdresses were a large yellow organza rose with a short veil and they carried bouquets of yellow and white carnations.

The bestmen were Bruce Berrecloth, brother of the groom, and Lorne Sunnell, Osborn Green. Ushers were Dennis Stannard, brother of the bride, and Ronald Berrecloth, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stannard chose a three-piece linen suit of mocha brown and beige, yellow hat and gloves and wore a yellow carnation on courage.

Mrs. Berrecloth, mother of the groom, chose a navy crepe dress with matching jacket, complemented with pink hat and gloves and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 80 guests was held at the Highway Motor Motel. A three-tiered wedding cake, flowers and candles completed the bride's table.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Norman Gorrie, cousin of the bride and Miss Lorna Stannard, sister of the groom, presided over the gifts. The bride changed into a three-piece turquoise linen suit with white accessories.

Archdeacon marks 50th anniversary of ordination

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robinson attended the 50th anniversary of the ordination of Archdeacon C. F. A. Church at their home in Edmonton, May 30th.

Archdeacon Church, the Chaplain of the Charles Camsell Hospital, came to Canada from Lancaster, England in 1911. He studied at Wycliffe College, Toronto and was ordained deacon in the Anglican Church in 1914.

On his arrival in Edmonton in 1921 he became the rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church in Bonnie Doon, and later was rector of St. Faith's parish for 17 years.

The archdeacon was appointed hospital chaplain of the Charles Camsell Hospital when it opened in 1946.

Bardo Rec. Centre to be officially opened soon

The official opening of the Bardo Recreational Centre, with MLA A. W. Gridley cutting the ribbon, is at with representatives from the County of Beaver and the Town of Tofield present is to be held the afternoon of June 12th during the annual Bardo Sports Day.

Bardo, a town known for its progressive community. The Bardo Recreational Association was organized in 1962. In town was established a score of enjoyable years.

The Bardo Recreational Association was formed. It was known as the Bardo Athletic Association, which was formed to sponsor all sport in the community. Then after the County of Beaver closed the Andrew School in 1960, giving the school building and the school grounds to the athletic association the group reorganized under the name of Bardo Recreation Association. With the sale of the schoolhouse and barn an additional 3 acres of adjoining land was purchased This was levelled to provide for the baseball diamond.

There will be a race for everyone, young and old at the June 12th sports day. Included will be baseball games including Pony Leaguers and oldtimers, races for the children, and of course, refreshments on the grounds.

Tofield FUA picnic on Farmer's Day

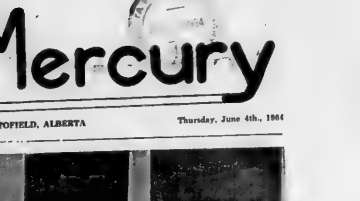
Friday, June 12th is the big day for the Jamboree Ladies and they will hold their annual picnic at Ministik Lake.

A pot luck lunch will be eaten at 1 p.m. sharp, when coffee will be supplied.

Horseshoes, tug-o-war and races for the young and not so young will be feature the sports program. All farmers and their families are welcome.

The big dance will be held that evening at the Tofield Community Hall with Bobby Hunter's orchestra supplying the latest music.

The Picnic has fought hard for a number of years for permission of this holiday. Why not use it?



ON 4-INCH BEAM

Will she make it or won't she, was probably the question in this scene as the entire act was done on a four-inch beam, which proved excellent balance was necessary to get into this outstretched position without the help of hands which were kept in the air above her head. As this was one of the most difficult acts, it took the beautiful girl some time to manouver into position and she showed a great deal of skill doing it.

History of S. Cooking Lake, Ministik

This is the second of a two-part article on the history of the South Cooking Lake and Ministik districts; as written by Mrs. Irene Harris Dunn.

MINISTIK LAKE DISTRICT

Further east on the north shore of Cooking Lake lies the Ministik Lake district. In 1908 it was now quite a thriving region, as Water Road, Tofield, Three Hills trail. Many homesteads were taken up and settled. There was a large number of The Drug Mr. Hall office of Frith and Mr. Hall office of the Lake. Some of the early years This farm was purchased from early CNR train at North Cooking Lake and conveyed them to White Sands on the south shore.

The first pioneers at Ministik was Dan Anderson and later his partner directly opposite the "present Ministik school. They were a quaint old couple also a one-room log cabin that is understand. The mail was brought out to Cooking Lake by horses and buggy and the bag for Ministik was then taken to their settlement by boat-office in summer and horse back would often bog down on the way.

Ministik School was built in 1909 and was a debentured taken out for $80. The lumber was bought from W. C. Swift of Tofield and hauled to the school site by Andrew and Archie Ferguson. Bob Muir secretary. Peter Mackerral and David Buck were members of the first school board. The first teacher was a Mr. Cuchaley who boarded at the Robert George home, who were the first owners in 1908 of the homestead where the present school and Ministik Community Hall are now located. Church services were also held at this home. The first written record of the old school is in 1910, when fourteen pupils were enrolled from May until December inclusive Teacher was Mrs. Irene Verge. The old school, still in good repair, is owned and used by the United Church for weekly services. The original desk and the

Hog marketing

Interest in the proposed hog marketing board for Alberta, similar to that now in operation in Ontario, should be relatively high in this area, since most of Alberta's swine are raised within a radius of some fifty miles of Camrose.

Last Wednesday a committee made up of members from the Alberta Federation of Agriculture and the Farmers' Union of Alberta, whose job it is to make a study of marketing boards and fashion one to fit Alberta, met with Alberta government representatives. Some snag apparently has arisen in connection with the Marketing Agricultural Products Act, for it was announced following the meeting that "it was mutually agreed the hog marketing plan plebiscite would be deferred." The FUA was quick to add, in a press release, that this "does not mean that the marketing board idea has been dropped." It means, in all likelihood, however, that there could be considerable delay in implementing the new plan.

We are not in a position to say how necessary a hog marketing board is and as a matter of fact, many of our agricultural friends are not convinced it is needed. But apparently the FUA leaders consider it a must, for in a press release from head office in Edmonton they refer to the proposed board as "the kind of central marketing agency which the Alberta hog industry so desperately needs."

Is the need now "desperate?"

Two companies from one

The president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, N. R. Crump, informed the company's annual meeting recently that consideration is being given to the transfer of all the company's non-rail assets to a wholly-owned subsidiary which came into being a couple of years ago, known as Canadian Pacific Investments.

This would mean that the CPR would then be a company with only a railroad to worry about — and it could result in considerable worry for the people of this country. While the new company could conceivably become a very attractive investment for shareholders, the CPR will cease to serve the people of Canada as was originally intended. When canals and land grants were made in 1881, they were considered an important part of the railway structure, and still are. These grants were given by the people of Canada to the CPR for the building of a transcontinental rail line, using an all-Canadian route.

If the change is made the railway company will become a less attractive investment as the outlook for the new firm improves. This could result in strains on the internal structure of the rail company, since it might not be able to attract the capital it apparently needs for expansion and improvement. In turn, the result will be more requests for rate increases and subsidies. There will be new emphasis on the demands for elimination of the Crows Nest Pass rates for shipping farm products east. For the better part of a century these rates have been known as the farmer's bill of rights. And this is why we say the change could mean considerably more worry for the people of Canada.

Towards disunity?

The only valid reason for talk of a new flag for Canada has to be that it will produce a more unified spirit across the country. On this score, Mr. Pearson's new maple leaf flag seems to miss the mark by at least as much as, and probably more than, the present red ensign. If accounts of the recent demonstrations on Capital Hill can be believed, the leaves were supported by an almost entirely youthful group, while supporters of the ensign cut across all age groups. Admittedly, the leaves had far more supporters, but youth is well known for its enthusiastic if somewhat immature thinking as regards parades and demonstrations.

We have been interested in the remarkable support for the ensign in British Columbia, where the red flag is being flown as though people wanted to use them all up before they go out of style. Only once, here in Camrose, have we actually talked to a supporter of change.

Mr. Pearson's answer to Quebec that he would not split up the two questions of a new flag for Canada and continuance of the ensign as an official flag for royal purposes will be lauded as the stand of a man who has gone as far as he can go to co-operate and compromise, and it may stand the insistent demand from Quebec to eliminate the "royalist flag."

But if it doesn't, if Quebec won't yield here, and if Mr Pearson can't reach a more tightly knit nation, then let's not lose what unity we already had in support for the old red ensign by bringing in something new that can't even do as much for us. Let's put the whole matter back on the shelf for maybe another hundred years

Cleaner skies

Anyone who has driven Alberta's highways recently cannot but have noticed the clouds of foul smoke being belched out by heavy diesel transports or road machinery and the same clouds are obvious from railway locomotives as they build up power for heavy loads. Before our plight grows anything like that faced by California and other smog troubled areas, maybe the Department of Highways could institute regulations regarding exhausts and after burners, or some other method of clearing up the foul gases in these exhausts. After all, any vehicle being sold in California next year will require this installation by law. If the equipment is available, maybe Alberta should follow suit and keep our clean skies clean

Although it is now easier to summer than spring, I'm sure many a young man's fancy is still turning to thoughts of whatever young maid's fancy turns to thoughts of in the spring.

And if so no doubt many a young man is looking for a suitable life-long companion, more than a few of them in a new and since almost every young person in this country has likes feel cooked in a way reminiscent of the way Mom used to do it. I have a good prospect in mind for many of the young fellow No. 1 — I'm not referring to that extra-close of mine who is presently making the home fires burn — although he may be a good cook, too, but I've never worked up the courage to sample any of it. The girl I have in mind is Pauline McCardle of Middleton, Prince Edward Island.

What? You've never heard of her? Well, neither had I, quite honestly, until she was announced as the 1964 Young Canadian Homemaker Queen. She competed in the second annual "Mother's Day" contest put on by a flour company earlier this month.

I suppose now other girls will be competing for the title, as well, and in case Miss McCardle is already committed or in case you shouldn't consider her long range value (it might I recommend Miss Jean Nielsen of Newmarket, Ontario? She's 16.

I would like to give you the name of the Alberta contestant, since there is no doubt that she, too, will be an expert cook, and much closer to home, but unfortunately all contestants were not named in the press release I received. But I might add, that I'm just as interested as all you can devise ways and means of finding out who she is.

Well here it is supper time Guess I'd better get home and open another can of beans. My wife is busy in the garden these days.

C. J. Kallall celebrates his 80th birthday

C. J. Kallal, long time resident of the Tofield district and well-known Canadian livestock breeder, celebrated his 80th birthday this week.

Settling in the Tofield district in 1911, Mr. Kallal started farming here in 1917. In the ensuing years, he built up a herd of high quality, registered Hereford cattle, known throughout Canada.

Mr. Kallal has been in the cattle business all his life. Starting in Illinois, he grew up in the business as his father and brothers were engaged in cattle feeding and supplied large numbers of cattle to the Chicago market.

After marrying Mrs. Kallal, also from Illinois, in 1915, Mr. Kallal went into partnership with his brother, and started farming in the Tofield district in 1917.

The partnership was dissolved in 1927 and the C. J. Kallal family moved to their present farmstead five and one-half miles southeast of Tofield.

Starting in the commercial cattle business, the Kallals were well-known during the '30's for the number and quality of fed cattle they supplied for the market

300 - 500 CATTLE

A son, Joe, now working with the Alberta department of agriculture, says the family used to feed between 300 and 500 head of cattle each year. He also remembers, when, in the early thirties, the family supplied choice fat steers overseas for two and one-half cents per pound.

About 1940, the Kallal family started a change in their operations and production of commercial cattle to the purebreds.

Today, all of the cattle on the 2,240 acre farm are purebred Herefords

In the purbred business as in the commercial cattle business, the Kallal family record is outstanding.

They started showing cattle at the Fayal in 1930 and since then have won their share of top awards and brought much distinction to Alberta as breeders.

Over many years, the Kallals have been showing their yearling bulls at various fall fairs in Alberta and sales and have been brought home their share of the awards and prizes.

ANNUAL SALE WON THIS YEAR AT THE EDMONTON

Last spring since, the Edmonton spring since, Kallal animals have been the mainstay of the Edmonton Exhibition's annual grand champion bull award and the grand champion purebred herd sale heifer award.

This year Mr. Kallal sold a registered breeding stock to feed, almost all of the farm land is taken up with hay and pasture. However, about 300 acres of barley is seeded to oats for feed. The operation of this family's farming enterprise was recognized in 1950 by the provincial government.

That year, the Kallals were awarded one of the province's Master Farm Family Awards, given only to outstanding farm families.

With Joe and Mrs. Kallal's daughters, Mrs. Ruth Hall and Mrs. Ida Lee working with their parents, most of the children have now left the farm and are in business for themselves in other areas.

Lawrence, the youngest, and Kenneth are still on the home farm and a few years ago took over its operation.

Of the others, Joe is livestock fieldman for the provincial livestock branch; Charles is in the lumber and building business in Tofield; Paul is operating his own farm west of Tofield; Anthony operates a business in Edmonton; Constance is married and living in Vancouver, British Columbia; Mrs. Hall is married and living in Rossland, and Dorothy is married and living on a farm in Tofield.

Of the sons, only Lawrence and Kenneth are not married. Mrs. Kallal died in 1955.

Mr. Kallal retired from active participation in the farm a few years ago when his 1,040 acre Hereford Ranch was incorporated and Lawrence took over.

Always keenly interested in the cattle shows, Mr Kallal has been unable to attend this year much since he suffered a mild stroke some two years ago. However, he still keeps up on the cattle industry by reading and by radio.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kallal are still in relatively good health and are looking forward to celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary April 19th next year.

They changed a river

(Editor's Note On Saturday, Mrs. Ken Partridge of The Mercury accompanied a number of other weekly newspaper men on a trip, sponsored by Calgary Power Ltd., to the new Brazeau River development, a project of great significance to all Albertans, but especially so for people of this area. Following is Mr. Partridge's report).

The multimillion dollar storage and power development by Calgary Power Ltd. on the Brazeau River, about 125 miles directly west of Camrose has proven more than one thing. First and foremost it has proven that private enterprise and public ownership can work together. Secondly, it shows what man can do with modern equipment and engineering.

When the project is finally completed and some ripples are ironed and others opened, about 25 miles of winding river bed will be dry. A new lake, 12 miles long and as much as two miles wide will have been created. The Province of Alberta will have some control over pollution problems and Calgary Power Ltd will have one 120 000 kilowatt power unit with facilities to add additional 240,000 kilowatt units.

The Province of Alberta faced a serious pollution problem on the North Saskatchewan River, especially during winter months. Following careful study it was then decided that the solution was to increase the water flow of the river by providing upstream storage. It was estimated that adequate pollution alleviation flows would cost the Province of Alberta in excess of $20 million. Combined with the Calgary Power Ltd. power project the cost will be about $14½ million. Furthermore, on the dual-purpose storage dam now built the Province recovers its total expenditure of $14½ million. Under the present arrangement there is no operating costs to the Province.

According to information supplied the Calgary Power Company thereby by avoids have not only passed on the costs they increased, since the costs they might have incurred in building a generating plant on the Bow River.

The Brazeau dam will hold back the heavy summer flows which can be released during the low flow winter months. The water flows from the Brazeau Reservoir through Edmonton Power's Rocky Rapids plant to Edmonton where the North Saskatchewan river flows through the city.

Dominating the landscape where they did aerial photography was the water flow control structure of about a 400-foot drop intake, 30 feet as pictured. This is the reason given for having the dam and power-house about 14 miles apart.

The power house is located about 5 miles west of the point where the Brazeau and Southesk rivers join before flowing into the North Saskatchewan river. The dam is about 14 miles west of this point. Access is provided to both points from Drayton Valley through Ladyside, a distance of about 40 miles.

Entering the Brazeau River valley from the south, one passes through a 400-foot deep canyon. This is the reason given for having the dam and power-house about 14 miles apart.

Hog marketing plebiscite is deferred

A meeting of a cabinet committee with the joint AFA-FUA hog marketing committee was held last Wednesday in Edmonton.

It was generally agreed that a serious problem exists in the marketing of hogs and that joint studies should be made of the procedures and powers of the Marketing Agricultural Products Act.

It was therefore mutually agreed that the hog marketing plan plebiscite would be deferred.

The Alberta Hog Marketing Committee met again later and passed this statement:

"While the proposed plebiscite has been deferred, this does not mean that the marketing board idea has been dropped.

On the contrary it is the intention of the Hog Marketing Committee that a postponement will be used to give time to study, draft and develop the marketing board plan in the light of previous criticism and possible changes in the Agricultural Products Marketing Act.

"It is hoped that this redraft will be a more workable, and more acceptable basis for hog producers to go ahead with setting up a marketing agency in Alberta which can do the kind of marketing job the industry needs."

Business Arising From Minutes of Agricultural Service Board

It was noted that the Field Supervisor had referred to local telephone companies clearing brush and dumpsite in the roadside ditches also that the ditchers were pushing the soil from the shoulders of the road into the ditch and that the Service Board felt that this should be stopped so that the ditches could be kept in shape enabling farmers to move along the road. The Council was quite sympathetic towards the complaint but could not see any solution to some and from the shoulders of the road being pushed into the ditch. In regards to brush cutting by telephone companies and other utility companies it was felt that they should be requested to clean up the brush and trees from the roadside.

It was moved and carried that the secretary-treasurer write to the Rural Electrification Association, the Rural Telephone Co-operative, and the Utilities Companies requesting that they see that after leaving the cut refrain from the road allowance.

Banquet and social night honors retiring teachers

By Pete Nickel

Three leaders within the County of Beaver No. 9 ... home last Thursday evening filled with memories, they were honored at a banquet and community hall was filled to capacity ... teachers and other ... who celebrated the re- ... tiring of J. D. McDonald, Wm. Shaughnessy and Mrs. Ata- ... ata, all of whom have spent a good number of years in the teaching profession and have found that it is now time to call a halt and take that well earned rest.

Everyone enjoyed the excellent meal after which the chairman, A. T. Pike, as emcee, got the evening under way with musical numbers by the Ryley Quartet. Following this, each of the three teachers was introduced and in turn of congratulations were read from the department of education and the ATA, and letters presented to each. Histories of the men were read by Mrs. H. Rudy, Mrs. Pearl Allchurch and Mrs. Appleby. Mrs. Rudy presented Mrs. McDonald with a corsage from the Women's Association, and Mrs. Appleby, on behalf of the County of Beaver.

Probably the most exciting part of the evening was the gifts from each of the three groups of honor, followed by an excellent musical entertainment by the Holden staff, prepared especially for the evening. The memorable evening closed with presentations to the wives of the retiring teachers, the best.

There were over 100 ladies present and Mary was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts for which she thanked everyone very much, inviting all to visit her when she gets settled. Mrs. Orlo Mann and Mrs. Evelyn Morris were sponsors of the shower and with the assistance of several other ladies, served a very delicious lunch to the guests before they left for home after wishing Mary the very best of everything and much happiness in the future.

4-H clubs boon to Canadian development and advancement

The North American economy and its society is indebted to 4-H Club work. It is amazing, today, to find how many professional men and women, political leaders, and important figures in the financial world who have a 4-H background. The fact that the 4-H movement has concerned itself with the personal development of the member, as well as the project or product, has made it a significant educational medium. Many of today's professional and industrial leaders attribute their accomplishments to their 4-H backgrounds.

Numerous university and college graduates have often started with a heifer or steer when they were ten years or so, and with parental guidance and 4-H leadership have gradually turned this first possession into a cash account that was the foundation for their education. This first step into business is a very important one for any young person ... and when there is a goal in sight, it strengthens family ties and unites the family towards this goal. The young person ... into the Heifer ... will find answers here along the way more is gained than just a head account. The development of good personal traits through showing and competing and meeting the challenges of being a sportsman, is another aspect of 4-H work ... these good traits will serve him well during his university years and after.

You will find that "keeping it local" in the business ... has assured that university bank accounts continues while the young man pursues his commerce career or the young woman studies to be a nurse. Weekends and summer holidays are spent working with the capital that is providing the "dividends" for his or her education.

The educational advantages of 4-H are not limited to youth. No other rural movement has so complete an endorsement and active support from adults as has 4-H. Functioning as a team with the club members are parents, leaders, business firms, farm organizations and governments. The understanding and fellowship resulting from the sponsorship and co-operation among these groups cannot help but better and strengthen the rural community. Progressive ideas gained from association with or actual club lessons are readily adopted on the home farm.

Next time you're talking from the shoulder" — try a bit higher up.

The team whose picture appears above in the Tofield Legionaires whose fame extended over all Alberta in 1954 and 1955 when, for two consecutive years, they won the Provincial Junior Amateur Baseball Championship.

Graham Allan, manager of the team in those momentous years, ... this week recalled the exciting championship games. He said, "The series with Taber in 1954 was the most exciting. We went to Taber to play one game in the 3-out-of-5 series, which we won. We then, after obtaining the consent of Mr. Doherty, the baseball commissioner, played what was to be an exhibition game, which we lost. To our dismay, the authorities then decided that this last game would count as a loss against Tofield. Needless to say, the team, Legionaires manager and fans who had accompanied us to Taber were disappointed.

"The remainder of the series, which then developed according to our viewpoints into a 5-out-of-7 series, was played in Tofield on the Sunday and Monday following Labor Day. We split a double-header on Sunday, so the final had to be played on Monday.

"We had lined up our pitchers, but since we had taken the precaution of convincing Leonard Lawson a high school student, to pitch for us, we took him out of school and, on the strength of his excellent pitching (remember his slow ball?) won the series! Lawson was a local hero.

"After that, the 1955 series, which was played in Lethbridge, was an anti-climax. But we were still proud of our second Alberta championship."

Graham Allan and Doug McKernan are looking forward to celebrating the former members of their championship team on July 1. Those expected to be here are Eddie Williams, Dale Barrow, Dave Tahlwiski, Leo Parkin, Marshall Slewkis, Allan Bjork, Lawrence Williams, Daniel Solberg, Eddie Slewkis, Arnold Bailey, Bob Nahrebeski. No doubt "remember when?" will be the phrase most frequently quietly used.

League plans taking shape for July 1st Sports Day

The Tofield Community League held its regular meeting on June 2nd in the Community Centre, with president John Baergen in the chair. Twenty-six members were present.

A letter from the Town of Tofield asking that the League give consideration to a Centennial project was tabled till a later date.

Dick Osland, on behalf of the Tofield Baseball Association, stated that the League sponsor a baseball tournament. This was agreed to, provided that the tournament was held late in July and that the League was financially able to sponsor it.

Plans for the League's Dominion Day celebration provided the important business of the meeting. Though the Viking band is unable to be present, it was felt that the local band would be able to provide the music necessary for the rest of the parade, and during the day as well.

The children will be glad to know that the candy floss machine will be on the grounds, and that Cal Annis will be supervising a series of foot races.

Bleachers are being secured in order that the jumping events may be viewed in comfort.

The annual barbecue will be sending forth its tantalizing odors at supper time; and cold drinks, salads, pies, coffee and "hot dogs" will be available on the grounds. Of course, ice cream will be in readiness to make the day complete for the small fry.

Permission is to be sought from the Lions Club and the Curling Club for use of their facilities for the day. It is planned to house the school exhibit in the waiting-room of the skating rink, and to provide the Historical Society with facilities for its display in the curling rink. Here, too, the Junior Citizens of Tofield and district will be entertained by the Historical Society.

Preceding the parade, the fir. Civil Defence organization will give a demonstration of rescue work, using the roof of Ed. Smythe's service station as base. This will be under the direction of Roland Booth and Mr. Westmancott of Ryley.

The parade, under the direction of Art Francis, will be reassembled in order to avoid interrupting the ball game, expected to be in progress when the parade reaches the grounds.

The several trophies and ribbons for the winners of the horse shows and the school display will be secured by H. Christensen and H. Watson. J. Lampitt will be responsible for transporting the school display to the grounds.

Jack Lampitt also announces a good program of baseball for the day. Teams participating are Breda, Tofield Jr., Ryley Round Hill Holden and Tofield Juniors of 1954.

Items for the day is as follows:

10:00 a.m.—Breda vs. Tofield

12:00 noon — Ryley vs. Round Hill.

2:00 p.m. Holden vs. Tofield 1954 Junior.

4:30 p.m. Semi-final game.

8:00 p.m. Final game.

The Tofield Juniors (1954) brought home to Tofield in 1954 and 1955 when they, under the management of Graham Allan and the coachings of Doug McKernan and Pete Pedersen, won the Provincial Junior Championship two years in a row. An effort has been made to reunite all members of this team. Come out and welcome them back to Tofield.

Music for the dance at night will be supplied by the "Viking Jivers" orchestra.

The executive of the League is empowered to secure a distinctive sign for the Community Centre.

Hans Christensen reported the Red Cross swimming lessons sponsored by the League, will get underway July 6th, with 89 students.

Don Yoder to host dairy field day

Don Yoder, who lives immediately north of the government pasture cabin on Highway 14 midway between Tofield and Ryley will be the host for a Dairy Field Day on Tuesday, June 16, at 1:30 p.m.

This Field Day, sponsored by the Department of Agriculture in conjunction with the Ryley A.I. Unit, is designed to bring dairymen the latest information in the field of dairying.

The program will include talks on pasture and fly control, artificial insemination, dairy herd improvement and quality milk production.

All farmers are cordially invited to attend.

Water & sewage systems popular in rural homes

This seems to be the year for the installation of farm water and sewage systems The County office reports that the septic tank farms available for rental are being used at a record rate this year; in fact, the backlog of requests is such that they will be in constant use all summer.

These farms, available from the County office in Ryley for a token rental, are designed for easy installation, making the construction of a septic tank a simple operation.

Although the tank can be readily installed by almost anyone who can read simple instructions, experts recruiting the District Agriculturist indicate that some people are experiencing some difficulty with the engineering involved with the sewage systems as a whole.

He stated that under ideal conditions a workable sewage system can be installed using plans available from government sources. However, he warned that very few farmsteads offer ideal conditions, and competent advice should be obtained before installation is undertaken.

He warned that there were a large number of operators of trenching equipment working in the district, some of whom had little or no experience in the installation of sewage and water systems, and in such cases attend.

Difficult choice

Pity the plight of the drinking man who takes his imbibing as a patriotic responsibility. For the past fifteen years or so, he has been able to brighten his outlook with each swallow, content that he was fulfilling three important responsibilities of the good citizen. Paying major taxes to both provincial and federal governments, he was also contributing substantially to employment in Alberta and to dividends for Canadian shareholders in an Alberta distillery.

However, with the sudden acquisition of this plant by American interests, he faces a difficult decision: whether to continue the same brand, maintaining high employment in Alberta, but seeing the profits go across the border, thus increasing our balance of payments difficulties with the United States, or to keep his money at home, by switching to another brand, which of course would reduce the employment level in Alberta. The tax contributions, of course, would be substantially the same in either case. For the patriotic consumer, it's really a difficult choice.

Worrying over things like this is almost enough to drive a man to drink.

Half a loaf

A well known writer in several weekly newspapers, Ambrose Hills recently took issue with the possible proposal of eliminating Time and the Reader's Digest from legislation which may be contemplated to help protect Canadian periodicals from inroads by American firms who manage to save expensive editing costs by publishing "Canadian" editions. Mr. Hills in pseudonym clause there is no logic in excluding these two from the legislation which would restrict other U.S. publishers.

And we agree substantially with what he says. It is not logical either to favor these two against all others, or to do nothing about the situation because it might not be popular.

But let's be realistic. Government is not always the practice of the logical; it is more often the art of the possible. And if it's possible to get restrictive legislation passed which has to bring Time and the Digest under umbrella, then let's at least get something. In the course of things, further restrictive amendments might later cover more of the road.

But let's get started, at least. After all, half a loaf is better than no bread at all.

Kallal-Donnelly vows are exchanged June 4

At St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church on Edmonton was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Thursday, June 4th, when Therese Dannelly, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donnelly of Juniper, and Mr. Lawrence Kallal, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kallal of Tofield exchanged vows in a nuptial high mass. Father O'Neil, brother of St. Michael's, performed the nuptial mass.

White gladioli decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked radiant in her full organza sheath gown with matching bolero jacket and lily-point sleeves. Floor-length train was of nylon lace. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a jewelled crown. She carried a white Bible and her bouquet was overlaid with cascade streamers of pink neptune roses and ivy.

Attending the bride were Miss M. LeClair as bridesmaid and Mrs. M. Gerrien, maid of honor. They were marching in matching gowns of pastel pink and blue over-all length of satin, gowns are sash mini-tiered pillbox toppers and white accessories. They carried bouquets of white baby carnations with ribbons to match the dresses.

Nurse of the bride, Carol Ann Odell, was flower girl and was dressed in yellow with matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses and stephanotis.

The groom was attended by his brother, Anthony Kallal, of Edmonton, and Bert Blackhaw of Tofield.

Usher boys were Bruce and Robert Kallal, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kallal of Edmonton.

The guests were ushered in by Brent James Dannelly, nephew of the bride, and Joseph Kallal and C. Kallal.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dannelly wore a floor-length sheath dress of sapphire knitted suit in gold with crystal accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

The groom's mother wore a grey, two-piece silk dress with beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Saturday were Mrs. Dale Odell and Mrs. Francis Donnelly.

A reception for 100 guests was held on the Old-Timer's Cabin. Rev. Fr. E. McCarty proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. Best man was Lawrence Kallal. Master of ceremonies read a letter of congratulations from His Excellency Archbishop McDonald, and a telegram from friends of the bride.

A dance followed later.

Fire Chiefs expecting 100 at convention next week

Fire chiefs from all over the province are expected to start arriving in Camrose Sunday for the annual convention of the Alberta Provincial Fire Chiefs Association. With Alex Webb as host chief the three-day affair is planned for the Exhibition Building at the Fair Grounds.

Local hotels, motels and other camp have been booked for several weeks, reports Fire Chief Webb. Top registration at the past has been 168, with a low of 36, and there is little way of knowing in advance what to expect this time, however, Mr. Webb is counting on 100 including wives of the delegates.

Several manufacturers will be on hand at the convention to demonstrate fire fighting equipment, and reports for many of the 200 feet of display space on the exhibition building have been requested. Allocation of these areas is also under Mr. Webb.

Historical site opens at St. Thomas Church

(Mrs. D. Hutchinson)

DUHAMEL, June 8th — Well over 500 people attended the Historical Pioneer Society pilgrimage and Corpus Christi procession Sunday afternoon. The parade started at the little St. Thomas Church on the grass across the road to the site of the abandoned village, the home of Lebanaze land, now owned by Thomas Bahry. Taking part in the colorful procession were Boy Scouts from Camrose and Duhamel, Cameron and Lake parishes, the CYO group from Camrose, the Girl Guide Troop of Bay Scouts. After hops a red Hills Bower girls strewed flowers along the path. Two members of the Camrose RCMP detachment, Corp. Gene Smith and Const. Jack Steele escorted old timers, Charles Durand, Sandy Hutchinson, Jim McGovern and Vinny Daley, who carried the canopy covering the Blessed Sacrament.

The procession brought back many memories for senior members of the community where Father Belleveire conducted similar pilgrimages many years, the last being 32 years ago. This was the same site as in the past used, now in a newly developed forest from Father Belleveire's time. Father Belleveire was assisted by Father Lussier and Father Richmond there with hampers brought from the Duhamel parish by Very Rev. Father Schmeltzer.

The combined Catholic Choir and the Camrose County Band were also on hand to help with the ceremony.

Father F. McDonald and Father Stein of Camrose were assisted by Father Dupuyp in the short ceremony and benediction. Father McDonald then introduced the guest speaker, Father Schmeltzer, parish priest of Spring Lake, who told of the early days when Father Belleveire started the Duhamel parish.

Stan Perka, Knights of Columbus Commander, thanked the guest speaker. Herb Rose said a very fitting tribute to the pioneers of this district.

Ben Thomson, on behalf of the Duhamel Historical Society, thanked everyone who had made this memorable day possible.

Following the service at the site, the gathering returned to the church grounds for a picnic supper.

The little church was open for inspection during the day, and hundreds of visitors poured through the quaint little edifice constructed and being impressed with the magnificent marble altar, the altar cloths and rug, and the vestments worn by Father Belleveire, all of which were on display.

Dog in the manger

Bruce F Wilson did Albertans a signal service several days ago when he objected to hasty granting of an export permit for another large block of gas outside the province. Senior officer of both Northwestern Utilities and the Canadian Western Natural Gas of Calgary, Mr. Wilson expressed his belief that present proven gas reserves are not ample to justify the greater export, without endangering both the long-term supply and the price to Albertans.

The emphasis here must be on the word "proven."

Fifteen or so years ago, the Alberta government was insisting on a reserve capable of guaranteeing to Albertans a supply of natural gas for fifty years. Heavily pressured by the gas export and other industries, agreement was reached on reducing this to a rolling thirty year proven reserve, that is, one where new reserves were found each year to further continue the guaranteed supply, as existing supplies were used.

Now, only fifteen years later, the charge is being levelled that exports are increasing far faster than proven reserves. Interests pushing the export permit insist it is not necessary to have proven supplies, that it should be sufficient to accept the "best estimates" of the experts in this field.

But experts have been wrong before, especially in tricky businesses like the search for oil and gas. And just because Texas now has more gas reserves after years of export than it did when export started is no reason why Alberta should pan out the same way. If this were true, it would be logical to suppose that since Leduc and Redwater and Drayton Valley continue to produce large quantities of oil, so should the Joarcam field right around us.

All this money from the export business may look lovely, but we'd look awfully silly if we wound up paying for it by having to buy much higher priced gas right at home. And we'd look even more silly if the line slowly went dry. Half the original thirty year period is already used up, without sufficiently large additions to justify to future reserves. If this new permit were to use the estimated six times Alberta's own annual supply, it would mean we should have an additional 180 years supply to maintain our own safe picture.

If this is acting like a dog in the manger, we're it. We still think the gas should be developed on the basis of Alberta first, Canada second and outside later. And until it is shown there is gas almost to 2,000 A.D., we're right behind Mr. Wilson.

Shaped lights

Traffic safety engineers have come up with a foolproof new device to aid color blind motorists. Because so many people, particularly men, find it impossible to distinguish between red and green, a traffic light with distinctive shapes has been developed.

Travelling from city to city these days, one finds a variety of combinations, so that even if a color blind motorist can see the light which is lit, he cannot know for sure if the arrangement is the same as in his home city, where he is used to the red-over-amber-over-green, for instance. Then, too, there are cities where four or more lights are sometimes employed, including directional signals.

The new signal will include such unmistakable conventions as a rectangle for the red, triangle for the amber and circle for the green making it possible for any driver to know which light is on.

What interests us most is that more than twenty years ago this idea was propounded by a small town weekly editor serving as an officer in the armed forces. Killed during his service, the late Ralph C. Jessup of Fort Macleod suggested this and several other ideas which were advanced for his day.

Not for, but against

One of the most interesting ideas on the flag debate we've seen for some time is that advanced by Sherwood J. Becker Sugden, of Toronto, chairman of a committee striving to save the Red Ensign as Canada's flag. "Canadians know," says Mr. Sugden in one of his concluding paragraphs, "that a parliament, precariously balanced, should not decide this issue. They know that Members are not being asked to vote FOR a flag, but AGAINST an election."

Mr. Sugden's committee is urging that a national plebiscite be held on the matter, taking it out of the arena of partisan politics, which is squarely where the Prime Minister has placed it. Whatever Mr. Pearson may say about this being a plank in the election platform, after all, it was only one plank, and not the entire scaffolding. If the plank is loaded with dry rot, it is likely to do more damage than if the platform had to get along without it.

We don't agree with the idea of a plebiscite, simply because it seems likely that the battle lines will be drawn even more clearly than they now are. And if the flag does nothing to develop national unity, then for goodness sake let's not adopt it at the price of greater disunity.

This is probably the only area where we disagree with Mr. Sugden. We're impressed with his reminder that three-quarters of the U.S. flag is devoted to reminding Americans that they began as thirteen British colonies. The Canadian government, he declares, unable to reconcile its legitimate claims to honour and perpetuity of the graphic symbols of both French and British founders, is ducking the problem by erasing the memory of both.

Moral not hard to find

The Montessino Vidette

Once upon a time there was an ant who worked hard all days in the fields. It was summer and the ant was busy cutting grass and dragging it home.

The ant had a grasshopper as a neighbor. The grasshopper lived on welfare and sat in his doorway singing all day.

When winter came the ant had a whole bale of grass. But the ant had violated the Federal Farm Law for overharvesting grass. He was fined $162.50 and the surplus was seized.

The grasshopper received the surplus in exchange for his food stamps organized recently in the province. Largely this was a reflection of the late evolution of what could be accomplished by a day school, where the children could still be based in their surroundings for preschool. There would be a dozen new schools operating in the province shortly largely traceable to local psych planning.

Chairman of the building committee Lindsay Woolsey related building developments to date, the purchase of a site from the City, which could be released only to an official sponsor; the undertaking of the Public School Board to act in this capacity; and development of drawings for building which are now in the department of education, with plans being added and desired. When these are received back, Mr. Woolsey said, blueprints will be prepared, and a building program launched.

In answer to a letter from the County of Beaver, the secretary-treasurer was asked to reply with the message the Town of Tofield was planning a Centennial program. Old copies of Ryley "Times" yield interesting history

The Tofield Historical Society has been presented with a real "find" by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bone Jr. When moving into a house on land they wished to clear for building, they found several copies (or parts of copies) of the Ryley "Times" printed in 1912. The papers are fragile and brittle with age, but readable and full of interesting items of information.

In the issue dated October 2, 1912, the "town directory" is in a prominent place. According to this directory, Ryley consisted of Wm. Eastman, L. H. Bradshaw and H. B. Hilford; the secretary-treasurer was B. M. Bradshaw. The village board, according to the same authority, was composed of Dr. J. L. McPherson as chairman, with F. P. Klassen and O. Johnson as the remaining trustees. The secretary-treasurer was C. M. Watson. The Ryley town hall staff was composed of E. L. Callaghan and Mrs. E. Dorsey.

Some of the advertisers in this Ryley Times were: P. P. Klassen, hardware merchant; J. L. Hoy, general merchant; B. M. Bendickson, insurance agent; C. E. Nelson, real estate agent; Wm. Eastman, blacksmith; Frank Price, implement dealer; and W. McLaus, manager of the Ryley Steam Laundry.

Other businesses are listed from Dr. J. L. McPherson (Ryley's beloved physician), and W. P. Mussman, dentist, Ryley.

Two lodges had placed reminders of their meetings in the paper. Oddly enough, both lodges, the Knights of Pythias and the Oddfellows had the same two men as their chief officers. P. Bendickson is the chief officer of the K. of P. and secretary of the Oddfellows, while J. M. Lane reverses the offices.

For the entertainment of its readers, the Times was publishing Gene Stratton - Porter's "Freckles" in serial form. The social news involved visits to Olds and the prospect of Alberta and Great Waterways Railway. The Conservative party was reported as insisting "on the fullest particulars with respect to the proposed contract with J. D. McArthur".

In the column of local news, we read: "Mr. and Mrs. Florest Boyles, who live ten miles north, spent the weekend visiting friends in Viking". "Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thorsley, of Edmonton, are guests this week of the former's parents"; and, "J. L. Hoy returned this morning just as spry and lively as ever, after undergoing an operation in Edmonton, where he was confined for nearly two weeks."

Church activities were not neglected by the Times. We read that "the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church are meeting today (Friday) at the home of Mrs. D. F. Johnson". It was also announced that "Rev. C. L. Jeffers will conduct Norwegian services in the schoolhouse next Sunday at eleven o'clock. Preference", and that "Rev. W. P. Crumb will occupy the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning. Services will commence at 11 o'clock."

Thanks are extended to Mrs. Grace Phillips.

1,500 Witnesses to gather here

Jesse Blizzard, presiding minister of the Camrose congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, reports that upwards of 1,500 delegates are expected at a convention in Camrose, July 2 to 5. Requests for rooms have been received from the other two prairie provinces and British Columbia.

Witnesses in Camrose area are currently canvassing the city for accommodations. So far they have met with fine response. It is expected all the delegates will be amply housed in hotels, motels and private homes.

Higher truck loading for Alberta highways

The Hon. Gordon E. Taylor, minister of highways, had good news for the trucking industry in Alberta Monday when he announced a new load limit scheduled to be effective on Friday, June 26. Gross weight limits have been increased to 72,000 pounds on some nineteen highway sections and to 56,000 pounds on a further thirty sections.

"Bridge overpasses", the minister stated, "follow an exhaustive survey and study by Departmental Engineers of the entire highway network in the province. Accumulative information gathered constantly since 1950, together with results of Benkelman Beam tests made since 1957, an inventory of the structural make-up and seasonal strength variations and traffic flows, enabled a panel of engineers from the department to raise such highways".

The minister stated that, common with all countries where there are extremes of weather from 30° below zero in the winter to 100°+ in the shade in the summer, most of the damage is done to the roads during the period when the frost is coming out of the ground. "Spring time is the critical period for pavements and for gravelled roads the yearly all pavement distress can be attributed to loss of substance during spring thaw period". Mr. Taylor said. He added that for this reason road bans will be placed wherever required.

Among highways of interest in this area on which the load limits have been increased are the following:

Increased to 72,000 Pounds

Highway 2. Edmonton to St. Albert. Jct. No. 34 through Peace River to Jct. No. 35, north of Grimshaw.

Highway 12, Jct. No. 2 to Saskatchewan Boundary.

Highway 14, Edmonton to Saskatchewan Boundary.

Highway 21, Jct. Nos. 13 to Jct. No. 14

Highway 53, Ponoka to New Highway 2 construction west of Ponoka.

Increased to 56,000 Pounds

Highway 21, Jct. No. 9 to Jct. No. 13

Highway 36, Jct. No. 3 to Jct. No. 19

Highway 53, 5½ Highway No. 2 Construction to Jct. No. 12.

(M. Harris)

Approximately 850 people gathered at the Ryley High School auditorium on Sunday afternoon, June 7 to honor J. D. McArthur and who is retiring as principal after nearly 40 years of service. Robert Greig acted as chairman for the occasion.

A sweet program opened with a choir of grade seven pupils singing "My Old Canadian Home", conducted by Paul Vaughn and accompanied at the piano by Miss Peggie Fish. Mr. Greig then gave a short address, telling of the many instances of their friendship and the many various good deeds "J.D." has done for his friends, his duty for all past and present pupils and the young people of the Ryley district.

The chairman then called upon Miss Anita Sand, who presented Mr. McDonald with a gift on behalf of the Junior High students and Lawrence Anderson, who presented a gift on behalf of the Senior High students. The other item sang another selection, "I Will Be True".

Mrs. Harriet Ruddy was then called upon to give a short history of Mr. McDonald's teaching career. She mentioned the vast difference from the early classroom school to the modern 18 classroom building of today with 20 teachers, and also recalled many amusing incidents in connection. Mrs. Ruddy, on behalf of the Ryley teaching staff presented Mr. McDonald with a fine red and rose, and wished him lots of good fishing and a long and happy retirement.

On behalf of the whole community, Mr. Harold Parsons then presented the honored guest with a purse of money and a unique album containing letters of congratulations and photos of former pupils from many parts of the world.

Upon arising to reply, Mr. McDonald was given a standing ovation. He thanked everyone for all the help and kindness shown, and in particular of the help given by Mrs. McDonald who also was a teacher for many years.

There were many reunions between former pupils who came from many parts of Alberta, one from White Rock, B.C., and one from Illinois, U.S.A. Pupils met for the first time in many years since their school days.

A delightful lunch was enjoyed by all, bringing to a close a day that will long be remembered.

Many attractions planned for Dominion Day holiday

In preparation for the July 1st holiday celebration which the Community League has been planning for weeks, the display of school work is being judged and the list of winners in art, writing, essays and handicraft will be published next week. There will also be a display of art work done by the High School students which will be well worth seeing. All school exhibits will be shown in the skating rink waiting room.

The W.A.C.L. again asks the co-operation of the ladies of the district in contributing pies for the booth on July 1st. Many pies will be needed to satisfy the appetites of the crowd, and we wouldn't want people to go away hungry! If you can spare time you are in the booth, phone Mrs Arnett 149.

BARBECUE

Once again a barbecue is planned. The barbecue pit will be opened at 5:30 o'clock, when supper will be served. This will consist of roast potatoes, weiners, corn on the cob, cucumbers and, of course, the barbecued beef. Coffee and pie may be secured at the booth.

The hot-dog and coffee booth will be in operation all day, under the management of Johnny Beerens, president of the Community League. The famous "Lions" orders of hot-dogs and hamburgers will be part of the booth attractions. The Lions' hot dogs, with eight years' experience, and his hot-dogs are delicious.

SPORTS EVENTS

In addition to the baseball games mentioned earlier, there will be men's softball games interest between Tofield and Viking. Chairman, I from Edmonton and I from Tofield will compete for prizes of $30 and $10.

The executive of the Tofield Community League would like to remind everyone that all who enter the contests will pay the entry fee. The League depends on the receipts from this day, to finance its projects during the year. The attractions will be worth the price of admission.

The horse shows, the Lions' duck hunt, the dinner, the ball games, the races are all arranged with the aim of providing a really outstanding day in Tofield's history. We hope the weatherman will co-operate!

Thieves at wedding

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN — While attending the wedding of a cousin in Edmonton on Saturday June 13th, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chumalite arrived their car near the church. On returning to it later they found that the small front window had been broken, the door then opened and Mrs Chumalite's bag taken, in which was a good sum of money.

Six confirmed at Lutheran church

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

HOLDEN — Confirmation service was held in the Lutheran Church at Holden on June 7th when a large gathering of relatives and friends were present for the confirmation of Wayne Christianson, Margaret Ann Gross, Patty Gruba, Marsha Nahnibykiw, Mona Olson and Robert Peterson.

The theme of the impressive service was "May God bless these young people as they go through life and may we as adults help them to live better lives".

Some of those noticed from a distance at the service were Mrs Peterson of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs Cedger of Drumheller, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Olson, Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crossland, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Olson and Mrs. Olga Bjornson, Northern Alberta Institute of Technology. Along with many other girls, Francis successfully completed a ten-month course in secretarial assistance. The graduation ceremonies were held at the NAIT on May 29th. An address from Holden were heard by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zgolyk, Vivian Gobeski, Carol Olson and Carol Hurum.

Francis seeks more parade entries

Last minute preparations are underway for Tofield's Dominion Day celebration.

Art Frances, parade marshal, is particularly appealing to business firms, organizations, church and youth groups to have a float in the parade. The parade sets the tone of the day and it can only be a good as Tofield citizens are willing to make it, so, how about it?

Put the old thinking cap on, come up with an idea which will advertise your business or organization or district, enlist some one to help you add an other entry to the parade.

Treme of the Knots Event, "Wayan Wheels to Automobiles", is meant to indicate progress in all types of progress in any field Tofield is a modern town, grown from pioneer beginnings. There is plenty of scope for the best minds to work.

How about decorating your car for the occasion this year?

Perhaps some organization, group or business will sponsor you if you carry advertising for them.

The saddle horses, too, are symbols of progress. Once they were a vital means of transportation now they are a means of recreation. So, groom your horses, dress in costume, and join the parade.

The Tofield Band will be out in full force, and, of course, "There's something about the Home Town Band" that others never have.

The parade, says Art Francis, will form up at the C.N. station, and persons entering horses are asked to turn up on the first street east of the station.

Judges have been secured to select winners in the parade. The classes which may be entered are listed below. The best entry in each of the first four classes is rewarded with a cup. Others receive ribbons.

Vermilion AVC graduates guests at alumni re-union

Graduation exercises this year at Vermilion Agricultural and Vocational College will commence at 2 p.m. on Friday, July 3rd beginning with the presentation of the regular diplomas to students and staff of the various classes of the home economics department.

July 3rd is also the date of the annual reunion of VSA alumni and will be rather unique this year in that the current graduates will be the guests of the alumni at their most looked-forward to party of the year, The Rose Ball.

The alumni proceedings will get under way at 6:30 p.m. with the banquet, which, in keeping with the custom of the year 1939, will be on the lawn, if weather permits.

The entire alumni proceedings will be honoring the classes of 1909, 1914 and especially, the year 1939 in their 25th year.

To all graduates, ex-students and friends of the College, the invitation is extended to return, meet old friends, and to see the many marked changes on the campus brought about by recent construction.

Historical Society to fete Tofield oldtimers

The Tofield Historical Society executive recently planned its contribution to the Dominion Day celebration, sponsored by the Community League.

An "old-fashioned tarb" mall has been made by Mrs Mary Fodemans and donated to the Society for raffling. Tickets are now on sale, the winners one to be drawn on July 1. This quilt is a work of art and is on display in Mrs Crawford's Ladies' Wear Shop by and see this quilt which is beautiful enough to be a wall hanging.

The Society will be welcoming Old Timers again in the waiting room of the Tofield Curling Rink Brew the Senior Citizens will be welcomed by members of the Society who it is hoped, will be in old-fashioned costume

To recall the pioneer era of this district, the Society is asking as many of the pioneers as possible, and many others who are interested, to come to the celebration in costume worn in the early days of the community. The costumes will be judged at a dance time during the afternoon and first and second prize ribbons will be awarded in the following classes

1. Oldest lady in authentic costume
2. Oldest gentleman in authentic costume
3. Lady in best costume for a specific occasion such as riding habit, bathing suit or wedding dress
4. Gentleman in best costume for a specific occasion as above

So, look through the trunks and the attic and come attired in pioneer style"

It is hoped to have an entry

In national arena

Well known high school teacher in Camrose, Hugh Irving thrust himself in the national arena this week when his article on school drop-outs was published in Maclean's Magazine. Mr. Irving is fairly well known for possessing rather definite views on a variety of subjects, and displays considerable agility in phrasing them colorfully.

His latest assignment came following an embroilment with another teacher in recent issues of the teacher association's magazine, The ATA, and Maclean's published it in the somewhat controversial section "For the Sake of Argument."

One effect, which we hope is the most minor one, will be to heighten interest in Canada's National Magazine around Camrose, at least for this one issue.

Another effect, we hope, will be to draw considerable attention to the

There is little he says with which we disagree For several years the cry in education has been Retention' without paying any attention to what the pupils were being retained for The whole impression was that they simply couldn't sit in classrooms for one or two or three years more without something beneficial rubbing off on them. arguments propounded by Mr. Irving.

But most of those urging retention didn't stop to count the cost; to examine the effect on other pupils, who didn't have to be pressured in remaining in school; to survey the overall downgrading of the importance attached to education.

Perhaps Mr. Irving's article will help to focus more attention on the realism of retention, rather than on the magic catchword we have been dazzled with for too long.

Million dollar rain

Have you ever wondered what it takes to make a "million dollar rain"? The expression is heard often enough when the moisture comes just when it was needed most. A little item in a recent Wheat Pool Budget sparked our interest when they asked: "When the weather department says an inch of rain fell, do you have any idea just how much water this is?"

The Budget goes on to point out that an acre of ground covers 8,272,640 square inches of surface, so an inch of water on an acre is thus roughly six and a quarter million cubic inches of water. At 227 cubic inches to the gallon rank your pupil in school! this equals over 27,000 gallons or some 135 tons of water

At local water rates, this would be worth about $13.50, which means that an inch of rain on slightly less than 75,000 acres, or 118 sections, qualifies as a "million dollar rain"

Well, there you have it We figure a lot of farmers have a different way of working it out.

BIG GEORGE!

It has been a few years since things would include swimming I was hooked out of school for refusing to shave each and every morning My teacher was jealous because mine was a longer and thicker beard . . . but I must admit she kept hers well combed!

Hot even though I haven't sat in class for such a long time and even though the school I used to attend is now torn down, with the basement being converted to a fall-out shelter, I still get a feeling of nostalgia near the end of June and especially so when I see a group of high school students walking homeward with their arms full of books Boy! What a feeling it was to know that school was out for another year and that there were two months of beautiful warm weather ahead when I could have no concern of anything other than boobs. Such

Dear Sir:

Debate continues over the question of a new flag for this country.

Canada is a dominion by it-summer jobs girls, baseball games tennis girls and perhaps some travelling. And did I forget to mention girls?

Summer holidays were always awaited with much anticipation, as far as this kid was concerned, but I remember, too that the start of school for another term each fall was equally as exciting.

And soon the time will come when I shall again share in the fun and excitement (and perhaps fear?) of the first few days of school in Grade One, for although it seems nearly impossible our elder daughter will be starting school in the fall.

'Good Old Days'

The following poem, written by Donald Brose, a Grade X student at the Tofield High School, was selected by Mrs Conn his teacher, to illustrate the quality of work done in English classes

It reflects the feelings of old timers as they gather for the July 1st holiday:

I still remember on an clearly The kind I loved so very dearly, In the good old days away back west.

When the prairie still was unbroked.

When the fleet-foot deer ran free at will.

If the gophers peeped from every hill;

When the antelope were quick to flee

And the prairie wolf was hard to see

The west was then not only fun, For there was work which need be done.

I had to stake my claim of land, And always do my work by hand

I use a axe to turn the sod My ox and I did all the toil, By hand I scattered out the seed

And later gathered up the feed But now I count these days well hked

There good old days away back

Cottage roll too cheap

The Mercury was barely delivered last week when Jim Brown of Ryley noticed a bad mistake in his advertisement.

Somehow the figures on two items got mixed up, and cottage roll was listed at 39¢ a pound instead of 79¢ . . . which is still a good price. But, as Mr. Brown said in a phone call to The Mercury, "You don't get much cottage roll for 39¢."

It was embarrassing to all concerned, and it shouldn't have happened. Only relieving feature is that any good housewife wouldn't likely expect too much for 39¢ either, knowing the price should be much higher.

WCTU awards to district youths

(Mrs. C. M. Rude)

BARDO, June 27th — Sunday School closed on Sunday for the holidays with a picnic at Miquelon Lake. A basket dinner was enjoyed at noon and Pastor Bue held a short service in the afternoon. Small gifts were presented to Grace Hetherg and to Valley Johnson from the WCTU for having their names mentioned in the White Ribbon Tidings.

There was fourth in the district in the province in the National Temperance Study Course and Walter was third. A shower of rain finished the picnic to a sudden halt.

Miquelon Lake campers to face small tariff

Miquelon Lake is one of 19 provincial parks where small fees will be charged for each night accommodation starting tomorrow.

At Miquelon, and 16 other centres, the fee will be 50 cents for overnight visits. At Bow Valley Park and Cypress Hills Park, a rental of $1.00 for overnight tent or trailer accommodation will be levied, with an additional 50¢ per day for each person. Use of water, sewer and power "hook-ups" is supplied at some two parks to fee superior to anything else provided in Alberta Provincial Parks.

The move was announced last week by the Hon. Norman Willmore, minister of lands and forests, for the province. "To move came, said Mr. Willmore, following many requests for improved services and facilities at the campsites, and heavy demands on service and maintenance provided at sites already. It is felt that some of the increased costs should be passed along to those using the improved accommodation.

No charge is made except for overnight camping, and no visitor may occupy a campsite for more than 14 consecutive days without permission.

Parks where the lower fee will be charged include: Aspen Beach, Beaverdam Lake, Crimson Lake, Elkberry Lake, Dinosaur Park, Elkwood Island, Little Bow, Long Lake, Miquelon Lake, Park Lake, Pembina River, Red Lodge, Saskatoon Island, Vermilion Park, Wabamun Lake, Winagami Lake and Writing-On-Stone Park.

2,000 'Witnesses' converge at four-day convention here

Starting slowly with the advance guard tomorrow, an assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Canmore is expected to reach proportions of more than 2,000 by Sunday, according to reports reaching The Canadian. From all over Central Alberta and beyond registrations are expected to move in here for all or part of the huge convention.

Hotel and motel accommodation has been planned for many, while billets in private homes have been secured for many others. Still others will be arriving in tents and trailers.

Tomorrow will see scores of the members up on the fairgrounds to give them a thorough cleaning up, while assembly departments are also being set up Wednesday.

An outstanding feature will be the kitchen where an average of 7,000 meals a day will be prepared. However, the volume the first day is expected to be much lower, while considerably higher figures are expected for the weekend. The kitchen will be a companies of several cooking units employed regularly by the church, and travelling to various district assemblies. The convention will bring them all together and merge them into one large operation.

A snack bar will also be operated during periods when the convention is not in session. All work is handled by volunteers, with experience indicating that no one is delegate volunteers is needed.

KINGMAN HELPERS

Torsten Tollefson and Herman Ahrens, both of Kingman, are in charge of two very important areas during the convention. Mr Tollefson will be in charge of all trucking and equipment, which means that he will be expediting and keeping track of all the things needed for a convention this size, from steam kettles for the kitchen to typewriters and notebooks for the delegates.

Mr. Ahrens looks after transportation and in the absence of a public transit system in the city will coordinate a free, ordinary taxi service for delegates who arrive without their own transportation.

Programs start at 1:30 on Thursday, and run each afternoon and evening until Sunday, with additional sessions on Friday and Sunday mornings. Concluding discourse will be at 3:00 p.m. on Sunday. All meetings are open to the public.

Antelope hunting areas are drawn up for 1964

Antelope hunting has become so popular in Alberta that it has been necessary to establish regulations, including a limit on the number of participating hunters each year. This limit has, in a large degree, been determined by the way in which antelope hunters customarily distribute themselves during the hunting season. Several areas are apparently "favorite" for many hunters while other, high quality antelope regions are unknown to many and remain relatively unhunted, hobbling the control hunter distribution has developed a limited issue of antelope licenses during recent years, but until the favorite and heavily hunted areas are harvested.

If better hunter distribution can be obtained, a greater number of hunters can participate and a higher overall regular quantitative antelope harvest can be achieved, say Fish and Wildlife officials of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. To effect better antelope management and to meet increasing demands for hunting, opportunities for a limited number of hunters, a system of distributing hunters is established at once.

For the 1964 season antelope range of southeast Alberta has been divided into seven antelope "hunting areas". Antelope hunting application forms available at all Fish and Wildlife offices, contain a sketch map that identifies and locates the seven areas. Applications contain a list of preferences and each applicant is required to enter the number of his preferred hunting area in the space next to "Preference Number 1". Subsequent area choices may be entered in spaces provided for "Preference Number 2", "Preference Number 3" and so on to provide a sequence of areas preferences, if desired.

Hunting opportunities will be separated in terms of area and preference when they are received at Fish and Wildlife headquarters. If a selection or "draw" of applicants for a particular hunting area is required on behalf of any area, every applicant will have an equal opportunity of being drawn for his third choice area. This system will be operated until all harvest quotas for each of seven hunting areas have been reached. If a hunter desires to hunt on one area only he should only complete Preference Number 1 on his application. This will indicate that if he is an unsuccessful candidate he does not wish to be considered for hunting in other areas.

Following completion of the required selection by "draws" all applicants will receive notification of the result of their application. This notice will direct successful applicants to return their notification together with the $5 licence fee. The validated hunting licence will be mailed following receipt of fee and notification by the Fish and Wildlife Division. The licence is actually a part of the hunter's application and carries on it his original preference list, certified for hunting in one of the seven areas only. The licence is not valid in other areas. An antelope hunting tag or seal is forwarded with each licence.

Celebration marks opening Bardo Recreation Centre

Friday, June 12th, marked the official opening of the new Bardo Recreation Centre. It was also a history-making event in that it has been 70 years since the Bardo community was formed and as it looked to better unite the community.

Guest speaker A. W. Cordey, MLA for the Vegreville-Bruce constituency, was made speaker of the afternoon. He said he was greatly honored to take part in the function. He mentioned that we should not forget the pioneers who had formed the district in the first place; but rather, let this Centre stand as a monument to them.

The game provided many laughs as most of the players knew what to do, but just could not get to the ball fast enough or bend over quick enough.

SWALLOW NESTS

The unusual formation above is at Crowd Meet Lake, on the site of the gravel pit, where the soft sandstone formation is exposed as gravel is removed. Swallows and starlings borrow deep into the soft stone for nesting, and as the picture shows, there's no housing shortage here.

Canada pension plan

Canada Pension Plan is proceeding as if all parliamentary and legal obstacles were out of the way and, what is serious as if all economic difficulties were of no consequence. It can be expected that Canada in the next year and a half or so will have a pension plan that will be an economic burden on the country.

Signs are accumulating that people are going to demand more from the pension plan than is reasonable. In life insurance, as in many other things, the buyer gets what he pays for. If survivor benefits are going to be large relatively and if there are a number of frills the basic cost will be substantially increased. Anyone who has bought a government annuity or any other annuity knows from negotiations with agents that there is a material and even substantial difference between the basic pension and a pension that continues after the pensioner's death or is diverted in part to the pensioner's estate.

Age when payment begins is an important factor. If a pension is to be paid at earlier age 55 the cost will be substantially higher than for a pension payable at age 65, or benefits will be correspondingly reduced. A pension plan calling for payments at age 60 would be substantially lower in cost than a pension plan where the benefits begin at age 65.

It is feared by dispassionate observers that a pension plan involving parliamentary approval and revision from time to time will contain elements of great cost. Eventually it is possible, even probable, that additional costs will arise from adding frills out of the taxpayers' reserves. It was in this way that seasonal workers were improperly added to the beneficiaries of unemployment insurance.

Unemployment Insurance Fund situation is bad enough. It looks as if Canada is going to have a similar situation in the Canada Pension Plan, with no one really concerned about extra cost. Very few people seem able to discern that higher premiums should be collected if higher pensions with frills are to be provided.

Foregoing discussion is aside from the very important fact that the governments of Canada will be sharing each month large sums of money which will be expended in public works and which are not in fact actual reserves against the day when pensions have to be paid out.

Nero fiddled, too

Indignation is growing across the country at the lack of constructive output of our representatives at Ottawa, as they pockey for position and weed each other out in seeing who can outwait who.

Weeks have gone by since Prime Minister Pearson first introduced his flag, and nothing has happened to expedite the matter one way or the other. At the same time, while nothing is being accomplished in this department, or is likely to be accomplished in the immediate future, more important business is going forced to wait.

Politics, rather than patriotism, is the issue here, with reliable information reporting the Conservatives hope to force a move away from the flag issue by sheer pressure of money and other matters, or else force an election, while the Liberals are counting on impatience, and the very general desire for a summer recess, to get endorsement for the Pearson pennant.

We can't muster a great deal of sympathy for the toiling parliamentarians when we think of their daily rate of pay, even with the extended hours recently adopted. As far as we're concerned, the pressure for a summer recess shouldn't enter into it. They're down there to work, and let them stay till the job is done. If it takes till Christmas. That's what any other group of professionals would do.

More pay - as - you - go

We were interested in remarks made by an Alberta cabinet minister the other day when he indicated that too much of the tax burden is being placed upon the shoulders of real property owners and in effect, the tax money is not stretching as far as it used to.

Our interest was aroused again with the announcement by Lands and Forests Minister Norman Willmore that effective tomorrow, Sub 1, overnight rental fees, as well as charges for the use of water, sewer and power connections are to be levied in some provincial parks.

Even though we are among those who like to spend a few days camping in the provincial parks, we are not at all opposed to the rental charges. We feel that this is a definite step away from the socialistic trend of most governments today. We like the idea of everybody chipping in to keep the tax pot full, rather than constantly increasing the drain on the pocket of the property owner.

We are reminded of the story of the chap who stepped up to the bar and in a loud voice proclaimed: "When I buy everybody drinks". The bartender immediately served drinks to all his patrons. The man at the bar downed his drink, and placed enough money on the bar to cover his own, and again in a loud voice announced, "When I pay everybody pays."

This could very well express the sentiments of the property owner.

Good health to all

BIG GEORGE!

In an address to the annual Western Canada Trade Fair Luncheon in Regina today, G. C. Leannen president of a farm machinery firm said: "Farmers, farmers what I feel is well worth repeating," he said, "the farmer has shown a far more keen interest than many of his contemporaries in other economic areas in his willingness to accept change and to use the resources of modern technology. The record shows that the farmer has increased his output per man hour at a rate that is the envy of other industries.

"Back of our present prosperity has a sound basis. Recall that one farmer today produces the food for nearly thirty other persons, compared with the nineteen persons who toiled to feed one non-farmer two hundred years ago."

In tracing the development in agriculture that made this progress possible, Mr. Heasman noted that advances in education breeding, fertilizers, organization planning, crop rotation and marketing all played a part in this agricultural revolution as well as farm equipment.

"I think some of us tend to take today's easy, revolution in farm power for granted," Mr. Heasman said. "Just the fact is, today's tractor marks as great an advance over earlier models as the tractor represented over the motive power in the last ten years, over the horse powered harvest implement have undergone similar changes and pass his dividends in lower cost harvesting.

Looking to the future Mr. Heasman viewed the prospect that no one can foresee unprecedented progress in farm materials handling methods.

"Gone," the farmer has shown himself to be a resourceful and progressive man in the past. Mr. Heasman asserted. "I have no doubt he will be willing and able to meet changing situations in the future whatever they may be."

"There's a myth" he went on "that the farmer is inadequately educated. I have been elected by my fellow citizens to serve on school boards. They say that he is a sitting duck for every enterprising salesman that comes down the lane—and the government is there to protect him from himself. You and I know how far this is from the truth. The average farmer is as clear-headed and tough-minded as any purchasing agent or corporation, and quite capable of managing his own affairs."

"Change for the sake of change has no place in the farmer's thinking. Farming has increased as fast as it has because farmers have recognized the benefits of change."

Hats off to the men of the soil"

Mrs. Sarah Riediger passes at early age of 50 years

Mrs. Sarah Riediger, wife of Jacob Riediger, passed away suddenly on Friday, June 12th, in the Camrose Hospital, where she had been taken by ambulance from her home in Glory.

Her condition improved slightly for several days; however, at 8:30 on Friday morning, after a quiet night, her heart suddenly failed and she went to be with her Savior. She was 50 years of age, less six days, and had been married for 24 years and eight months.

She leaves to mourn, her husband, Jacob Riediger, and nine children, Linda, Alfred, Hilda, Marilyn, Lois, Edwin, Walter, Victor, and Joanne. She leaves also three brothers and three sisters with their families in Alberta, and one sister serving as a missionary in Mexico. She also leaves her father-in-law, age 92, and many other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Riediger was widely known and respected for her many acts of kindness and for her sincere witness for Christ. She especially enjoyed teaching in the Sunday School and visiting the sick. In spite of much suffering and frequent ill health throughout her life, she was a courageous and patient in every trial. To her husband and family, she was everything that a wife and mother could be. She was truly the heart of the home, and will long be sorrowfully missed by the family.

Speed limit raised on Highway 2

Hon. Gordon E. Taylor, minister of highways, has announced that effective July 6, 1964, speed limit between the underpass north of Lacombe and the underpass south of Red Deer on the new arterial highway west of Red Deer and Lacombe will be 70 miles per hour by day and 60 miles per hour by night. No change has been made in the speed limit for trucks.

Speed limit on the multi-lane highway south of Red Deer is not being raised until serious level crossing collision points are eliminated by means of interchanges.

Careful studies indicate that speed limits on this section can safely be raised to 70 miles per hour by day and 60 miles per hour by night. The department, however, will continue its policy of keeping careful records of any and all accidents that occur and which will be reviewed continuously.

A smiling trio

Cutting horse contest big attraction at 64th annual July 1st Sports event

Under sunny skies all through the day, a large crowd was again thrilled by the performances in the Cutting Horse contests and Jumping Sweepstakes at the July 1st celebration in Tofield this year.

Ten cutting horses and ten jumpers which are among the best in Western Canada, arrived to compete. The Cutting Horse contest trophy was won by Tip Armstrong riding "Dakota Bill Joe", a former world champion owned by the George W. Golding Quarter Horse ranch. Dr. Ila Harvey placed second riding her Edmonton Rodeo winner "Bill Scott's Toy". The third highest points in the Cutting Horse contest were won by Sheila Keys on her horse "Cissy Boy", a former Canadian champion.

Young Miss Kathy Macdonald, daughter of the Western Jumper Association president, Don Macdonald, demonstrated her skill in winning the 1964 Tofield Jumping Sweepstake trophy. Her winning horse is named "Prairie Jet", and is from the family ranch at Armdale Acres. Edmonton. This was a very close contest.

Other close contenders were Miss Karen Shortreed on her horse "Miss Real" Mrs. Tony Nobles on "Dark Secret" and Eleanor Mills riding her horse "Donahue".

Other well known horses performing at Tofield were Stormy Conway, Rancy Cissy, Royal Tare, Hollywood Cutter, Trigger Twin, Live Beaver, Honest King, Down Patrol, Whiz Bang, Save Count, Harry the Horse, Ramcoat Robert and Harrietder.

Coming to Tofield Sports Day and the ranches they are from were Donald MacDonald, "Armdale Acres"; Ila Harvey, Bateh Paul, Sheila Keys, Jeff Allen the George W. Golding "Circle C"; the Kvansburg P.V. Ranch of Mr and Mrs Cliff Ross and family; Mrs Florence Mewburn of Calgary; Ian McRae of Hardisty; Tony Ziegler, Eleanor Mills and Karen Shortreed. These families seem to enjoy Tofield's parkland, and plan on returning again next year. The large crowd of Tofield July 1st spectators are looking forward to this.

Three cheers A parade just isn't a parade without the "horse town band" and here they are, The Tofield Community Band, and judging by cheers from July 1st celebrants, they were the liviest part of the parade.

Holden congregation fetes Albert Pederson family

(Mrs. C. Taylor)

Holden, July 4

Sunday afternoon, June 28, the Holden Lutheran congregation held an "at home" to honor Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pederson and sons Robert and George, who will be leaving very soon to make their home in Clairmont. The church parlors were tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Pederson and sons received them with the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows". Mrs. Laura Christianson on behalf of the ALCW presented Ruth with a beautiful message of red roses.

Lyle Greenland was in charge of the program which began with a hymn, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus", followed by a brief devotional by Pastor Steward A reading was given by Mrs Irene Olson and a duet by Mrs Margaret Olson and Mrs Olga Harum, accompanied by Mrs. Betty MacGregor.

Presentations of purses were made by Algot Hallheim on behalf of the congregation and by Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell on behalf of the community.

Mr and Mrs. Pederson thanked everyone for the party and the gifts, and especially the kind memories and lasting friendships. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the congregation. Some of the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bengert, former Holden residents, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woelk, all from Edmonton; and Mrs. Ole Hjelter of Tofield. Their many friends from the Pederson family happy in their new home in Camrose and hope to see them often visiting in Holden.

Cattle crossing road cause car smash-up

On Thursday evening two cars were involved in an accident on a district road. As the vehicles were about to pass, going in opposite directions, some cattle stopped across the road, resulting in a collision. Occupants of one vehicle were shaken up and slightly bruised, and both cars were badly damaged. Two cattle were seriously injured and had to be destroyed.

FROM THE SCRAP BOOK

The only way to entertain some people is to listen to them.—J.W.H.

Canada's paid workers received an estimated $35,000,000,000 in 1963, an increase of nearly seven per cent over 1962.

No sugar—No go The young rider in this photo didn't stay on his mount long enough to find out what the horse had in mind. What he did discover though was that when this horse says "no go", it means just that, as he displayed his refusal during the parade here last week. Probably a good guess would say the rider forgot the sugar lumps at home. —Photo by Peter Nickel.

ASB seeking veterinarian for western part of County of Beaver

A letter was read at the County of Beaver Agricultural Service Board meeting on June 25th advising that Dr. Kerkamp, the veterinarian who had indicated he would like to start a practice in this area, had decided not to come.

The question of a veterinarian for the western part of the County was discussed and the Miller Clinic in Vegreville was mentioned. Dr. Tisdell had previously stated that when the clinic was built in Vegreville it was with the idea that the County of Beaver No. 9 could be included in the Clinic area.

The Board felt that a veterinarian should be attached to a clinic as close to one, as there are occasions times when an animal should be under observation and it was agreed that the Board contact the Miller Clinic in Vegreville and ask them that the western part of the County of Beaver No. 9 is open for a veterinarian and that if they will establish an office in this area similar to the one in Viking the Board could promise the Brucellosis vaccination in this area.

The field supervisor's report, presented by Bra Bayles, stated the Spring Range Vaccination campaign was completed May 15, when 753 calves were vaccinated.

Weed control to date consisted of seven rolls for treating perennial weeds. Farm calls regarding use of the newer chemicals and calibrating sprayers.

Demonstrations established so far are Carlyne for wild oat control, Bromet D buckwheat spraying, Kill - Mor application on brogegrass, Thistles and shelter belts. He said he is doing a study on the shelterbelts. However he thought some studies should be made in settling a rental rate for this machine as there is an increasing demand for this unit each year.

He said he has had several requests for pasture spraying but there was no time available for this work. He said this would be done by farmers with their own equipment.

The weed problem on the Highway 14 and railroad was discussed and it was moved and carried that this problem be handled under the Weed Act as in previous years.

Bra Bayles mentioned that some of the Backsloped County roads are very difficult to seed due to the obstacles in the ditches and the width of the road. He thought it would be necessary to go to hydro-seeding using the sprayer unit. The cost to construct this unit would be about $100 for a larger bypass valve. He thought this could be considered during the winter as it would not be possible to obtain equipment for this year.

Bra Bayles noted that he did not have sufficient time to do the necessary weed inspection and that Charles Sears was the available to help in this work, and so Mr. Sears be hired as a weed inspector for the same terms as last year.

The question of a tour of the County for the Service Board to check demonstrations and problem areas was discussed. Date set was July 20th, starting from the County Office at 9:00 a.m.

Interesting commentary

We've been told several times recently by people who seem eager to explain the lack of Canadian participation in ownership of Canadian corporations that Canadians generally don't have the money to invest; naturally, if the tax collector left more of their income, they'd be interested in greater personal holdings.

So we were interessed in the following figures from an editorial in The Toronto Globe and Mail recently:

In the United States, two-thirds of the people who own shares have incomes of less than $10,000; in Canada, the proportion is just over half. Two-thirds of the Americans who buy shares do so for long-run investment; two-thirds of the Canadians who buy shares do so for short-term speculation.

The figures take on added significance when it is recalled that incomes in the United States tend to run higher than here, so two-thirds of American investors are investing on incomes which . . . comparatively speaking . . . are considerably lower than those of their Canadian counterpart. Further, we've been told Americans succeed because they're willing to "plunge", while Canadians are too cautious. If The Globe and Mail is right, it's the Canuck who is the horse race type of investor. Two more fallacies seem to have been shot down.

Intent of the editorial is to focus attention on recommendations of the Porter Commission on banking and finance; which suggests, among other things, encouraging stock ownership among Canadians by "providing more information to investors, reducing the cost of modest share purchases, and tightening up securities legislation". It recommends also that more information be provided by companies on internal operation, such as is already practiced in the United States. including such things as "insider" trading by officers, directors and principal stockholders of companies, which has discouraged and disillusioned many Canadian shareholders in the past

Bad tempered geese

OTTAWA. . . In politics, even more than in life in general, we reap the consequences of our actions.

Prime Minister Pearson, his cabinet ministers and his party, are being paid off now in the House of Commons for the sets they committed in their last few years of opposition.

The air of the House of Commons is often filled with personal rancour between Conservatives and Liberals. There is an atmosphere of mutual distrust, a neurotic drive for revenge, a deep-seated disrespect for parliamentary manners.

This, as much as anything, is what has given this Parliament its shameful reputation in the eyes of the public.

In terms of actual legislation, the House has performed fairly well. It has not accomplished as much as past parliaments, it has accomplished more than others.

MEAN AND DIRTY

This past parliament might even have a good reputation were it not for its frequent dives into dirty politics its back - biting, name - calling, nimbus - angry, squabbling like a backyard ball of hedgehogs in grass.

No act of skill on either side is likely to prevent these outbursts. The major personalities in the House will distrust and battle each other until they die or leave Parliament.

As long as John Diefenbaker and Gordon Churchill are leading the Conservatives in the House, as long as Lester Pearson and Jack Pickersgill and the pro-1957 Liberals are on hand there can be little hope for smooth and orderly conduct.

It's not entirely a question of personalities.

The Government's handling of business, its inept preparation of legislation, and the spectacular failures of ministers like Walter Gordon and Judy LaMarsh, have made parliamentary fracas as easy and normal thing.

NOTHING CONSTRUCTIVE

But the opposition bears a large share of the blame One almost never hears intelligent and reasoned debate on the merits of legislation that is before the House not from the Conservatives.

Instead we get a sour flow of invective a pointless comparison of what the Conservatives did when they were in office, diversion in political mythology designed to show that the Conservatives are pure and the Liberals deep sinners.

There are those who connect the present ill-temper in Parliament with the massive defeat of 1958 with the pipeline debate and that there are more recent scandals injured in the election campaigns of 1962 and 1963.

Before the 1962 election, Liberal minister Gordon Cardin, now an extremely able Associate Minister of Defence rose in the Commons to deliver a most scathing personal attack on the then Prime Minister, John Diefenbaker.

ALL BARS DROPPED

That seemed to open the gates. In subsequent campaigns, the non-partisan practice of Canadians seemed to die. The political horse is the first casualty in office, the Prime Minister and Cabinet Ministers like Mitchell Sharp and Allan Mactaggart have tried to get the government on the non-partisan path really, without success. This failure is to a large extent due to the resistance in their own portfolios, and to the bad manners shown by the Opposition members to their efforts.

Perhaps these political leaders did not know what they were doing more likely none are in any other way at the time, for feeling they thought that after the election all would be forgotten, and the forum of Parliament which is the nation's most important cockpit would return to magisterial dignity.

Of course that could not happen, and it has not happened.

PERMANENT DAMAGE

The parliamentary furies and manners have been seriously damaged and there is no sign of immediate repair.

Only recently three Conservatives got up one after another and flatly accused the Prime Minister of lying. They rejected the Speaker's appeal to withdraw the words Just what this infantile defiance has done to the Speaker's authority and to the House's respect for itself has yet to be measured.

Now when Mr. Pearson proposes a study of the state of democracy he is accused of countenancing Quebec separatism. When he proposes a study he is charged with capitulation to Quebec. When he accepts legislation for changes in legislative procedure he is accused of retreat and withdrawal.

Mr. Churchill says he is "drunk with power" and a "drunken master". No question is considered without its trappings of political advantage.

It's true that the Conservatives are getting their own back, that it's a dangerous, dangerous game of tit for tat. If Parliament has no respect for itself, it can scarcely expect the public to have any respect for it.

1910 NEW FACES

The tragedy is that there is almost no hope, not at least in Diefenbaker, Churchill, Pearson and the pre-1957 Liberals face each other.

The Pearson Government appears to have missed the chance it had last year to banish the non-partisan practice. Mr. Diefenbaker wanted it. But the political horse is the first casualty in office, the Prime Minister and Cabinet Ministers like Mitchell Sharp and Allan Mactaggart have tried to get the government on the non-partisan path really, without success. This failure is to a large extent due to the resistance in their own portfolios, and to the bad manners shown by the Opposition members to their efforts.

Ryley dogs are winners as Labrador retrievers

Ryley dogs out of Carmoney kennels, owned by Coleman Ed monton, are doing well at field trials in Edmonton and area.

Handler of Carmoney's owned and handled by Leo Burke of Ryley in 1962, won a 1st and 2nd in the qualifying stake at Edmonton. In 1963 he won the retriever field trials in Edmonton and Penoka, receiving a first, a third and a fourth in the qualifying stake, and he also placed third in the open all-age stake at the Edmonton fall trials. This year Bandit ran in two open all-age events at the Saskatoon field trials, and received a certificate of merit and also a first prize. At the Penoka field trials Bandit won first in the open all-age. This is now made Bandit of Carmoney a field trial champion. Leo can be justly proud of Bandit and his efforts.

Leo Burke also owns Carmoney Fancy Dhu, which in 1963, as a pup, received first in Penoka and in the Edmonton Puppy Stake. In 1964 M. Coleman has handled Carmoney Fancy Dhu, and he has won first at the Junior Stake in Calgary, second in the Junior at Saskatoon, a certificate of merit at the Chesapeake field trials and first in the junior at the Edmonton sporting dog trials.

Carmoney Lily Dhu, owned and handled by Garnet Burnstad of Ryley, was first in the puppy stake at the Edmonton retriever field trials. This was the first trial for both Garnet and his dog. At the Edmonton sporting dog trials, she placed fourth in the puppy stake.

First time winners

A big surprise it was for Garnet Burnstad of Ryley when judges at the Edmonton Chesapeake Trial held at Cooking Lake recently, awarded his prize dog, "Carmoney Lily Dhu", first prize. "It was the first time we were ever in a trial", said Garnet, "and the first time we had ever seen one". Garnet and Lily Dhu are proudly shown with the trophy they won in the above photo. They also won fourth at the Edmonton Sporting Dog Trial a short whole after, which now makes Lily Dhu queen of the Ryley dogs, and adds another hobby to the many others Garnet already has. By the way, Lily Dhu also won front seat position in the car.

Straighten it out

Amid cries that Parliament is accomplishing nothing, and that it has degenerated into nothing more than an arena for voicing partisan political nonsense, it should be remembered we have inherited an institution which has two major functions. The job of the majority party is to govern, while the job of the opposition is to oppose.

Opposition does not necessarily mean obstruction, and the two should not be confused.

The biggest danger seems to arise when sensible opposition is not heeded, and the only alternative for members not sitting on the government side of the house are supine acquiescence or else resort to obstructionist tactics.

This is what the Conservative party is stating at now, and this is what is producing the charges of filibuster being heard in the Commons, whether the charges are justified or not. It seems to us a defeat for democracy when involved procedural policies are used to block legislation, just as we feel that only the rights of a democracy would ever permit this development to come to pass.

The Liberal government of several years ago faced nationwide criticism because it invoked "closure", cutting off the interminable . . . and what was worse, useless . . . haranguing of the Conservative opposition. But the criticism was illfounded, and the closure was properly applied. It is a necessary device for getting on with the business of the house after all reasonable debate has been permitted. It is used in meetings at every level all across the country, and has a useful purpose which is admitted by all.

The abolition of closure, as promised by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, would have been a signal disservice to the country.

While it is admittedly difficult at this distance, and with so much information observed, to form accurate ideas of day-to-day developments in parliament, the opposition parties are resorting to every trick of delaying procedure because the Prime Minister has insisted on a vote for a national flag before any summer recess may be had, and if the vote is against his new flag, he will go to the country.

Both sides have more important things to look at, and a major contribution would be a face saving opportunity for both to retreat. The country needs a nice little catastrophe right now to take its mind off lesser matters, or we'll face a more serious catastrophe later.

Something new

Game wardens in Alberta are in danger of becoming ever less popular with many citizens, as a result of a decision by the wildlife branch to enforce strictly laws forbidding picking up, handling, disturbing or confining any big game, game bird or fur bearing animal. The reason for this is that public misunderstanding of nature's affairs weighs heavily in favor of the defendant, who is often sincerely concerned about wildlife welfare.

However well-intentioned may be the acts of these people, says the branch, no amount of cooing, fondling, nursing and training can mitigate the frightful offence [illegible] against a terrorized wild creature.

Game wardens are under strict orders to enforce this part of the law just as much as the other statutes.

Ensign supported

The Peterborough Examiner reports a local flag manufacturer as saying the ensign sales are still out in front, but the flag controversy has certainly increased the flag business. The Examiner reports that apart from a few on car aerials and homes, no flags of the new design are being flown. Downtown merchants, who can be relied on to reflect public opinion in such matters, are displaying the red ensign, the union jack and the stars and stripes. Observation recently in Fort William of the various flags displayed were red ensign, with one exception: the exception was that the highest pole of the city hall flew a union jack.

Preserve rights in old treaties

Old treaties and Royal proclamations of 200 years ago spelling out the rights of Canadian Indians are still an effective safeguard today. The Ontario Court of Appeal has just given a judgment which re-affirms there can be no "closed season" for Indians hunting on reserves in Canada.

It was the attorney-general of Canada who appealed the acquittal of a Chippewa Indian in Sarnia who had been charged under the Migratory Birds Convention Act 1916. The Indian shot two mallard ducks out of season on the Kettle Point Reserve He shot the ducks for food

The magistrate who heard the charge, and now the Ontario Court of Appeal, ruled that the Act did not apply They cited a Royal proclamation in 1763 which gave the Indians possession and use of certain lands and their hunting rights for all time.

Said Mr Justice Wilfred D Roache "What was preserved and confirmed to them were those same rights and in respect of the lands reserved by the treaty and without any time limitation thereon"

Canadian Indians on the reservations can get some measure of comfort from the knowledge that the courts still base their decisions on law established by the old treaties which preserved the bargains made with the white man

By George!

We've heard a number of stories of the kind on and including since coming to this little place, but a couple of the latest has good for this column to pass up.

Time is there occurred several years ago but could happen [illegible] Two young riders who loved a bit north of [illegible] were in Southern Alberta competing in rodeos on the [illegible] They were [illegible] and had purchased from riders car for the trip As they were approaching one of the towns they planned to call at each [illegible] one of the girls decided to get out of her casual clothes and get into something more [illegible] and to save time she made the changes as the driver slept All went well until she got to the point where she had to wake him for gasoline As you can well imagine, this created a problem in a hurry, and she found she had to stand up in the back seat for this operation. Before doing so, of course she quickly glanced both ahead and back, to be sure there were no other cars in sight Then asked up as best she could and started to get the drift of the old boy. At this point she happened to glance out the side window and was horrified to find that they were passing a bus loaded with laughing people

The second solution involved a married couple from this area who were travelling on a station wagon, with a bed in the rear portion of the vehicle It was pitch dark on Saturday night when they finally decided to stop for a sleep. They chose what seemed to be a likely and lonely spot, and crawled out into dreamland Imagine their surprise when they woke on Sunday morning to find they were parked in a church yard with several people milling around the front of the building.

OTTAWA — The present session of Parliament will have no difficulty in continuing at least right through July without a break.

Some members are ruefully convinced that the House will continue in session with only [illegible] for the period of Parliament until the next general election. Others feel parliament will [illegible] that attempts to arrange a [illegible] recess get nowhere.

The interests that has developed [illegible] stems largely from a growing conviction on the part of the Progressive Conservative [illegible] that they can force Prime Minister Pearson to give up the thought of having the House approve the Government's proposed Maple Leaf flag. The Conservatives want the Liberal Minority Government to refer the flag to a Joint Senate-Commons Committee for consideration.

AS GOOD AS SHELVED

Once the flag is referred to the Committee it is felt it will be as good as shelved. But Prime Minister Pearson is equally adamant that the flag should not be referred to a committee. He has said publicly and privately that he considers the flag question settled [illegible] and he is working up to a [illegible] next week.

The [illegible] political parties have had [illegible] meetings earlier this month to try and solve the difficulties and appeared to stand in the way of [illegible] recess. They were [illegible] memorandum to the Government which agreed to set aside the debate temporarily [illegible] proceed with other [illegible] matters of legislation that would be passed before the [illegible] recess.

The [illegible] made it clear to the Government that they have [illegible] the Government was prepared [illegible] aside the flag debate [illegible] three weeks until a separate [illegible] legislation was processed. The concession to the Government [illegible] debate could resume on the flag and be completed before [illegible]

The [illegible] to be brought before the House included the decision [illegible] a single one of the [illegible] forces the youth [illegible] had whereby family [illegible] could go to parents [illegible] have odds who [illegible] and [illegible]

FIVE OTHERS

Mr. [illegible] listed five other [illegible] and set July 22 [illegible] target date for [illegible]. They were [illegible] of a 12-mile ferry [illegible] and taking zone, a [illegible] provide loans for needy students, [illegible] with the provinces [illegible] bill to cover government [illegible] November and two [illegible] departmental agenda [illegible] mates for 1964-65

[illegible] program was completed [illegible] Pearson said the House [illegible] resume debate on the [illegible] would sit until the flag [illegible] was concluded and approved then the [illegible] before their vote [illegible] a vital matter [illegible]

The [illegible] statutes was [illegible] ready to allow [illegible] the flag approved [illegible] to be put on [illegible]. The extended debate [illegible] that the [illegible] be considered, in [illegible] about the end of [illegible]

The [illegible] need only [illegible] not pass [illegible] Government will [illegible] say with which to [illegible] If the [illegible] emptied them Mr [illegible] no alternative but [illegible] Parliament to [illegible]

WAR OF NERVES

It is understood that the Conservatives would want to force Parliament over the hump of this war of nerves They would not mind the end of July or the first few days in August and then they might be prepared to give the Government the money to meet its bills and pay civil service salaries.

Having done this the House would revert to the flag debate As the House begins approach to mid-August it is bound to be a restiveness among the back-benchers who like most Canadians prefer to have vacation vacations during July and August when their children are out holiday. The Conservative tactics would be dictated by the belief that Liberal back-benchers would put pressure on the Prime Minister to ease up and send the flag to a committee so that they can get their much-needed summer time off What a week? Only time will tell

The Prime Minister has made no concession. He has also put other until the Fall with key measures as the Canada Pension Plan. He had no choice there. [illegible] parties could not be seen to [illegible] with the pledges [illegible] [illegible] would never [illegible] such [illegible] passed by Westminster. That [illegible] Canada to introduce agricultural [illegible]

ELECTION NOT LIKELY

The thing appears to be certain and that is that the Prime Minister is not going to allow himself to be provoked into calling a general election that no Canadian wants at this time. Few members of parliament want such a vote, but there are those who feel that a quick election is the only solution for the present Parliament.

A general election now might only result in another minority Government. The better plan appears to be to hold off until 1965 before going to the Country After sitting for 18 months the Medicare REPORT should [illegible] Country may be prepared to endure another test at the polls and may give elect a majority Government.

Parliament must be made to work in the meantime. Those who are playing politics at the expense of the public business, those who are running the debates and frustrations inside the House will be held accountable when the time comes that the electors cast their ballots.

Meantime the reputation of Parliament is suffering.

He further reported that, as yet, he had not received any assurance from the Provincial Secretary's Department that the unused portion of the grass to be used at the picnic ground would be made available.

Moved that the report be accepted and payment for the land made.

In regards to the County house at Dalsk, the Secretary-Treasurer stated that the electrical wiring had been completed, that a new well had been drilled by the Hamlet and had been equipped with a pump jack and elevator motor, and that it was now the intention of moving the Joe Fraser family from Viking to this property.

Moved that the report be accepted.

In regards to the flooding problem in Twps 50-12-W4th, reference motion 259, the Secretary-Treasurer stated that he had received information from the Director of Water Resources that the problem would be inspected during the summer of 1964.

Moved that the information be accepted.

In regards to Dr. A. Kirkham's Veterinarian, who had indicated that he was interested in establishing a practice in the County, the Council was informed that Mr Kirkham had purchased his mind and had possibly decided to move to Barrhead.

It was decided to leave further arrangements in the hands of the Agricultural Service Board, and it was moved and carried that the information be accepted.

In regards to brush and rubbish in roadside ditches, dealt with by Resolution 231, the secretary-treasurer stated that letters had been forwarded to the R.I. Associations, and letters would be going forward to the Rural Telephone Companies as soon as a list of these companies could be obtained. The secretary-treasurer was requested to publicize the matter of rubbish and brush in roadside ditches, notifying the residents of the county that rubbish, etc., may not be deposited in any of the ditches in the County.

John Booth 4-H champion at Ryley Achievement Day

Johnny Booth, showing a very impressive two-year-old Holstein, walked away with the championship ribbon at Ryley 4-H Dairy Club's 18th annual Achievement Day calf show held Wednesday. To win top spot in the show he edged out Dale Winners, who placed in the Reserve position with his Holstein calf.

In the calf class, Dale Winners was the recipient of the Wood-land Trophy for showing the top heifer calf. Tommy Annelo, in his first year member, took second in this event with Dave Booth placing third.

In the other competitions in this class, Ian Sourbrinn was named top showman by Judge Brian Westmacotte with Richard Matthews and Jim Sourbrinn placing second and third. Richard Matthews received the T. Eaton prize for bringing out the best showing calf, with Darryl Lyons placing second and Kenny Cooper third.

In the Yearling Class, Gail Kirkeland received the red ribbon and the E. H. Brown Trophy for showing the top animal in this class Johnny Booth placed second with Gail Kirkeland third.

Showmanship honors in this class went to Dale Winners, while Kenny Hillerud got first place in the grooming competition.

Johnny Booth's Holstein heifer calf, with Tommy Annelo showing, was awarded the Red & White ribbon in the event with Dale Winners and Gary Patterson with Gordon Hillerud grooming and Ian Sourbrinn showman in this event was Richard Owen and Kevin Booth given top spot in the grooming competition.

The Herd Class with six animals entries saw Johnny Booth at the head of the line again and was awarded the Ryley Hotel Trophy for this win.

The Pee Wee Class, a new event this year saw two young boys and a girls showing calves in this category. They came up with a fine display of calves and Judge Davey McGinn gave top position to young Terry Ragan, with second position going to Donnie Chappell and Ian Booth placing third.

The Judging Competition held prior to Achievement Day was won by Gail Kirkeland and she received the Roland Booth Trophy. Gail also won the Club Efficiency Award which gave her the Keswick Farm Trophy, presented by club leader Mr. R. C. Westmacott.

The show was well attended despite the blistering heat and was considered successful in every way. On hand for the event was Ed Hauptman, County Chairman and the first leader of the Ryley Club and was an excited Ryley boy at presenting the ribbons to the winners at the Calf Class.

The show was handled almost entirely by executives of the club. George Knudsen did a fine job as master of ceremonies, keeping the crowd informed on the progress of the show and recalled some of the history of 15 4-H clubs. Donnie Magneson, another Illustrious member of the club, acted as ring master, and kept the classes moving smoothly all afternoon. Brian Westmacotte judged the Calf Class and Austin Bond the grooming competitions and also took time out to photograph the entire group.

A letter from the Town of Viking in regards to the extension of 1st Avenue to the east of Viking for about a mile was referred to the Council. This road was actually included in the Town of Viking although the Town of Viking does not pay all the road. However as the Town of Viking derives no taxes from the subdivision lands the Council of the Town of Viking was of the opinion that this ends was should be taken out of the road boundaries and that the County look after the matter. The Local Improvement Board had advised that the Town consent from the council of Beaver advising that County of Beaver has no objection to the operation of this roadway.

Moved and carried that the Council of Beaver County be requested to forward a resolution requesting approval of the proposed Subdivision in Pt S W ¼ 25-49-19-W4 and Lots 1, 2 and 3 in Block E, Plan 3114 AR and Lots 1 to 12 in Block A, Plan 1125 W.C. was referred to the Council of the proposed plan and stated that Part of S W 25-49-19-W4 would be annexed by the Village of Holden from the County.

According to Section 8, Reg. 8 & 9, of the Act, it is considered that the driver of the County truck would be held responsible. The secretary-treasurer had referred the matter to Jubilee Insurance. A further letter on June 1st from George R. Day Co. Ltd. indicated that the actual cost of repairs to Mr. Dahy's car was $125.95 and that a claim for this amount would be made against the County. This matter had also been forwarded to the Alberta Motor Association Service & Parts & Sales and the recovered that they would take the necessary action to defend the claim.

Study farm taxation in Alberta

A three-man committee of the FVA board, headed by C. J. Verchigra of Champion, has been set up to study the whole question of farm taxation in this province.

The FVA board of directors, meeting in Edmonton Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week has embarked on this study to dig up facts needed before any future policy on land taxation can be adopted by this major farm organization. Currently the FVA represents nearly 35,000 farm families.

"We want to find out whether or not the farmer is paying more than his share in municipal taxes", states FVA president Paul Bahry. The question arises out of problems faced in suburban areas of the province. An example is Red Deer, where the proliferation of subdivisions outside the city, with their increased demands for municipal services such as schools and roads, has raised the taxes.

The committee intends to discuss the problem with J. M. McKay, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts, Hon. A. J. Hooker, minister of municipal affairs and Hon. E. W. Hinman, provincial treasurer. The committee is to report to the FVA annual convention next December.

Harry Hays introduces new livestock classification

The following is part of an article written by George Ridell on his column "Down to Earth" in the Edmonton Journal.

A number of livestock breeders have been reluctant to the new Hereford classification introduced by Hon. Harry Hays, the minister of agriculture.

The new system restricts the heavyweight to one entry per class in lucrative shows and cuts the number of classes from about 21 to seven.

Despite the criticism, some of which is well-founded, I don't think anyone can deny that Lethbridge's Hereford show this year was ruined by the new design.

Although the Hereford entries were down this year from last by about 30, the number of exhibitors was almost doubled.

MANY ENTRIES

And most of the seven classes had a good number of entries with only one breeder and two exhibitors.

In both Angus and Shorthorn breeds, the largest classes had four entries, and there were only a few this large. Most of the classes had only two or three entries.

Closers of this sort do not allow for much competition and as one show ring steward remarked, how could a breeder be disappointed when he got more than a second place award?

Even if some exhibitors do not agree they cannot disagree with the fact that the more exhibitors entered in a class the more competition and thrill it is to show. Conversely, a class is completely dominated by one exhibitor the competition is dead.

LITTLE CHANGE

During the past six years exceptions in 1961 Sheerness exhibitors have stayed relatively constant with about four to seven exhibitors each year. Angus entries have varied from three to ten, in 1962 but with six most years, and only three this year.

He said only seven could now be entered in each class, they are limited to 10 events in the Royal Winter Fair, Ontario Provincial Exhibition and all the United States livestock.

One good point for the new system is the show ring is that the show period is cut from five days to three days. If there is only a few shows in a season this is a good incentive.

NEW STEER CLASS

The new steer class proved to be more successful than in Calgary where there were only four entries.

Closest class was judged 60 per cent on live steer and 40 per cent on carcass.

Harold Bonnell of Tofield showed the top animal with a score of 87.1, compared with 29.2 for the second place animal by Helvetia Farms of Ponoka.

Financial services were held on Friday, July 3rd at 2:30 p.m. at the Park Memorial Chapel in Edmonton. Rev. A. J. Machin officiated with interment in the Evergreen Memorial Gardens. Park Memorial Ltd. Funeral Administrators and Directors were in charge of arrangements.

SIGNS OF DETERIORATION

This crop of wheat in the May Lake area, is one of the poorer ones in the district. The dried and withered leaves is an example of the deterioration that has been caused by a lack of moisture and hot weather. The gaps in the picture illustrates the short straws in this particular field.

End to butter problem seen

Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said recently that a new sale to Hershey Chocolate Co. of Hershey, Pa., for 15,000 tons of butter would help Canada's dairy industry with an anticipated shortage. He said the sale was the result of the Montreal department of the University of Alberta. It was at Saskatoon. LILY PATCH

This is a small section of the lily patch at the Elwyn Grattige home in Camrose. It was planted by Mrs. Les Sarsfield from bulbs developed by her father, and the plants still are the property of Mrs. Sarsfield. She formerly lived at Holden.

$1,500 lily patch may soon be transplanted

A lily patch planted in Camrose four or five years ago, and valued at about $1,500, may be moved in the near future to Pioneer Cross in Southern Alberta.

The lilies belong to Mrs. Les Sarsfield, a former resident of the city when left with her father a couple of years ago to take up residence in Holden where Mr. Sarsfield was manager for Federal Grain Ltd. Recently Mr. Sarsfield was transferred to Pioneer Cross to be his complete and is having a new home built there. When it is completed likely this fall Mrs. Sarsfield will be moving the lilies to the new home.

NEW VARIETIES

The lilies are prized by Mrs. Sarsfield not only for their beauty value, but because many of them are varieties which were developed by her father, the late Dr. J. Patterson of Camrose, and was in charge of the horticultural department of the University of Alberta. He was at Saskatoon. Guest Editorial— Still bigger profits coming

Early half of 1964 produced record results for the vast majority of firms in Canada and prospects for last half gains are substantially brighter than in any of the past three years of business expansion. This, says Dallas Robertson in The Financial Post in the conclusions presented by the preliminary results of The Financial Post's seventeenth survey of expectations in leading Canadian companies. With substantially more firms reporting gains and expecting to make still further year-to-year advances. The latest poll of corporate activity presents the most optimistic business situation since The Financial Post began its regular surveys in the late 1950's.

Despite the fact the current boom is already the longest of the postwar years, the Financial Post survey shows 1. During the last half of 1964 sales are expected to be higher than a year earlier in three quarters of all firms polled. This is an appreciably brighter prospect than at mid-1963 and mid-1962 and substantially brighter than mid-1961. 2. New profit advances over a year before are expected in the last half by about two thirds of all firms surveyed. This is the best showing in the past three years—and the expected gains are coming on top of a long succession of large increases in profit totals. 3. During the first half, sales were up in more than eighty per cent of all firms—and in two thirds of these firms the gains were more than ten per cent higher than a year earlier. Fewer firms than usual reported "no change" or sales declined and the proportion of firms with sales increases was twice as large as in 1961 when the present expansion was getting under way. 4. In the first half of this year, profits were higher than a year before in more than seventy per cent of firms. By contrast, year-to-year gains were made by only fifty-three per cent in the first six months of 1962 and 1963—and by only thirty-three per cent in first half of 1961.

A silent gift

OTTAWA. A $14 million gift to a group of perhaps 600,000 Canadians is expected to go almost unnoticed.

The Federal Government has had so many changes of heart over budget items, it seems in office that it must be becoming rather embarrassing. This may account for the fact that the Government has not been bragging of its generosity and has taken no publicity since its belated original plans for paying the $10 a month Allowance to parents of children in the 16 to 18 age group was announced—shocking. But even when the change was decided by Finance Minister Gordon on July 7 it received far less publicity than it deserved.

$500 DEDUCTION

On that date it was announced that parents receiving the allowance would still be able to claim the $250 deduction from taxable income for each of these dependents rather than the $300 exemption claimed for children eligible for family allowances. And the extra hours' money to them with the compliments of Premier Lesage and an Quebec Government whose meanness on continuing the Provincial school allowance payments made it necessary.

Payment of "family allowances" for children of 16 and 17 continuing at school was announced by Mr. Gordon at his budget last March. As a result the accompanying resolution governing amendments to the Income Tax Act contained a provision that the first payment should cover a 16th month of allowance was paid under the Family Allowances Act the next month after the child reached the age of 16. The $150 exemption is applied on the year that there would not be a full $12 payment. There is no provision available for payment of Family Allowances to Eskimos, Indians and Treaty Indians. Indians are covered under the Family Allowances Act and are entitled to receive allowances on the same basis as other citizens. Indians may receive payments in the form of a trust administered by the Federal Government on individual income tax.

It has now been calculated that of the 2.4 million children in receipt of regular allowances, about 1 per cent are candidates for abolition or abandonment. Of the 24 per cent of these farms 10 per cent are over 65 and 46 per cent in Ontario had an additional source of income from the Provincial Government assistance through ARDA will be necessary for this expansion.

The Canadian Labour Congress took an historic step on behalf of union responsibility recently with the appointment of Dr. Carl Goldenberg Canada's most experienced labour conciliator to the permanent umpire post in the Canadian Pacific Railway industrial machinery and hopes for arbitration of these persistent disputes if they cannot be resolved by a resolution in the trade union movement. Only 14 days. Never for the possibility of a wildcat the move eliminates the possibility of a jurisdictional strike.

By George!

A church official at a recent church conference in Alberta outlined twelve ways to "raise spiritual delinquents." Here is a formula:

1. Begin with mediocrity to give the child everything he wants.
2. When he picks up bad or dirty words laugh at them. That will make him think he is smart.
3. Never give him any spiritual training until he is 21 and then let him decide for himself.
4. Praise him in the presence of all the neighbors' children how much smarter he is than all the neighbors' kids.
5. Avoid the use of the word, "wrong." It may develop in the child a "guilt complex." This will prevent him to believe that when he is punished later on for stealing cars that society is "against him" and that he is being "persecuted."
6. Pick up everything for him; his shoes, his socks, his clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing burdens on others.
7. Let him read anything he wants. Have no concern whatever for what goes into his mind.
8. Quarrel frequently in the presence of your children. In this way they will be prepared for broken homes later on.
9. Give him all the spending money he wants; never let him earn his own.
10. Satisfy every craving of the child for food, drink and everything that has to do with the body. Denial and self-control will greatly hinder his every pleasure.
11. Take his part against policemen and teachers. They are all prejudiced against your child.
12. When he gets into real trouble defend him yourself and say "I never could do anything with him."

Plebiscite definite

It is said many hog producers in this area as well in other parts of the province have been confused by the apparent lack of action regarding the proposed hog marketing board plebiscite. Many have not been certain whether the vote on such a board has been forgotten about entirely or if it has merely been postponed.

The situation was cleared up recently by the president of the Farmers Union of Alberta when he announced that the plebiscite has only been postponed "until the government and the farm organizations have had a chance to re-examine the proposed plan in the light of producer criticism."

No indication has been given, however, as to how long farmers can expect to wait for the plebiscite. But one thing is fairly certain, and that is that this will be one of the most controversial questions the farmer has had to deal with since the formation of the FUA out of the old United Farmers of Alberta and the provincial agricultural federation.

The question should be particularly interesting in this area, which has the densest hog population in Alberta, if not in all of Canada.

Modern Etiquette . . .

(By Roberta Lee)

Q. When are "informals" used in correspondence?

A. The "informal" is a folded note card that may be used for any short, informal note for sending and replying to invitations, for enclosing with a gift. Friendly notes to acquaintances, and the like. This type of card is not proper, however, for writing messages of condolence.

Q. Is it permissable at the dinner table to eat the skin of a baked potato, and also the gristle you find in meat?

A. If you enjoy these items, it is perfectly proper to eat them.

Q. What acknowledgement can I make when friends stop by and express their regret over my recent passing away of my father?

A. A natural and proper response would be: "Thank you for your sympathy."

Q. I am a girl who does not vote in the line for alcoholic beverages. Frequently, though, I'm invited with an escort to a cocktail parties. What do I properly do when offered a drink?

A. Refuse, graciously and politely And you have a perfect right to ask if you may have a soft drink of some kind instead

Q. Some of my girl friends, who have become engaged, have given their fiances engagement gifts. Is this a new custom, and proper?

A. This is neither a new custom or necessary. Of course there's nothing objectionable

Q. At my mother's funeral recently, I was criticized for wearing lipstick and rouge. Was I wrong?

A. No, not at all — that is, if you applied these cosmetics with discretion.

Correspondence from County of Vermilion River No. 24 concerning the establishment of a Regional Library Service was referred to the Committee. This matter had been before the School Committee in 1960, at which time it had gone on record as not being in favour of the proposed library service.

In reference to the additions to the Holden and Tofield Schools, revised estimates on preliminary sketches had been received from Western Construction Consultants Ltd. as follows:

TOFIELD - Total gross area, 4,765 sq. ft. Estimated cost at $13 per sq. ft., $61,695. Estimated cost of landscaping, $2,120. Estimated cost of fees at 6%, $3,838.20. Total cost of the Tofield addition, $67,633.20.

A letter from R. A. Gorsky and Associates, Superintendents of schools, resigning from his position as of August 14, 1964, was referred to the School Committee. Mr. Gorsky explained that he had accepted a position as Superintendent of Schools with the Provincial Department of Education.

FROM THE SCRAP BOOK

Some twenty years ago a lady was busy putting on a shower for her girl friend who was to be married in the near future and she'd wanted to make a real lace on making a copy of the original

The lace doesn't mean wearing heavy clothes and making pretty speeches. It doesn't mean dainty and romantic affection. Lace isn't all roses and sweet. It is grim, it is gay. It is fun. It means working and playing together, cooking meals and trying to pay the bills, but it also means women who are making homes for their families and could tell you all about love and marriage. Lace is life in terms of the twenty-seventies.

Brides-to-be are united in marriage, they become one in an absence of words in the church, they are married with the joy of one who is the joy of life. Lace is the joy of one is saved by the sorrow of both

Death — a grim death itself, cannot part them. Even the blood of blood is less strong.

TOPSY-TURVY

A freak accident which took place near Tofield early Tuesday morning, last week, resulted as shown in the above photo. The Acme Novelty Carnival truck was being towed by another truck owned by the same company and had reached a point just a few hundreds yards east of Charlie's Place when the brakes of the latter truck were suddenly applied. The brakes of the unit being towed failed to function properly and, as a result it ran over the tow cable which immediately wrapped around it's front wheel and flipped the truck on the position shown. Fortunately only minor injuries to the driver were reported, but the unit suffered extensive damage. Constable John Wait investigated the accident.

Farm safety is a full-time job

The National Safety League of Canada is supporting the organizations across the country in the promotion of Farm Safety Week, July 19 to 25.

The prominent dairy farm is a comparatively safe place to live, but it remains a dangerous place to work, said the League.

If present rates continue in the next year, more than 1,0 000 of the farm population will be involved in accidents, of which 23,000 will result injury and 2,400 deaths. This will mean that one member of every fourth farm family will be either killed or injured in the next year.

Of all accidents involving farm workers 72% occur on the farm the rest off the farm. In one-third of the overhead accidents, victims are under 20 years old 12 per cent under 10.

The tractor is involved in the majority of fatal farm power accidents. "Operators of tractors must know safe operating procedures", warns NSL.

Farming continues to rank as the third most hazardous occupation. Only mining, including quarrying and petroleum drilling and construction have higher accident rates.

Motor vehicle, home and public accidents affect farm residents about as frequently as they affect other Canadians. Were accidents on the farm, the overall classification nationally, re-

Worth the price

So unaccustomed are we in this area to resignations of cabinet ministers, or requests for their resignations, that the news of Premier Manning asking the Hon. E. W. Hinman to step down as provincial treasurer comes as a distinct shock, and many people will no doubt feel a sense of personal loss.

While provincial treasurers hold the type of office which rarely endears them to the electorate, Mr. Hinman had exhibited considerable skill in the management of his office coupled with an intense interest that could almost be called devotion.

It is a point to note that in no way has the premier suggested any shortcomings on Mr. Hinman's part, only that there may be a conflict of interest with his other business. On this issue we have to give Mr. Manning warm support, for this newspaper has been repeatedly critical of his failure to act in other instances, notably that of the Hon N E Tanner whose position as president of an oil company might have or could have conceivably been at conflict with his position as minister of lands and minerals.

Painful as the action undoubtedly was for the premier and for Mr Hinman . . . it accords with the highest sense of parliamentary responsibility, and is one of parliamentary responsibility. There are few men of Mr. Hinman's stature in the government, and certainly no one available who is not already knee-deep in office. While this will undoubtedly mean a loss to the province generally, it is one of the prices we must pay to safeguard our way of democracy. If we shrink from paying the price, we lose the prize.

Mention a treasure trove and you've got immediate attention. Nearly every one is interested in lost wealth.

But a Canadian mutual fund company some months ago drew attension to Canada's greatest loss, and not too much interest seems to have been displayed. Devoting nearly an entire issue of their monthly magazine to the subject of pleading for revised tax laws, they open their article with the striking remark: "Every 11 minutes a Canadian leaves our country to live and work south of the border He may be a machine operator or an executive, a laboratory technician or an economist, a craftsman or a scientist."

The point is: nearly always he's a worker with skill or training, often a great deal of it. Among the emigrants, the percentage of highly skilled and educated runs almost sixty per cent higher than the national average.

There's nothing new about the situation, of course, and we must realize that the vast market south of the border will always be attractive and will always offer more opportunity for the very capable simply because it is so much larger than ours. At the same time, this vast population offers a great deal more competition.

The point the mutual fund was trying to make is that by devising a more encouraging taxation basis on this side, many of these people might be persuaded to stay on this side of the border, to use their brains or skills or training in helping to develop this country, and in contributing back to our society some part of the enormously heavy investment we have already made in their education

Simply because we're so accustomed to it, we probably couldn't guess how bad the situation is. The U.S. census of 1961 stated that 3½ million people now living in the United States are either Canadian born or offspring of Canadian parents. Tracing the exodus back a century or so, the report states that based on the natural increase rate, the exodus would account for a total of TEN MILLION people presently living in the U.S.A instead of Canada.

This would mean, the mutual corporation points out, we could have an additional city the size of Montreal, one of Toronto, one new Vancouver, another Winnipeg or an extra Edmonton, another Calgary, Halifax, Quebec City, Ottawa, Windsor and London, plus the entire population of Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Alberta

It is astounding, but pointless, to imagine how these Canadians could have contributed to our economic and cultural growth. A year or so ago Alberta's dean of the faculty of education, Dr. H. D. Coutts told an audience, in effect, that many years ago the wealth of nations was measured in terms of its colonies As time went on this changed to an estimate of its natural resources Today the time has come. Dr. Coutts asserted, when we must measure our nation's wealth in terms of the brains it possesses.

Statisticians

Most of us have been sufficiently annoyed at one time or another with people using statistics to prove their point that we may heartily approve the remark that "there are liars, damn liars, and then there are statisticians

So it was with delight that we recently ran across the statement of a prominent economist who cautions against accepting too quickly the word of the researcher when assessing averages His statement reads: "If a man stands with his right foot on a hot stove and his left foot on a freezer some statistician would assert that, on the average, he is comfortable

Mothers' gospel

Dr. Spock gives fluoridation facts

Author of America's top best-seller "Benjamin Spock, MD, on baby's Ireland" advises mothers not to be alarmed by claims that fluoridation of the city's water supply is harmful.

"It is well to remember that in some cities where fluoridation has been made by responsible municipal officials, the benefits to teeth proposed and that all the possible harmful objections were carefully checked."

Dr. Spock describes how the ... claims of opponents of fluoridation "can raise questions in the minds of all citizens". He explained that the evidence on fluoridation was reviewed by committees of experts of the American Public Health Association, the American Dental Association, the American Medical Association, and the U.S. Public Health Service before ... recommendation was made.

The renowned child specialist states: "As a pediatrician interested in preventing ill health, I am unqualified in favor of fluoridation. ... Now we have at our disposal a wonderful preventive measure which does not depend on the parents' means or on their conscientiousness or on the availability of dentists. If a child from conception receives water which contains one part in a million of fluoride, we know that the amount of decay of the teeth which he will experience during childhood will be reduced by about 60 per cent."

BETTER PERSPECTIVE

Dr. Spock concludes: "It gives you a better perspective to realize that similar alarms were raised about vaccination, diphtheria inoculation and chlorination of water before these procedures became generally accepted".

(Mrs. C. M. Rudel)

HARDIO, Aug. 12th. — An enjoyable day was spent at the Bardo Community Centre on Sunday when all the Fineath family gathered for a family re-union and dinner together. It was an especially happy occasion for Mrs. Maxwell Fineath who was able to leave the hospital for a few days, to be with her family.

Others present were Mrs. Nicholas Fineath of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Fineath and three boys from B.C., the Loren Moessens and three children from Everson, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lyseng and children from Duluth, B.C., and the LeRoy Fineath family.

In the afternoon, uncles and aunts and cousins numbering 88 gathered for a picnic supper. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Anderson and children from Sedgewick, also dropped in to say hello to the distant visitors.

Shirley his housekeeper, also assisted in the tea room at the club week at the Toronto Royal Fair, namely Allan Warner, Reid Francis, Jim Brown, Donald Sharon, Doris Brown and Don Wood.

Jim Brown won the re-entrance trip to Montana and also attended a Junior leaders' course at Banff.

A special note of interest is that John's cousin, Paul Moore is the 4-H State leader in Montana.

Knotty problem of "tax sharing"

The Montreal Star

Sooner or later, as the process of federal-provincial adjustment continues, much harder thinking will have to be done than has been done hitherto. The concentration of major tax sources in federal hands is breaking down. This is obvious. But how far can it go? More important, how far can it equitably go? The day must come when a new realism, based on tough, scientific research, will assert itself, for we are now proceeding on a basis founded not so much on facts as on political expediency. This is bound to break down.

Let us illustrate. Three big taxes, personal income, corporation tax and succession duties were for years in federal hands. They are now passing, step by step into those of the provinces. The process is, as of now good. But the day is coming when it will not be so good, and other measures will have to be devised. The reason for this is that nobody now knows how much of these taxes belong equitably to the provinces now receiving a larger share of them.

There are many big corporation incomes and many big personal incomes which are collected in Quebec but have been earned, at least in part, elsewhere in Canada. Many companies doing a Dominion-wide business have, for historical reasons, established their head offices in Montreal and Toronto. Their profits are made all over Canada, for we have built a national economy in this country which in these days of provincial nationalism, is often overlooked

The same thing is true of many men and women with big incomes. They pay their personal income taxes to the offices in Ontario and Quebec, but their incomes are earned not only in Quebec and Ontario but in the other eight provinces as well. Many others, with incomes ranging well above the national average, are doing the same thing. There have never been specific studies analyzing this fact. In 1940, the Rowell-Sirois Commission concluded that certain taxes, nationally earned but regionally collected, should be left in federal hands and proportionately returned to the provinces, either by tax rental or by some equalization formula. This has been forgotten — particularly by Quebec — by those who stand on the doctrinaire and false doctrine that direct taxes belong exclusively to the provinces. This is not so.

This is the weak point of the famous Lesage formula of 25-25-100 about the three big taxes. The formula may indeed represent reality, but nobody really knows. There has never been a proper study of where the earning originate, and such a study, for all we know, might reveal that even the 25-25-100 formula is inaccurate, and unduly benefits the provinces.

We suspect these proportions may be all right, but nobody knows how much further such a formula could be carried without creating grave injustices. There has been too much talk, too much chance about the concentration of head offices and highly paid personnel in Toronto and Montreal. It may not, for all we know, represent the genuine foundation of earnings inside the total national economy.

This should be studied carefully before we commit ourselves to formulas which are not only half-baked. There is some urgency in this. Quebec spokesmen, ranging from those who tall of a large provincial autonomy to those who speak of absolute separatism, seem to be all convinced that Quebec's "share" of existing taxes should remain based on the payment made to federal tax offices in the province. One demand has even gone so far as to claim a right to all customs duties payment made at ports of entry in the province, even though most of the goods are destined for other parts of the country

Time to get tough

Increasingly frequent reports of bloody riots touched off by spirited youth, usually teen-agers, seems to indicate a need for general beefing up of the peace forces. News reports say flare-ups between the Mods and the Rockers of Britain can be predicted with almost perfect accuracy. Similar reports come through from certain areas in the States where certain holidays seem to call for specific areas to riot. And we're by no means free from this element in Canadian cities either. We heard the dismaying story of one teen-ager recently who tried to remain out of either of two rival gangs. Weary of being beaten up by both gangs, he finally joined one in desperation, and was safe from half of the beatings he had experienced before.

These outbreaks cost far too much to tolerate. They are dangerous to human life and safety, they result in heavy property damage, and this type of atmosphere must necessarily do damage to personalities. If it's true, as many people claim, that reduction of police forces to the danger level is responsible, then we can have no alternative but to set them up. If it's necessary for the public generally to form citizens' committees, or vigilante corps, or some sort of group to assist law forces, then this must be the course adopted. It is incredible that we should be willing to go to war to retain our right to live in peace, then lose that right by default within our own community.

Fighting servitudeness of their freedom over many centuries, men gradually built a community complex relatively free from depredations of footpads, thugs and gangs. If we don't enjoin the fight again mighty quickly, all their efforts will go down the drain.

Score for Douglas

Arguments are frequently heard favoring the two-party system of government for Canada, and deploring the problems caused by third party groups. Nearly always minority groups, the extra parties frequently seem . . . at least to some people . . . to cause more trouble than they're worth.

However, one of the best arguments for the splinter groups, and opposing the strict two-party system, was developed this week when NDP leader Tommy Douglas proposed a compromise solution to the near deadlock facing the Liberals and Conservatives over the flag issue. Leaders of both major parties had allowed themselves to be jockeyed into a position offering no retreat, and each displayed less imagination and less leadership than would have been hoped for in the process.

In order to get on with immediately pressing business, some escape route has to be found, one which could allow both leaders to move sideways without risking loss of face. And it had to come from an outside source. In this situation, Mr Douglas happily shone, and his proposals seemingly fill every requirement of getting both leaders off the hook. Indeed, if either does not now agree, he will risk the danger of losing face even more.

While the NDP and it predecessor, the CCF, have not generally met with a great deal of acclaim from the Canadian voter, they have over the years contributed more than their numerical proportion of capable and wise statesmen, and they have had . . . through men like Woodsworth, Coldwell, Knowles and now Douglas . . . often provided the thinking adopted a short time later by their associates in the majority.

A Bank for B.C.?

Developments in the Senate committee on banking last week would seem to indicate Premier Bennett of British Columbia will have little luck in his application for a charter for a Bank of British Columbia. The Social Credit government of the province, and no doubt a large number of its citizens, feel a bank based primarily on that province would play an almost incalculable role in helping develop the economy of the province. Rich in minerals, lumber, farm products, fish and many other commodities, Coast merchants feel they are struggling against "eastern interests" in their efforts to develop their own province.

We would suppose their assessment of the picture is probably fairly accurate. There is little doubt in our mind, for instance, that Albertans got maybe just a shade more generous treatment during the tight money days a few years back than did the residents of provinces not having a treasury branch system

Bennett doesn't want a treasury branch system if he can get a bank charter, partly because of powers possessed by banks, such as the power to monetize, and partly because its supporters hope the bank will help build an institution with branches ranging across the country and beyond. Under a treasury branch system, of course, he would be more or less restricted to his own province, in the same way Alberta's treasury branches are, unless, of course, the two provinces came to some sort of arrangement.

Whether it's a bank, a treasury branch, a trust company or some other system, though, B.C. is going to be moving into the field of finance one of these days. And our bet is that the move is right . . . it will provide one of the biggest assists to provincial development to come in half a century.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You park your car in front of the modest little suburban home and walk along the bricklayed driveway to the garage in the backyard. A young man (of a grease-covered overall) is leaning disconsolately against the battered (of) front fender of an old 1952 model car. He hardly raises his black oily hands on the front of his clothes then grappler your hand (with) identifies himself as Jim Marlon "I'm glad you answered my ad so quickly," he says. "I'm all in a hurry to get a deal." Andy Anderson . . . "I'm going to do it . . . a fish tish quarrel."

You step over the array of tools and auto parts lying on the ground about the car, walk past Marlon and stop at the door of the garage. Just inside the door lies the newly-(cut body of Andy Anderson. From the ghastly expression on the dead man's face and the dark bruises on his throat, you can see that he has been strangled. Your eyes leap to the blood-(stained) work bloody knife still (clutched in the dead man's right hand, and the fact there are no (other) marks or bruises anywhere else visible on the exposed parts of his body (only the bruise marks on his throat.

You finally turn back to Jim Mathis, and ask him for the story.

"Well, as I told you before, Andy and I were good buddies (Continued on Page 6)

Diary of a vagabond

(By Dorothy Barker)

"They can't miss"

I was standing with a group of friends the other evening, relishing the hot thigh of a barbecued chicken when a short lean gentleman approached me. I had noticed him before because among a crowd of close to a hundred persons he was the only guest in a grey flannel suit and tie. It was a casual affair and we all had donned jeans and sweat shirts anticipating the humid months ahead of us by ing our host's picnic hospitality.

"I understand you are a "crowd by fall half" and a writer" he commenced his conversation. Then he launched into a voluble discourse on his opinion of where refounding was headed. This gentleman, by the way, turned out to be the owner-operator of a very large chicken processing plant owned and operated by one of the most prosperous milling companies in Canada. Their freight bill for one day, from just this subsidiary alone, would match the average citizen's pay. Not to mention a transportation account for several executives, who I learned, prefer to make their business trips by rail. In fact he was in his immaculate and rather unexpected attire at a cook-out because he was leaving within an hour for the west (by train).

HARD COME BY

He strongly believed that the railways have the greatest period of prosperity ahead of them in their transportation history. Was he really being overly enthusiastic? Judging by my difficulty and those of several friends to make rail travel reservations in the past month, I could make a few predictions myself. Certainly this season there is a remarkable upsurge in not only sales but daily requests for information. A 1964 record could very well be established in long distance travel for all the years that lie between (rict on Sunday.

V-Day and today.

If we Canadians hearken to the plea of Pierre Delagarve, president of the Canadian Tourist Association and vice-president of passenger sales and services for the CN, and do our bit to promote his suggested "Canadian Meet Canadian" campaign, it could do a great deal in making a major contribution toward converting forces of division into forces of unity. The countries that have benefited to the largest extent from tourism are the European nations. Mr. Delagrave urges Canadians to know their own country and their countrymen better and to promote travel TO Canada.

Perhaps my picnic buddy had learned that CN expects more than 2,000 American tourists in organized tours of the Prairies and Rockies this summer. Artichoke, his enthusiasm was a very personal one. He was expressing appreciation, not only of freight handling experienced by his company, but concerning the on greatly improved passenger services the CN had implemented for the comfort and pleasure of its travellers.

If tourism can produce more dollars than the export of automobiles, why don't governments and woolens for Britain, cover 85% of Italy's trade with Canada be France's largest single dollar earner, why cannot this balance rate high on our business chart? Canada's share of the world's tourist market is unsatisfactory, we must remedy the situation", Mr. Delagrave said recently.

Mathis pauses to pull a soiled looking handkerchief from his top pocket and wipe the beads of perspiration from his sunbrowned forehead. "I'll ask him," the defense attorney says finally. "One little bit of evidence I've found inside me to believe this was not-and-not murder!"

Why do you believe this?

SOLUTION

If Jim Mathis had been interrupted while he was working on his car, and then struggled with Andy Anderson, as he described it, stealing the victim's right wrist with one hand and his throat with the other—there surely would have been grease, oil, dirt on both Anderson's wrist and throat, and even perhaps some bruises on the wrist. But you saw no marks of violence, no grease, anywhere on Anderson's person—only the bruises on his throat

Amisk Cr. Lutheran Church marks fiftieth anniversary

—2 charter members present—

In all places where Scandinavians began their struggle to make a home in a new country, there was a yearning for a house of worship. This yearning was felt by the oldtimers who settled in the Amisk Creek district east of Tofield. In the minds and hearts of these people was the steadfast hope for a church, no matter how small. Their dreams were finally realised when eight families joined to form a congregation, and built the Amisk Creek Lutheran Church in 1914. Father Jothen was the first minister at the church.

In the 50 years since that time the church has served the congregation and community well

MANY VISITORS

Strieslel welcomed the parishioners as well as visitors from many more districts as far away as Camrose and John B.C. Bjorklun, Mrs. I. Pedersen, Mrs. D. George, Mrs. H. Shultz and Mrs. N. Rambo. Mrs. Norman Patterson read the history of the church during the years since it was incorporated, and Mrs. Conrad Patterson the history of the Ladies' Aid. Mrs. Andy Hetherington was the organist.

Greetings were brought by Rev. S. T. Swanson, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada. Others who brought greetings were representatives from the sister Lutheran Churches in the Ryley Parish, Ryley congregation and Holden congregation; and from Bardo church of the Kingman Parish.

The Ladies of the Church prepared and served a bountiful luncheon during the time of fellowship which followed the service.

During the 50 years there have been many dedicated parishioners to tend their flock including the late Rev. Ingvald Bjone 1920 Pastor A. M. Vatne Lund, Osterud, Pastor Stirling Johnson, and Pastor Aalen have served. The present minister, Pastor M. A. Strieslel came to the parish in 1956.

According to Hoyle?

There seems to be room for a lot of consideration on the part of thoughtful people on what our parliamentary system is supposed to be and how it's supposed to behave. Most other parties and most of the press have been howling around Premier Manning's heels ever since he dismissed Mr. Hinman as provincial treasurer, demanding a full explanation.

Though we seem to stand alone, we're not at all sure this is called for, or warranted, or undesirable.

In the first place, the job of a party leader is to lead, and if Manning feels his team can play better with a new quarterback, then it's his decision, and he stands or falls on the success of most of his decisions . . . with or without explanations.

Certainly Manning is leader of the Social Credit party. It's open knowledge that thousands of voters cast their votes not because they appreciate the local candidate, but because he is the Manning candidate, and Mr. Manning is such a good leader. The demand to keep his team strong at all times is all the heavier because of this, but this doesn't mean that he must spell out in detail every line change he makes. This doesn't square with our sense of party responsibility. All we can really ask is that he give us better government than the leader of the next party can do.

The one thing upsetting in the whole picture is the objection raised by Edmonton's Mr. O'Dwyer, who says the premier is partly wrong in every one of his statements alleging attempted subornation of a cabinet minister. Manning may be partly wrong, but if he's even partly right . . . and Mr. O'Dwyer seems tactfully to accept this . . . there is an incredibly stinking situation which cries for more public inquiry and disclosure than the dismissal of a cabinet minister.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You enter the little cabin on the edge of a field and find two unmade beds on one side of the room. On the table are the remnants of a meal for a number of guests and dishes on the stove. Who stayed in the cabin at the center and what was the motive for the murder? Then look at the evidence and see if you can solve the crime. The solution is given at the end of the story.

Inspector Hutchings surveyed the scene. "Looks like a double-cross," he thought. "Let's see what the blood from the wound can tell us."

An optimist?

Father brought home logs for the fireplace in the trunk of the family car and as he was unloading them his fourteen-year-old asked:

"What are you gonna do, Dad, build a tree?"

CARE IN HARVESTING MALTING BARLEY

Mechanical damage to barley, during harvesting, frequently results in peeled kernels which are undesirable for malting purposes.

It will pay, therefore, to take every precaution to see that barley intended for malting is harvested at the right stage, is properly combined so as to prevent complete drying and scattering, and is carefully threshed so as to avoid the peeling and breaking of kernels.

MacDuff Ottawa Report

Third estate problems

OTTAWA (CP) — Behind the scenes in the House of Commons there is a group of men who have become a powerful force in the country's political life.

They are the members of the press gallery, the reporters who write the daily story of what happens in the Commons.

Their influence is not measured in votes, but in the power of the written word to mould public opinion.

PRESS GETS BLAME

Politicians frequently blame the press for their troubles. Some of the criticism is justified, some is not.

STILL CARRY GRUDGE

And there are politicians who still carry a grudge against the press gallery for its role in the Coalition Conscription crisis of 1944.

FLAMBOYANT REPORTING

The most flagrant case of flamboyant reporting in recent years was the Gouzenko affair in 1945. Gouzenko, a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy, defected with documents revealing a Russian espionage ring in Canada. The Soviet embassy demanded the return of the documents and Gouzenko and his family were given refuge by the RCMP.

FACE NEW CHALLENGE

A series of unruly minority parliamentary groups has taken on the role of the new third estate. They are a different reporting challenge to the old guard.

Parliament of the past . . .

The press gallery itself as a body of reporters has grown enormously. Over the Canadian years it was a churning group of 25 to 30 men from the various Canadian dailies who enjoyed a relaxed club-like atmosphere in their quarters on the Commons Hill.

Now the gallery quarters have ballooned into over-crowded offices for 70 reporters who have to arrive at their stories under conditions which are less than ideal.

The press gallery membership was increased by the addition of Pat Charette, a reporter from Montreal Chana who writes for the Nova Chine News Agency and brought along his own interpreter, Hsu Chiaochen.

NEW STYLE "PRESS"

The biggest group by far has been in the staffs of the Canadian newspapers for foreign correspondents but on the radio and television reporting. Electronic reporting is here to stay. Every press conference is a forest of microphones and tape recorders. This has had its own impact on the reporter who still uses pencil and typewriter.

As an institution, the press gallery realizes it faces serious problems. They'll have to be willing to the time of growth and kicks from the MP's down the hall. But that's probably far because Parliament is struggling with its own problems by the time of public discussion reflected in press criticism.

"OUR ALBERTA HERITAGE"
THE BANFF SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

One of the world's unique education centres is Alberta's Banff School of Fine Arts. When it started in 1933, the School offered only courses related to the theatre. Students numbered below one hundred. As the number of students slowly increased, other courses were included in the curriculum.

Today, courses in ballet, painting, television and radio writing, among others are taught to students from across Canada, United States, and many other countries.

School facilities, modern in every respect, are used by religious and lay bodies, businessmen, scientists, rural leaders, and many other groups and organizations.

The Banff School of Fine Arts has proved to be a springboard to fame for many. In London, New York, and at Canada's famous Shakespearian theatre in Stratford, you'll find artists, actors and musicians who have attended lectures at the School.

The success of the School of Fine Arts is a credit to the Albertans whose perseverance started a cultural centre in Banff which has become world-renowned.

That such men and women exist and help this province prosper, materially and culturally, is a credit to OUR ALBERTA.

Need public clamor

If MacKenzie King didn't originate the statement that politics is the art of the possible, at least he learned the lesson very thoroughly. So it seems a shame that today's Prime Minister has not been able to learn more of the same lesson than he seems to have done. The present flag tiresome indicates clearly he may have been a wonderful diplomat, but he's no politician.

There is a great deal of complaint from Parliament Hill about the lack of a summer recess, and present indications are that time is fast running out for any summer break. Well, there are lots of others in Canada's capital who won't get away from their chores, either, and we can't feel too sorry for the members who are only enjoying a stirky party game of politics, rather than realistically viewing the country's needs.

Present indications are that all groups are hardening their attitudes, when what is clearly needed is a movement sideways. Obviously neither Liberals nor Conservatives can back down now: their positions have been made far too inflexible, and only a sideways movement can save the developing impasse which could go so far as causing an election.

Nothing could be more ridiculous. There is really no reason why the flag issue absolutely has to be decided by this Parliament, and we submit that Parliament is misreading the temper of the public.

While we have not favored the elimination of the Red Ensign, we received an article recently covering the history of the three maple leaf design which indicates there is also a good deal of substance to its claim to being part of our history. But why has a good argument such as this . . . and we hope to print at least part of it for our readers soon . . . why has so little been said over the weeks when the issue has been confronting us all? Indeed, why has there been so little interest in it over all the past 100 years or more? Why, except for the absence of a Canadian press, mouthing a Canadian opinion?

One thing that proponents of the new flag should consider, and which may dismay proponents of the ensign, is that time seems to be on the side of the new design. We heartily disagree with pundits who claim that even today the weight of opinion is strongly in its favor . . . we think they are ignoring too many ensign supporters, or listening too much to the clamor of the young. But generally speaking, time seems to be on the side of change, and if the vote could be tabled at this time, without losing sight of the question, we venture to suggest the vote . . . in even ten years . . . would be strictly for the leaves.

But not today

by C. J. Morris

The strike called against the three Toronto daily newspapers by the International Typographical Union now involves pickets at locations of work. Printers' salaries in Toronto, in fact, are higher than those paid in any city in North America except New York; one of the Toronto papers has stated that its minimum pay is $146 for 35 hours of work. The role base in the demand by ITU headquarters in Colorado Springs that the typographical union have jurisdiction over the use, in all departments, of computer machines.

The newspapers wish to make use of "data processing centres," where computers will speed up such jobs as payroll processing, subscription fulfillment and customer billing. The computers will also be used to justify type; that is tape punched by ITU operators will be fed into the machines and the machines will fill out type lines and hyphenate words that break at the end of lines. After negotiations that extended through 22 months the union had agreed that computers could be used for type justification in return for the payment of a royalty on the amount the newspaper would be employed in data processing centres in relation to the time in which computers would be engaged in printing functions. Representatives of the Toronto printers accepted the proposals, but they were finally rejected by ITU headquarters. The union's executive council denounced that the entire operation of computers, including maintenance and repair, come under ITU jurisdiction.

The Toronto papers have recognized the concern of the printers' union for job security. The printers have been given typesetting functions. At least one paper has guaranteed that automation will not cost the job of a single member of the union in the two-year period following the introduction of any computer-operated equipment, that no employee will be laid off for the rest of the two-year period with regular severance pay at the rate of a week's wages for every five months of employment, plus $500.

It is obvious that the welfare and security of printers on the Toronto newspapers is not the prime concern of ITU headquarters. As has happened before notably in the dispute of a few years ago concerning employment of railway firemen on diesel locomotives it is a case of an American union headquarters using Canadian members to fight a battle so as to protect, and expand the power of the union executive in the United States

MacDuff Ottawa report — Streamlining parliament

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson has threatened that his Liberal minority government may be forced to bring into the Commons a Government motion to reform the rules of Parliament so that its business can be expedited. He warned that such a move would have to be made if the Commons all-party committee set up last February to look at the rules and regulations to try to streamline procedures failed to reach an agreement.

Mr. Pearson made the veiled threat in the Commons and later repeated it in a national television broadcast. This action, it taken by the Government, would involve the administration introducing a Government motion into the Commons to alter the parliamentary rules. It would provoke a lengthy and bitter debate and it would have to be passed by a majority.

HEATED CONTROVERSY

The last time this was done was during the famous pea and oil bill debate in 1913. The then Borden Government adjourned the debate, brought in a motion to amend the rules of the House and introduced the closure rule. The ensuing debate took two weeks in which strong words were hurled back and forth across the chamber.

Mr Pearson's threat has stirred up a controversy already. It was back in February that the House set up an all-party committee to examine Parliament's rules and recommend changes designed to make Parliament a more effective place to work. The committee is under the chairmanship of Mr Speaker Alan McNaughton.

There is a sub-committee of the main committee, on procedure. It is under the chairmanship of Stanley Knowles, New Democratic Party member from Winnipeg South Centre.

PLAN SOUND, BUT STILL BOGGED

That hard working sub-committee has come up with a plan for limiting Commons debate. The plan is understood to have received the stamp of approval from all party leaders. It was recommended to the main committee, but there it has bogged down. Little progress has been made in adopting it in the main committee, with the main opposition coming from the Progressive Conservatives.

The recommendations of the sub-committee would establish a five-member business committee of the Commons under the Deputy Speaker. This committee would be responsible for setting time limits on the debate of each stage of government-proposed legislation. The House would be required to approve or reject the business committee's report without debate.

Time limit recommendations of the business committee would have to be unanimously approved by all five members of the committee representing all five parties in the House. The Deputy Speaker would not have a vote in his positions as chairman.

ALLOCATE TIMES

The committee either on its own initiative or on written request from the Minister would consider the maximum period to be allotted to any stage or stages of debate. It would not deal with matters already on the order paper and it would not intervene with respect to any stage of debate after that stage had started.

The plan recommended to the main all-party committee under Mr. Speaker was a watered-down version of the original Knowles recommendation. In its original form a majority decision of the Conservative experts on the rules, to be binding, would have been sufficient for making a recommendation to the House. That change was made at the request of Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker. With that change all five leaders of the parties in the House gave their approval to the plan.

Mr Knowles has been careful to emphasize that what is proposed is not closure. It is a system for the House as a whole through party representatives to plan the time that should be allocated to debates of Government bills.

STILL SUSPECT

The plan put forward by the sub-committee was unanimously approved by it Members of the sub-committee came from the Liberal party—Knowles, Liberal Minister Mac Lachen, Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, Gordon Aiken (PC—Party Sound—Muskoka), Gerard Laloude (PC—Portneuf) and Gilles Grégoire (Social Credit—Lapointe).

The proposal of time allocation is a step forward. It will have the effect of finally adopting of procedure motions on end debates from dragging on and on, much longer than any party wants. But it is not certain that even this concession would go with surprise. The executive members of the sub-committee have put their stamp of approval on the plan. But Prime Minister Mitch Lubitch, one of the Conservative experts on the rules, is being cautious before stamping it "Go.

This hesitancy has frustrated Mr. Knowles. He thought a few of all party leaders could get to the plan that the way was cleared for its adoption. But such has not been the case.

Consequently it was agreed to send all aspects that Mr. Knowles heard Prime Minister Pearson speak with some exasperation about the all-party committee making little progress on time allocation. Said Mr. Pearson

If we cannot work this out through an all-party committee and that would be the best way of doing it then I think the Government will have to

Gail Kirkelund wins 4-H trip to Toronto Royal Winter Fair

Six years of hard work and enthusiastic effort in 4-H work was rewarded recently when Gail Kirkelund of the Ryley 4-H Dairy Club was selected as the only 4-H Dairy Club member in the province to represent Alberta 4-Hers at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair in November.

Gail won this award trip at the provincial eliminations held this spring at Olds where 165 4-H members competed for the honor of representing Alberta at the Toronto Royal. She will be accompanied on this trip by 13 other members representing other 4-H clubs.

These trips are awarded annually to outstanding 4-H members who have made meritworthy contributions to their club and are able to apply their knowledge against members from other clubs at the competitions in Olds

Gail was selected to represent Dairy Club members from this County at Olds where she was adjudged to have the top scoring club record. This was achieved in six years of membership in the Dairy Club and two in the Ryley Cloverbud Club. During this period Gail held several executive positions and won many club competitions which give her a very impressive club record

In winning this award Gail has upheld the Ryley Dairy Club reputation as being one of the most aggressive Dairy Clubs in the province In the early years of the club it was judging teams in Toronto and in competitions in Toronto and in 1958 Elaine Nord won the Toronto award trip making Gail the sixth member from the Ryley Club to go to Toronto This is a very envious record and the leader Mr. R. K. Westmacott and his adult counsellors can be justly proud of the club's achievements

NEW BRUNSWICK MINE ANNOUNCES PRODUCTION

Sometime during this year, barring unforeseen circumstances, the world will be the proud possessor of a new mine in Canada. It has been in the making for some time, but except for the occasional report, little has been heard of it. Now, however, the New Brunswick Mining and Smelting Company has announced that it will begin production in the fall of 1965.

The mine is located at Heath Steele Brook, about 40 miles north of Newcastle, New Brunswick, and will be a joint operation of the Noranda Mines Group and the Kennecott Copper Corporation. Ore reserves are estimated at 20 million tons, and the mine will produce 2,000 tons per day. Zinc, lead, copper, silver and gold will be recovered from the ore.

The mine will be developed by means of a shaft sunk to a depth of 1,000 feet. Ore will be hoisted to the surface and transported by truck to a concentrator at Newcastle, where the various metals will be separated. Concentrates will be shipped to smelters in Canada and the United States.

The mine will employ about 200 people, and the annual payroll will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Total cost of the project will be $15,000,000.

I had heard the usual gossip about production possibilities. This is bound to be exhausted from time to time with almost any mine operation, and has since the CN was building its 15 mile spur to the mine site at the end of some million and a half dollars, some of its largest construction projects last year. To move the lead and zinc ore concentrate I became quite excited at the prospects of having used this Mackenzie venture.

I respected the adamant "no" statement attitude of the executive who set opposite me that afternoon however, and I have not been rewarded by a news item from D. W. Lacombe, regional manager, public relations for the CN at Moncton.

PUBLIC MINING CONSCIOUS

Because of the recent stock market trading records the people of Canada are undoubtedly much more mining conscious than they have been for several years. Few of us are aware of the operations of our mines except as a series of figures in the columns of market quotations in our daily papers.

Too many of us are inclined to assess the Maritimes as a wilderness of pulpwood forests and coal mines which have been cleared from lack of markets for this commodity. Mining possibilities of vast resources have only just begun to be realized.

I believe even those who have never owned a speculative or blue chip stock in the entire lifetime will be interested in some of the questions from Mr. Lacombe even as I was upon reading them.

"The Bathurst Mining and Smelting development is one of the best large scale prospects to tap the rich massive mineral resources of northern New Brunswick which was discovered in the mid 1950's.

"The mine is scheduled to produce 2 000 tons of ore daily. Is a summer and present plans call for an expansion to 4 500 tons daily by fall.

"The main objective in the form of zinc prospects is rich and on CN railroads and should lend to Dalhousie where it is beyond the reach of the wharf to allow shipment to overseas markets. At Dalhousie the concentrate is unloaded by a pay-loader onto conveyor belts which carry it to the stockpile. Could not Noranda Mines Limited announce that the terminal for its 15-mile spur line has been named Brunswick Mines. Present railway traffic from the minesite 20 miles from Bathurst is having handled to its point from crews

Potash to be 2nd only to wheat as Canada export

Potash will place next to wheat as Canada's export in years to come, increasing from China exports by $17 million a year, 40 per cent, valued now, to $40 million to Canada and Saskatchewan.

Most of this potash production will come from Saskatchewan's largest industry", the Lieutenant governors and members of the Estevan Rotary Club were told recently by His Honor Judge N. R. McDonald of Weyburn and Estevan who attended the plant's official opening last fall.

Potash has an interesting history, and is necessary for both human and plant life. It was first discovered in 1862 and at that time used solely for pharmaceutical purposes. In Texas and New Mexico as in Saskatchewan it has been discovered while drilling for oil.

Ninety per cent of production is used in fertilizer. The remaining 10 per cent has a variety of uses - pharmaceutical, synthetic rubber, television batteries, china ware, detergents, anti-knock gasoline and automotive glass.

The plant six miles east and six miles north of Esterhazy mines potash from a bed 650 miles long extending from west of Saskatoon into Manitoba, and 30 miles wide in places. The potash seam is eight to 10 feet in depth.

ONCE A SEA

It is considered historically that there was once an inland sea at this level. 3,000 below the present ground level. The potash-salt accumulation developed from evaporation.

Reaching the potash level, 3,000 feet down, presented some major problems for the International Mineral Corporation. The Blairmore mine shaft, 1,240 feet down, compared locally of quite good, does not lend itself to comparing as the shaft goes down. It was therefore necessary to employ the German method known as "Sinking". This was started 150 feet above the Blairmore structure and continued to 50 feet below this structure.

BHC spent millions of dollars before even an ounce of potash was mined. Six million on the plant alone and more than that to mine potash, the potash seam. Now the potash ore is lifted up from 3,000 feet down in a minute and a half.

Long some indication of the demand for potash, Judge McDonald noted that in December the plant was 800 carloads in arrears on orders.

The plant employs 300 people with an annual payroll of $2 million. Most employees come from Western Canada. The company will pay $1,25,000 in property tax and royalties to the provincial government of $527,000 a year. BHC employees will spend $250,000 a year on groceries and comparative amounts on other commodities.

The Esterhazy development will provide $10 million a year in additional income for the railways companies. The federal and provincial government will share $360 000 annually in additional income tax revenue.

It will be one of the major industries of the dominion. Research is now under way to utilize the plant's salt by-product which as it now comes from the plant's tailings is not suitable for human consumption.

UNDERGROUND TUNNEL

Concluding, Judge McDonald noted a unique feature of the plant. All buildings, etc., on ground level are connected by a seven foot underground tunnel. This eliminates exposure to the elements, which in the present subzero period would have considerable significance.

"OUR ALBERTA HERITAGE"
CHIEF CROWFOOT - STATESMAN OF THE PLAINS
Long before white settlers came, there were great and proud men in Alberta. Such was Chief Crowfoot, born in a Blackfoot teepee near Gleichen in 1826. Chief Crowfoot was great on two counts - as a warrior and as a peacemaker. He could say, "Though our enemies be as strong as the sun, as numerous as the stars, we will defend our lodges." But Crowfoot was never the aggressor. He forbade stealing from other tribes, or scalping prisoners. He rejected bribes from Sitting Bull to join the Custer massacre in Montana. He energetically supported the 1877 treaty, and prevented war parties from attacking railroad men in Alberta. Proud and independent - - - a statesman and peacemaker - - - Chief Crowfoot and the Indian people have a lasting place in the heritage of OUR ALBERTA.

A & W president will go into the ministry

A booming drive-in restaurant business is helping Richard F. Bothe along the road to the ministry.

He came here from Missoula, Mont., eight years ago and established A & W Drive-Ins of Canada Ltd.

This year, at 33, he retired as president after seeing 138 drive-ins representing a capital investment of about $4,000,000 built in operation between Halifax and Victoria. One of them is located in Camrose.

For Mr. Bothe, who now has moved up from the presidency to chairman of the board, the drive-in enterprise had a purpose from the start.

"I guess I've had the ministry in my mind since high school," he says. "I was convinced I could serve the best if I could be a free-lance theologian. To be that, I had to have financial independence."

A & W, which operates internationally with each country franchised being its own franchise, had its beginnings in California in 1919. The Canadian head office is in Winnipeg.

FOUR YEAR COURSE

Mr. Bothe will study at the Religious Institute of Science of Mind at Los Angeles for four years. He says the course will be non-denominational a look at all religions and will include studies in psychology at the University of Southern California.

Although he has found a home in Pacific Palisades, Calif., the father of three says he will return to Winnipeg four times a year.

Once his studies are completed he will decide what he will do as a minister.

As for his experience in business: "A million-dollar-a-year business can be built on strict Christian principles," he says.

"We've had our problems, mind you. At times we may have done things more quickly or profitably had we taken an easier path. But day-to-day use of Christian principles is essential to the long-range measures. We think we have proven it."

Bardo WCTU has regular meeting

(Mrs. C. M. Rode)

BARDO, Aug. 19th. The August meeting of the WCTU was held at the home of Mrs. Mary Fenech on Wednesday afternoon. Only seven members were present on account of many away on holiday. Mrs. Mabel Johnson read from John 14 for devotion and a clip sheet was given by several members.

It was decided to find out when help might be needed for canning fruit at the Gwynne home for children and to go down at such a time.

The hostess served a delicious lunch at the close of the meeting.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Mabel Johnson on Wednesday afternoon Sept. 9th

The Entrepreneur

A story currently going the rounds tells of a smart young lad at the mail room of a large U.S. plant who was named to team up a collection to buy a gift for one of the bosses who was about to get married.

After extracting the usual quarter from nearly all the 2,000 employees in the plant he had $500 to spend. He used to buy 2,000 packs of cigarettes, the kind with a coupon on the back.

...ved, he traded the coupons for a silver coffee service, and this became the wedding gift. He then presented each of his 2,000 contributors with a pack of cigarettes. They, understandably enough, were pleasantly surprised to find themselves reimbursed.

Management, needless to say, got to hear of it and he was congratulated on his ingenuity.

"You're a bright boy," he was told. "we can use brains like yours in the front office. More than that, it was suggested, such cleverness as he had displayed was worthy of reward.

Bright boy, however, demurred. In all honesty he confessed, he had already been adequately rewarded.

Seems that he'd bought the cigarettes at a supermarket which dished out trading stamps. He'd got 5,000 of them and had pasted them in on a spending spree. Did you see it?

And now will all those pessimists who have been harboring grave doubts as to whether the younger generation is as private enterprise minded as their forebears please stop worrying?

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You are in the shabby little restaurant listening to the owner, James Morris, tell the story of the robbery which he phoned in to your headquarters about fifteen minutes ago.

"I was about ready to close up for the day, had just finished counting the day's receipts and was crouched in front of the safe there in the back of the room where I heard this hoarse voice in back of me say, "Put 'em up, fellow, and don't move. This is a stick-up, and don't you move or turn around, or I'll let you have it.

"You can believe me . . . after sticking up my hands, I didn't move a muscle . . . then I sounded like he means business. So there I was crouched on my knees on the floor in front of the safe, his gun rammed into my back. He reached around me and grabbed the money out of my hand . . . then, as cool as you please, he asks me how good my coffee is. I told him I never had any complaints, then I could hear him pouring himself a cup of coffee, then sipping at it . . . all the time wise-cracking and telling me I had brought him some good business for the day . . . finally he got real tough again . . . and told me not to move or he could count at least 25 . . . then I heard no more."

"How much did he get away with?" you ask

"Don't you keep a gun here?"

"Sure, in the cash register. But I didn't have a chance at it, and besides I ain't no hero . . . not with a gun jammed in my back. This guy was at least six foot two inches, and too tough-looking for me to handle."

"Are you insured?"

"Oh, sure . . . and am I glad of that! I operated for over a year without any insurance and finally took out a policy about five months ago. Lucky for me."

"I think it's lucky for the insurance company that they won't be compelled to pay out any money on this," you say, "I think this robbery of yours was faked!"

What makes you think this way?

A & W president will go into the ministry

A booming drive-in restaurant business is helping Richard F. Belle along the road to the ministry.

He came here from Missoula, Mont., eight years ago and established A & W Drive-Ins of Canada Ltd.

This year, at 33, he retired as president after seeing 118 drive-ins representing a capital investment of about $8,000,000 put into operation between Halifax and Victoria. One of them is located in Camrose.

For Mr. Belle, who now has vacated up from the presidency to chairman of the board, the drive-in enterprise had a purpose from the start.

"I guess I've had the ministry in my mind since high school," he says. "I was convinced I could serve the best if I could be a free-lance theologian. To be that, I had to have financial independence."

A & W, which operates internationally, with each country involved having its own firm, chose had its beginnings in California in 1919. The Canadian head office is in Winnipeg.

FOUR YEAR COURSE

Mr. Belle will study at the Religious Institute of Science of Yinel at Los Angeles for four years. He says the course will be non-denominational a look at all religions and will include studies in psychology at the University of Southern California.

Although he has found a home in Pacific Palisades Calif., the father of three says he will return to Winnipeg four times a year.

Once his studies are completed he will decide what he will do as a minister.

As for his experience in business: "A million-dollar-a-year business can be built on strict Christian principles," he says.

"We've had our problems, mind you. At times we may have done things more quickly or profitably but we taken an easier path. But days-to-day use of Christian principles is essential to the long-range prosperity. We think we have proven it."

Bordo WCTU has regular meeting

(Mrs C. M. Rude)

HARDO, Aug. 19th. — The August meeting of the WCTU was held at the home of Mrs. Mabel Fenerth on Wednesday afternoon. Only seven members were present as several were away on holidays. Mrs. Mabel Johnson read from John 14 for devotion and a collect was given by several members.

It was decided to find out when help might be needed for canning fruit at the Cayuse home for children, and to go down at such a time.

The hostess served a delicious lunch at the close of the evening.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mabel Johnson on Wednesday afternoon Sept. 9th

The Entrepreneur

A story currently going the rounds tells of a smart young lad in the mail room of a large U.S. plant who was named to take up a collection for a new gift for one of the bosses who was about to get married.

After contributing the usual quarter from each of the 2,000 employees in the plant he had files which he used to buy 2 000 packs of cigarettes, the kind with a coupon on the back.

Next, he traded the coupons for a silver coffee service, and this became the wedding gift. He then presented each of his 2,000 contributors with a pack of cigarettes. They, understandably enough, were pleasantly surprised to find themselves reimbursed.

Management, needless to say, got to hear of it and he was congratulated on his ingenuity.

"You're a bright boy," he was told "we can use brains like yours at the front office. More than that it was suggested such cleverness as he had displayed was worthy of reward.

Bright boy, however, demurred. In all honesty he confessed, he had already been adequately rewarded.

"Sir," he said, as he fought the cigarettes out of a supermarket which dished out trading stamps. He'd got 5 lbs of them — and he'd pasted them in an absorbing new fishing outfit.

And now all of these present, men who have been harboring grave doubts as to whether the younger generation is an reliable enterprise minded as their forebears please stop worrying!

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You are in the shabby little restaurant listening to the owner, James Morris, tell the story of the robbery which he planned in to your subscribers about fifteen minutes ago.

"I was about ready to close up for the day, had just finished counting the day's receipts and was crouched in front of the safe there in the back of the room when I heard this hoarse voice in back of me say, 'Put 'em up, fellow, and don't move. This is a stick-up, and don't you move or turn around, or I'll let you have it.

"You can believe me . . . after sticking up my hands, I didn't move a muscle . . . but sounded like he meant business. So there I was crouched on my knees on the floor in front of the safe, his gun rammed into my back. He reached around me and grabbed the money out of my hand . . . then, as cool as you please, he asks me how good my coffee is. I told him I never had any complaints, then I could hear him pouring himself a cup of coffee, then sipping at it . . . all the time wise-cracking and telling me I had brought him some good business for the day. Finally he got real touch and told me not to move until I could count up to 25 . . . then I have to call the police.

"How much did he get away with?" you ask.

"Between three and four hundred dollars."

"Don't you keep a gun here?"

"Sure, in the cash register. But I didn't have a chance at it, and besides I ain't no hero . . . not with a gun jammed in my back. This guy was at least six feet two inches, and too tough-looking for me to handle."

"Are you insured?"

"Oh, sure . . . and am I glad of that! I operated for over a year without any insurance and finally took out a policy about five months ago. Lucky for me."

"I think it's lucky for the insurance company that they won't be compelled to pay out any money on this," you say. "I think this robbery of yours was faked!"

What makes you think this way?

SOLUTION

Morris told you that the "robber" was behind him, and that all through the incident he was not permitted to move. Therefore, he could not have known that the robber was six feet two inches tall, and tough-looking. Northwestern comes to the resuce . . .

western's No. 2 Viking-to-Edmonton transmission line. The serious water shortage in the communities was evident earlier this spring as the level of the storage reservoir dropped to an all-time low.

Tofield's Mayor W. H. Freeburn contacted Associate Engineering Services Limited, designers of the town's sewer and water supply. This firm appraised the situation and determined that an additional water source would have to be located and the water transported to the town's reservoir which normally holds two years water supply for the community.

Tofield is located near to Beaver Hill Lake which appears as a good-sized body of water to the eye but is very shallow and has a high alkali content making it unsuitable for drinking purposes.

LAKE WANHAM USED

Lake Wanham, a smaller lake about 10 miles west of the town, seemed to be the answer if some economical method of transporting the water could be devised. The mayor and the engineering firm contacted Northwestern Utilities, Limited whose four main Viking-to-Edmonton transmission lines run a half mile to the south of Lake Wanham. It was proposed that the water could be piped from the lake to the transmission lines and one of the gas lines could be utilized to transport the water a further 10 miles to Tofield, avoiding the town's water problems.

Northwestern agreed to assist the community by making their No. 3, 16-inch line available for this purpose.

The water resources branch of the provincial government supplied 7-inch, thin-wall, aluminum irrigation pipe. This was laid on the ground from the lake to Northwestern's Deville valve house where Northwestern crews had it in to the 16-inch gas line which has been taken out of normal operation for this particular project.

1,250 GPM PUMPED

At the lake shore, a small reservoir was constructed and screening constructed to filter weeds and debris. The water was pumped from this reservoir unit utilizing an 85 horsepower diesel tractor. Dedrick Contracting Company of Crossfield was retained to supervise the pumping operation over the period it would take to pump an estimated one and one-half million Imperial gallons of water per day from the lake to the reservoir. At the reservoir end of the line, Northwestern's transmission department crews removed a section of the main line and installed a connection which diverted the water from the line into the creek which flows through the town of Tofield.

Pumping operations were removed July 31 and Associate Engineering's project engineer, Dr. J. H. Simmonds estimated 25 days' pumping would be required to bring the reservoir up to the desired level.

RYLEY, TOO

The community of Ryley, also experiencing a serious shortage of water, requested that the emergency system be made available to pipe water to this village. Alcan Northwesters agreed to extend the use of their transmission line for this purpose.

Dr. Simmonds accompanied a Courier reporter to the site of the project and while explaining the engineering problems involved, noted that it would have been economically unfeasible to transport sufficient quantities of water the total distance using the temporary 7-inch pipeline. Northwestern's willingness to make their line available for the project, without cost, saved the day for the affected communities.

Northwestern has served the communities of Tofield and Ryley with natural gas since 1925.

BOYS' JEANS

Polite society may express dismay, but a boy's mother knows an ally when she sees one. When keeps the output of boys' dungarees around 60 million pairs a year is dependent mostly on their usefulness and durability throughout the years of boyhood.

Considered superficially in the light of this fact, jeans may look pretty much alike. However, in put maximum wear-ability there are some basic decisions to be made in shopping for jeans.

A little Nylon goes a long way

Boys of different shapes, ages and habits finish off their jeans in different ways. There is the lawn grinder, the soul thinner and the pocket ripper.

It has been found that a denim's resistance to tearing and tearing (under pressure of knees or bulging pockets) depends almost solely on fabric weight.

Resistance to abrasion also increases with fabric weight but it is also enhanced by the presence of nylon.

A 13 to 14 oz. blend of cotton and nylon gives longest wear, followed in descending order by 13 to 14 oz. cotton, 10 to 11 oz. cotton-nylon, 10 to 11 oz. cotton. This rule should be applied with reference to your possible desire for a cooler or more flattering lighter weight denim, especially for the small child. Look at the label for fabric weight and fiber content in shopper's guide.

A good pair of jeans should in addition to satisfying fabric needs, have the following features:

a Waistband. The top of the jeans should be made up of a one-piece waistband of double layer fabric. The ends of this band, where it closes over the fly, should be folded back and stitched down, not merely finished with a row of stitching.

b Pockets. The stability of each pocket should be reinforced with a bar tack or rivet at each end. Inspect all rivets for pulling or surrounding fabric for re-seal sloppy insertions.

The bottom seam of a side pocket is less likely to break open if a French seam is used rather than an overcast plain seam. Have your boy jam his hands into the side pockets as a check of their roominess.

c The Fly Zipper The zipper in jeans should be one-piece inch wide and should be of brass, or be chromium-plated, rather than of aluminum. The pull tab should be self-locking. The zipper tape should be double-stitched to the fabric and the fly bottom should be reinforced by two bar tacks or rivets not just one. Of course the zipper should open wide enough for its purpose.

d Seams. Look for double or triple rows of seam stitches wherever stress is likely and that include the crotch, the outside and inside of each leg, and the waist. Also notice the kind of fabric layers especially in the crotch seam. Seam allowances should have selvedge, overcast or turned-in edges. They hours should be rugged by secured to the waistband.

e Fabric inspection. Look for uniform color and texture; and make sure the denim is not too stiff or bulky if the jeans are for a lot. Important things to watch for are yat-dyed and pre-shrunk fabric.

f. Do they fit? Western style jeans fit snugly; sacrificing the growth room you might want in more expensive children's clothes. But there should be several inches of turnup cuff to allow for vertical spreading and also a little room in the crutch.

WARNING TO MOTHERS

Even if they are vat-dyed, jeans leave the wash water blue as here them aside for the dark wash. Whether the jeans are vat or dry, color may rub onto other fabrics, so don't let your son sit in the white chair!

LIFE FOREVER is theory advanced by Robert C. Ettinger of Detroit. He says people should be put in deep freeze at death so they can then be restored to life at some future date, when science has conquered death.—TNS Photo.

Tofield United Church is scene of Wood - Miller rites

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Tofield United Church at 3 p.m. on July 4th, when Gloria Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller of Camrose, was united in marriage to John Edwin Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lester Wood of Tofield. The Rev. Mr. McDonald officiated.

The church was decorated with red and white gerbera, and small climbers of tiny red and white flowers. Mrs. Anne Aasefloat presided at the organ. Mrs. Melba Wall was soloist during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown, styled with bell-point sleeves. She wore a chapel veil held in place by a pearl pearl and crystal tiara and carried a cascade bouquet of red-tipped roses. Her only jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants were Miss Barbara Nahrwold of Round Hill, Mrs. Margaret Hevenstein of Tofield, and Miss Linda Miller of Onoway, sister of the bride. The attendants were gowns of pink, yellow and mauve respectively, with bouquets of white carnations. Judy Eliason, from Newbrook, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink organza dress and carried a basket of pink roses and white baby's breath.

The groom was supported by Victor Rudzeil. Allen Ferguson and Donald Wood, all of Tofield.

The mothers of the bride and groom received at a reception which was held at the Tofield Community Hall.

Mrs. Miller chose a dress of light blue peary with white accessories for her daughter's wedding and wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses. Mrs. Wood chose a suit of beige lace with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Centering the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with white and pink roses and silver leaves, topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of white.

The reception was followed by a dance with music supplied by the Cardinals from St. Albert, after which the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Jasper, Banff, and parts of British Columbia.

For travelling, the bride chose a suit of yellow linen with beige accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow orchids.
